SENATE UNDOES BUDGET CUTTING VOTED BY HOUSE

Million Added by Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—The appropriations committee of the Republican senate administered another check today to the economy program of the Democratic house. Although the house is proceeding gingerly to reduce government expenditures and had cut the appropriations for the state, justice, commerce, and labor departments only five millions below the President's budget estimates, the senate committee restored one million of the amount the house sought to save.

The bill as it passed the house carried appropriations aggregating $124,215,992. As reported to the senate by its appropriations committee today it carries $125,233,505. This amount is only $4,550,621 below the 1933 estimates and $13,768,199 below the 1932 expenditures.

Blocks Cut in Personnel.

As in the case of the previous appropriation bills, the committee struck out the provisions of the house bill prohibiting promotions of personnel and the filling of vacancies, by which means it was intended to bring about a gradual reduction of the size of the bureaucracy.

The commerce department is the chief beneficiary of the senate committee's generosity. It is allotted $565,302 more than it received in the house bill. Of this amount $225,000 is for air navigation facilities, $200,000 being for a northern route from Minneapolis and St. Paul to Puget Sound and $25,000 for the route between Boston and Albany.

The bureau of mines gets $189,615 more than the house allowed. The committee allotted increases of $5,000 for investigation of mine accidents, $29,000 for testing fuel, $32,185 for mineral mining investigations, $75,000 for oil and gas investigations, and $48,430 for studies in economics in mineral industries.

Several Items Restored.

The committee restored to the bill $284,500 which the house had disallowed the department of justice, $275,000 of this amount being for a hospital for defective delinquents at Springfield, Mo., and $9,500 for federal jails.

The state department gets an additional $275,000 of which $100,000 is for "emergencies arising in the diplomatic and consular service," $50,000 for post allowances to foreign service officers, and $75,000 for entertainment expenses of embassies and legations.

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce got $15,000 more for a foreign trade specialist on tobacco and $7,000 for a list of foreign buyers.

The committee voted only two decreases in house appropriations. One was a $100,000 cut in the allowance for the children's bureau of the labor department. The other was a reduction of $7,289 in the expense of delegates to the interparliamentary union.

The state department sought to get the house appropriations of $25,000 entertainment allowance for our diplomats raised to $125,000, the amount allotted this year. Wilbur Carr, assistant secretary of state, urged the committee to grant the $100,000 increase.

ASK BALANCED BUDGET

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—In a report to the house today explaining and defending the provisions of the billion dollar tax increase bill the ways and means committee emphasized the financial plight of the federal government and the consequences of a failure to balance the budget in the year beginning July 1 next.

If the government should continue to meet the deficit by borrowing its credit would be seriously impaired, according to the committee. In order to raise the 1 billion 241 millions necessary to make both ends meet next year it became necessary, the committee told the house, to impose a 2¼ per cent manufacturers' sales tax to yield half the amount required, for the reason that the depression has dried up the income tax source of revenue.

To "soak the rich" more heavily than the doubled tax on their incomes provided by the bill would not produce more revenue, the committee reported.

No Limit on Income Tax.

While the manufacturers' and most of the other special excise taxes are to terminate June 30, 1934, the committee called attention to the fact that no time has been placed on the in

RIOTS IN BERLIN ON EVE OF VOTE FOR PRESIDENT

Fascists, Reds Clash; 30 Are Injured.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 9.—As a prelude to the election next Sunday, when Germany will pick a new president for a seven year term, serious rioting broke out here today. About 200 communists and the same number of National Socialists [Hitlerites] clashed. Thirty persons were injured before police stopped the fight. Sixty-one persons were arrested.

The riot started in front of the newly built labor office in northeast Berlin, where thousands of jobless were awaiting doles. Communist and Fascist soap box orators were competing to win the favor of the disgruntled men and women waiting in the snow and sleet. The agitators worked up their feelings to the extent that the free-for-all resulted.

Campaign Grows Hot.

The preelection fever is beginning to grip all Germany. A giant Fascist massmeeting was held in the Lustgarten this afternoon. "The Nation to Arms" was the burden of one of their songs, echoing from the walls of the ex-kaiser's palace, as young Nazimen stamped past with their red, white and black swastika banners flying. Joseph Goebbels, Adolf Hitler's right hand man, was the main speaker. He declared that happiness is in store for Germany if it elects Hitler. Nazi airplanes circling overhead dropped propaganda leaflets.

A Republican airplane also was in action. At first it tried to drown out Goebbels' speech, then it threw down leaflets reading, "Elect von Hindenburg," which landed in the heart of the Hitlerite meeting.

The Hohenzollern princes also are increasing their activity. The Nazi prince, August Wilhelm, spoke today at Potsdam. He attacked von Hinden burg for failing to restore old times during his presidency. Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm was conspicuous in the audience. Previously he had been displaying himself prominently at the meetings of the steel helmet candidate, Lieut. Col. Theodor Duesterberg. Prince Eitel Friedrich and Prince Oscar continue to show themselves as drawing cards at the steel helmet meetings.

Seize Fascists with Bombs.

BERLIN, March 9.—(AP)—Some uneasiness developed today about the possibility of a forcible uprising by Adolf Hitler's National Socialists in the event the presidential election next Sunday goes against them.

This uncertainty was based on two developments. At Ludwigshafen two Hitlerite engineers, Theodore Eickel and F. Kemmet, were arrested, charged with illegally manufacturing eighty bombs. The second factor was an editorial threat in the nazi organ at Halle to the effect that there must not be a second ballot, even if Sunday's election brings no absolute majority.

To counteract the anxiety, police chiefs assured the population that their men were ready to prevent illegality in any form. Gustave Noske, who as minister of defense in the earliest days of the German republic put down communist uprisings with an iron hand and who now is provincial governor in President Paul von Hindenburg's home town of Hanover, was especially outspoken in his determination to quell any disturbances by force.

Newspapers have been forbidden to post election results in their windows next Sunday or to project them on lantern screens.

Citizens have been urged to sit in the safety of their homes and listen to election results over the radio.

Expect Big Ballot.

It is estimated that 80 per cent, or about 35,200,000 voters, will distribute their ballots among the four candidates. President von Hindenburg and Adolf Hitler are the favorites. The Nationalist, Theodor Duesterberg, and the communist, Ernest Thaelmann, are regarded as outsiders.

In compliance with the presidential election law, the candidate who polls half the votes cast is elected. If the estimates prove accurate, either Von Hindenburg or Hitler would have to poll 17,600,000 votes to win on the first ballot.

If none of the candidates gets half of all the votes cast then a second ballot is taken. In this election the candidate who gets the largest number of votes over any competitor is elected. The date of this possible second election has been set for April 10. It is generally expected that one ballot will be enough and that President von Hindenburg will be reelected.

Sale of liquor has been banned for the twenty-four hours of March 13.

COUNCIL ASKED TO APPROVE PLAN OF SUN BATHERS

The city council was urged yesterday to provide facilities for sun bathers on Chicago beaches. The proposal was hedged about, however, with restrictions designed to mollify sniffish ladies and gentlemen who have sniffed at the carryings on of nudist cults in Germany and elsewhere in Europe.

A resolution, introduced by Ald. George A. Williston [49th], would authorize Arne L. Suominen, 3619 Southport avenue, designated the spokesmen for a large group of citizens interested in sun bathing, to build an enclosure for that purpose on the Rogers Park beach. It was provided that the enclosure should be of sufficient height "to obstruct any view of the interior from nearby buildings or other vantage points," and that it should be divided by a wall into separate spaces for men and women.

The matter was referred to the committee on parks and playgrounds. Aldermen said that if it is approved later by the council they would ask that the building commissioner subject Mr. Suominen's enclosure to a special inspection for knotholes.

HANGS HIMSELF AFTER GETTING $286 TAX BILL

When a real estate tax bill for $286 was received yesterday by John Progdiuska, 42 years old, 4732 South Avers avenue, he went to the basement of his home and hanged himself to a steam pipe. The tax bill was found near his body.

Progdiuska had told his wife that he did not know how he was to pay the tax. He had been out of work for some time, she said, and he had difficulty in collecting the rent of the two story flat building he owned and in which he lived. His life's savings were invested in the building, the widow said, and he had been unable to meet the payments on the mortgage.

Progdiuska was the father of one child, Helen, 2 years old. His widow has three children by a former marriage.

700 FISHERMEN DRIFT TO SEA AS ICE FLOE BREAKS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 9.—(AP)—An icebreaker left Helsingfors late tonight to search for 700 fishermen reported to be adrift on an ice floe somewhere in the eastern part of the Gulf of Finland. Airplanes are expected to join in the search tomorrow.

The fishermen, who had 100 horses with them, had been fishing for two days through the ice along the coast, when a storm broke a huge floe away from the shore and carried the party to sea. The storm then broke the floe into smaller pieces, which were driven far out into the gulf.

The men and horses are feared to have suffered severely, as their provisions were scanty and they were not sufficiently clothed to withstand the bitter cold for long.

Death Takes 'Joker Jimmy' from the Loop

A death certificate was made out at the county hospital yesterday for James Hennessey, 61 years old, 348 North State street. Not many people knew him by the name of Hennessey, but as "Jimmy the Joker," for forty years a newsboy in the loop, he was known to thousands.

Last Saturday Jimmy slipped and fell on the stairs leading to a basement barber shop near his place of business, a lamp post on the northeast corner of Madison and Clark streets. He suffered a fracture of the skull and it caused his death.

When they learned of this, many members of the Chicago Newsboys' association made inquiries about seeing that Jimmy got a decent burial, but Mrs. Mary Flanagan, 4449 Monroe street, a long time friend, said she would take care of that. Jimmy left a $10,000 insurance policy for her.

Makes Fortune; Gives It Away.

Jimmy is said to have made more than $100,000 selling newspapers, but he is supposed to have died a poor man, with the exception of two homes he owns in Los Angeles. He bought these for his two sisters, who died during the war, and held on to them just as he held on to his horse, Babe, until he died two years ago.

Jimmy had too many friends to hold on to his money. They were always making a touch. Ben Franklin, who worked for Jimmy twelve years at the out of town newspaper stand on the northwest corner of State and Monroe street, told yesterday how Jimmy gave a man with a family $1,500 to pay off the mortgage on his home.

"I asked him why he didn't take a promissory note," said Franklin, "but Jimmy said 'O, he's all right.' That's the way Jimmy was. Always giving something away. He gave this stand to me and my partner, George Vater, six years ago."

Pioneer in Out of Town Papers.

Jimmy started the out of town newspaper stand about twenty years ago. It was so people from Topeka or Syracuse could get their home town papers, and it was the first place of its kind in Chicago. Later he opened one at 80 West Madison street.

For the last ten years he sold nothing except turf newspapers at the Clark and Madison lamp post. He hung them on the post, and was said to be the only man in Chicago who could get away with it, because "Hinky Dink" Kenna took care of him.

The race track followers gave Jimmy his name, because he always had a joke when they bought a form sheet from him. He always had a horse, too, and the players sometimes wondered which was the better joke. But they pretended to take Jimmy's handicapping seriously, and many a player would never place a bet without first buying a sheet from Jimmy for luck. Many of them would slip him a dollar.

Babe a Topic for Kidders.

They kidded Jimmy a great deal about Babe, the horse. They said that for years he kept the animal in his apartment after Babe was no longer needed to pull the newspaper wagon from the postoffice to State and Monroe. But this was not true; Jimmy boarded the horse on Illinois street.

Jimmy came from Buffalo forty years ago. He was ruddy faced and stocky of build, with a quick working Irish tongue. He didn't care much about his clothes, and for that reason he walked through dark alleys with a huge roll of bills in his trousers without fear of stickup men. He will be buried tomorrow in Mount Carmel cemetery after services in St. Mel's church.

THIEVES DIVERT $20,000 BOUND FOR MONTE CARLO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, March 9.—A gang of thieves operating on the crack Riviera express train from Paris cheated the Monte Carlo casino out of $20,000 in "sucker" money last night. The bandits extracted that amount from several distinguished travelers who otherwise might have been tempted to squander it on the red or black.

Among the victims was Col. Louis Jacques Balsan, husband of Consuelo Vanderbilt, who lost a little more than $100. It was snatched out of his trousers pocket while he was in the sleeping compartment.

Other principal victims were Mrs. Howard de Walden, wealthy Briton living in Belgrave square, London, and her sister, Mrs. Humphrey Butler. They were robbed of $120 in cash and more than $20,000 worth of jewels.

OUTLAWS FEAR MEETING FOR RANSOM ACCEPTANCE

MAN OF MYSTERY REVEALED LEADER OF SECRET MOVES

BY WARREN HALL.

[Copyright: 1932: By New York News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

New York, March 9. — [Special.] — Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. is alive and well. All that delays his return to his parents are the final arrangements for insuring the safety of the kidnapers.

This was learned tonight from an unimpeachable source close to Col. Lindbergh's family.

The Arabian Nights story behind the secret negotiations with the abductors centers about a character so strange, so mysterious, that even the Lindberghs scarcely know more than his name.

His name is Morris Rosner. His connections extend into the underworld so that he was able to select Salvatore Spitale and Irving Zitz as intermediaries—and induce them to accept.

One Sponsor in Cabinet.

But his affiliations also reach upward far enough into the affairs of the nation that his three sponsors to Col. Lindbergh included a cabinet member and a member of congress.

"This man is your best hope," Lindbergh was told, and the quest for the baby was given into Rosner's hands.

Morris Rosner moved into the Lindbergh home on the second day after the kidnaping. He wasted no time. Out went the state troopers —into the garage. In went Rosner's men, into one wing of the house.

It is this thin-faced, sharp-eyed man who has kept up the hopes of the Lindbergh family through the dreary hours and days of fruitless police endeavor. It is the work of this man that has established contact with the men who are holding Charles Jr. for at least $50,000—and possibly as much as $500,000.

Breckinridge His Aid.

Col. Henry S. Breckinridge, gray haired counsel of the Lindberghs, has become his shadow. In and out of the Lindbergh home they glide in a big black Packard car, now to the lower east side of New York, now to Trenton, again to some secret spot that neither the police nor Lindbergh himself knows.

These two, photographed together last Monday by the New York News, were photographed once more today en route to another rendezvous.

Today's meeting had been counted on to clear away the final obstacles in the baby's return. But the plans fell through.

Rosner is understood, however, to be undiscouraged. He recognizes that the most critical part of the negotiations is the first actual meeting of the kidnapers' go-between and himself. The hazard for the kidnapers—at least from their own point of view—will then be extreme.

May Be Days—or Hours.

There will be other meetings—soon. Every hour that the child is held prisoner increases his value to the kidnapers, but also increases his danger to them. The final pact cannot be many days away—it may even be a matter of hours.

And after it is all over Morris Rosner will retire once more into the borderland between the nation's invisible empire and the nation's ruling class. He emerges rarely. He appeared long enough to be named by Woodrow Wilson as a special agent for the government in one famous wartime criminal case. He rendered an invaluable service and then he was gone.

Many of the exploits in Rosner's colorful life are related in Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's book, "Come Alone," which gives him the name of Rensor and lends support to his claims that he has contacts, if not connections, with Detroit's notorious Purple Gang and similar racketeer outfits in Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco, and other big cities.

PARIS SEXOLOGY GROUP AIMS FOR A BETTER RACE

PARIS, March 9.—The inaugural session of the newly organized Sexology society was held in the amphitheater of the Paris faculty of medicine today with many noted medical men and French officials attending.

The meeting was presided over by Camille Blaisot, minister of health, and addressed by Prof. Achard, Dr. Toulouse, and Justin Godart, former minister of hygiene.

The society's purpose is to study sex problems from a biological point of view. The health minister announced the government's special interest in its work on questions of betterment of the race.

Revenge Is Theory for the Seizure of Wealthy Child.

BULLETIN.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

Hopewell, N. J., March 9.—Although Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has taken every possible step to negotiate directly and confidentially with the kidnapers of his son, it was learned tonight in an apparently reliable quarter that the abductors have informed him they did not feel it yet safe to deal with him further.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby moved into a long, intensive campaign tonight as the best efforts of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's bids for personal contact and the flurried, ununified hunt of the police appeared to have reached a stalemate.

COL. A. N. SCHWARTZKOPF. [Acme Photo.]

The New Jersey authorities continued to report "progress," Col. Lindbergh appeared "cheerful" to those who saw him walking with his wife about the grounds of his Hopewell estate, but there was no tangible evidence that the eight days of constant activity had brought any authentic information concerning the whereabouts of the Lindbergh heir or of his abductors.

Late his afternoon Col. A. N. Schwartzkopf, who has been directing the police search, issued a new appeal for the "coöperation of our entire law abiding population" and said that "this case is of such magnitude that we must have the assistance of all who know anything about it or who can render any practical assistance."

Governor Is Confident.

Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey reiterated his "absolute confidence" that the baby would "come back alive and safe," but said he had no inside information on which to base his hope.

Col. Schwartzkopf, too, said "we have every reason to believe that the baby is still alive and well," but he offered no explanatory detail.

Meanwhile the activities of the state troopers in the region adjacent to the Lindbergh home indicated they had completed a cycle in the search and were beginning over. All clews, both those pursued by Col. Lindbergh and by the police, seem to have failed.

Five carloads of troopers, each car carrying from two to four blue clad men, began an intensive search of the wild and rocky region to the north and east of the Lindbergh home. There had been a frantic search the night of the kidnaping through the fields and groves nearest the house, but the hill country has never been thoroughly canvassed, it was admitted.

Revenge Theory Advanced.

The troopers, under the leadership of Capt. J. J. Lamb, sought out abandoned huts, peered into the homes of the uneducated, primitive people who make their living chiefly by trapping and farming, asked questions, and went on their way. It is believed they were working on the assumption that some disgruntled farmer, embittered at the sight of Col. Lindbergh's luxurious home nearby, had stolen the child for an imagined revenge.

The hill people, however, to a man insisted that every active resident would turn out for the search the moment the police asked aid. They were afraid, they said, to look for the baby unless told to do so.

There also was a well supported belief that the hill hunt had to do with the identification of the kidnapers' ladder as having come from an epileptic village ten miles from Hopewell.

The buzz of activity which centered about Col. Lindbergh's home last night was greatly lessened tonight. Mrs. Lindbergh, despite continued reports that she is near a breakdown, left the house this afternoon to walk outside with her mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Mrs. Henry Breckinridge, wife of the Lindbergh attorney and personal adviser.

The search of the wooded hills and the ladder provided the only publicly known outlet for police activity from the Hopewell base. Col. Lindbergh permitted no authentic word to be sent out regarding his private attempts to obtain the release of his son from his captors.

Two physicians, whose names were not made public, visited the home of Col. Lindbergh late today. Col. Schwartzkopf declared they had a theory on the kidnaping that had already been disproved and emphatically denied they had been summoned to attend Mrs. Lindbergh.

Only Tangible Clew.

The ladder, the only tangible clew of which the public knows, has been identified as almost certainly made of the waste pieces of North Carolina pine used in the building of a New Jersey state epileptic home located about 10 miles from the Lindbergh estate.

Denials that the lumber came from the epileptic colony have come from the authorities, but, for that matter, it is almost certain now that directly conflicting answers to almost every question are being made purposely in order to spread a welter of confusion about the case, the theory being that the kidnapers will read the papers and be assured that the Lindberghs are giving out no real information.

The trek through the Sourland hills by the troopers bore witness to the importance the police attach to the ladder as a clew. Capt. Lamb, who has been on duty at the Lindbergh house ever since the kidnaping, led the troopers through the fields and woods. They were scattered over the narrow roads and trails that are hardly passable except afoot or on horse.

The search was most systematic in the villages of Zion, Wertsville, Montgomery and Neshanlic. Troopers worked through the towns in groups of three searching every vacant house, shack or shed.

More New Rumors.

A new crop of sensational rumors has begun to spring up. One, credited to "a person in close touch with the Lindberghs," said that the colonel has known for several days where the baby is hidden and that he opened negotiations with the kidnapers early Sunday night. This informant professes to have information that the baby is held prisoner on a boat somewhere off the Jersey coast.

Another rumor originating last night in Boston and gaining circulation throughout the country today was that the Lindbergh baby had been returned to its parents Sunday night and that Col. Lindbergh had promised the kidnapers to withhold publication of the fact for 72 hours in order to give them a chance to escape.

Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, it was reported, had said he had been "reliably" informed by an unnamed New York broker who had in turn been informed by an insurance man "close to the family."

The Lindbergh family and the police emphatically denied the report and a statement was made that "in event the baby is returned to its parents the information will immediately be released to the Trenton press headquarters and nowhere else."

Curley Denies Statement.

Maj. Charles A. Schoeffel of the state police said definitely that the baby was not in Hopewell nor Englewood, the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, grandmother of the stolen child. He said the state authorities had no knowledge of any such report. At Boston Mayor Curley was said to have denied ever repeating such a rumor.

Rumors that the baby might be returned to the Morrow home in Englewood caused a hundred reporters to set up a camp outside the estate today. Nothing unusual, however, appeared to be going on inside. There were police guards at all entrances. Miss Elizabeth Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's sister, drove out for a short while this afternoon. Arthur Stringer, Mrs. Morrow's secretary, spent about two hours in the home. Mrs. Morrow remained at Hopewell with her stricken daughter Anne.

The "progress" reported last night by the police was continuing, according to official statements this afternoon, but in what direction was not revealed. The daily crop of questions asked at Trenton and Hopewell headquarters brought little information of value. The statement of Col. Schwartzkopf appealing to the entire country to renew its watchfulness tended to discount any belief in an actual impending break in the case.

Reports Are Conflicting.

There were conflicting reports concerning Mrs. Lindbergh. The former Anne Morrow was seen walking on the terrace in the Lindbergh estate only an hour after Col. Schwartzkopf had stated in a press interview that "the present condition of Mrs. Lindbergh's health is one where we cannot interfere with the privacy of the family."

"The main purpose of all our actions," continued the police officer in his first face to face interview with members of the press in recent days, has been to obtain the return of the Lindbergh baby alive."

Questions about the Lindbergh family were showered upon him during his brief visit to the Trenton office, but Col. Schwartzkopf said their private negotiations were "strictly personal with the family."

Col. Lindbergh, himself, spent considerable time at the telephone today. His long telephone talks gave rise to the belief that he was still working in an attempt to recover his baby without the aid of the law.

Revive "Professional" Theory.

The professional criminal theory which has been accepted and discarded at least six times since the kidnaping took place was revived again this afternoon. Those in close contact with the case said if hill folks or amateurs stole the baby they would have been frightened into abandoning the child by the international wave of publicity the case has received. Professional kidnapers, they pointed out, would have been prepared for the furor, and would be awaiting their own time to make contacts and arrange to exchange the baby for ransom.

There was a flurry of excitement late this afternoon at Hopewell when Emilia Tobeska, non-English speaking Slavic woman from the lower east side of New York City, arrived with a woman interpreter. The woman said she had information about the Lindbergh baby and was immediately taken to the Lindbergh house. She said New York police had given her no satisfaction and that she would talk to no one except Col. Lindbergh. State police who questioned her said later she had no information of value.

The ladder that caused all the activity in the Sourland hills this afternoon has all along been considered the best available clew.

Assistant State Architect Johnson identified the lumber. He looked at the wood in the ladder and noted that the rungs were of North Carolina pine, a wood exceedingly rare in the Hopewell-Princeton neighborhood, but used in the building of the Moldenky cottage at the epileptic home a year ago.

For a time this afternoon newspaper investigators had a closeup view of the Lindbergh house. A friendly farmer living in the vicinity of the estate showed members of the press an abandoned road and led several of the men to a point within 50 feet of the house on the hillside. The main road is closely watched by troopers, but no guards were encountered on the trail leading into the grounds from the southwest.

The fact that there is such a road makes it possible for the kidnapers to have sneaked into the estate instead of having had to drive boldly down the main approach. Trees along the trail were broken down and their bark scratched, indicating the road had recently been traversed by an automobile.

Salvy Spitaly and Irving Bitz, named by Lindbergh as go-betweens with the underworld in a "shot-in-the-dark" attempt to get his child back, pursued their accustomed activities today. Interest in their movements has dwindled and little hope is held that they will be of any material assistance in recovering the baby.

Meanwhile clews are still being followed in various parts of the country.

Still More "Clews."

Niagara Falls police are searching for J. Norman Beck, a former Rochester man known as a dog track promoter. He is wanted for questioning, but along what line has not yet been ascertained.

In Elkins, W. Va., George Haines, a barnstorming aviator, professes to have been halted by two men "in a mud stained automobile" who handed him an envelope containing a road map. Printed on the road map, according to reports from Elkins, was the following instructions:

"Fly thirty-two miles south of Elkins. Lindbergh baby in log cabin. Come alone. Out of food."

A search was started in the territory designated in the message.

At the same time New Haven, Conn., authorities continued to search for two men with whom Tony Meslo, held in jail in default of $25,000 bond, were said to have discussed a plan to kidnap the Lindbergh infant 10 months ago.

Search for a Pennsylvania automobile in which a child had been noticed riding on the floor was unsuccessful after a 24 hour search.

Seek Known Kidnaper.

Information also disclosed that authorities are seeking Martin Deputy, alias Depew, for questioning. Deputy is the man who abducted Mrs. Neil Donnelley, Kansas City business woman, last December. Jersey City police have asked Kansas City for finger prints and all available information concerning Deputy.

In Detroit there were unverified reports that Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the famous aviator, was negotiating with the kidnapers. Mrs. Lindbergh refused to comment.

Meanwhile the Henry [Red] Johnson investigation in Newark is still hanging fire and the sailor suitor of Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse, is still being detained, although not technically under arrest.

Meanwhile there is an air of resignation about the Lindbergh house. An unromantic state trooper said the people in the Lindbergh home show only weary resignation. Mrs. Lindbergh sits in the library holding an unread book. Col. Lindbergh paces the floor, stopping from time to time to talk quietly with his wife. Mrs. Morrow, the grandmother, busies herself about the place attending to household duties.

MAN AND WIFE ARE INDICTED IN KIDNAPING CASE

Rochester, Minn., March 9.—[Special.]—John Traynor, 32, and his wife, Minnie, 22, today were indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of kidnaping Lyle Proud, Rochester taxicab driver, the night of June 30 last. Traynor is held in Des Moines, where he is charged with attempting to murder a policeman.

Traynor escaped from the county jail here shortly after his arrest with the aid of a gun which it is charged was smuggled to him by his wife. He overpowered Sheriff George Gelatt, locked him in a cell, and fled.

Proud was forced at gun point to drive a couple a hundred miles west from Rochester. His captors bound him to a fence and fled in his cab, which later was found abandoned in Mason City, Ia.

When police sought to arrest Traynor in Des Moines recently a pistol battle ensued in which a policeman and Traynor were wounded.

GYPSIES TO HELP IN SEARCH FOR LINDBERGH BABY

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—The wandering tribes of gypsies of the United States will enter the search for the kidnaped Lindbergh baby.

Robert I. Miller, Washington attorney, who said he had represented gypsy interests for the last 30 years, announced tonight after a conference with Leon Mitchell, "king" of the four United States divisions with headquarters in Philadelphia, that the gypsies were being enlisted to keep a lookout for the baby during their movements and would make searches within their own camps.

Miller said telephone contact was made today with a group near Tropical Park, Florida, which shortly will move northward, and that telegrams were sent to other bands.

ANTI-KIDNAPING BILL IS PASSED AMID APPLAUSE

Mail Ransom Demands Are Made Felony.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—The house of representatives today passed the first of the anti-kidnaping bills sponsored by Representative Cochran [Dem., Mo.]. The measure makes it a felony under federal law to send through the mails letters demanding ransom or threatening kidnaping or other violence. The crime is made punishable by a $5,000 fine, twenty years' imprisonment, or both. The bill passed without debate and amid applause by the members.

In a speech in the house, Representative Charles A. Karch [Dem., Ill.] demanded that the government organize against a crime trust which he said was as much a combination contrary to law as any trust in the business world. Referring to Col. Lindbergh's action in summoning the help of New York gangsters, the Illinois congressman declared:

"Organized society and organized government, lost in a sense of utter impotency, have capitulated abjectly, and now beg, on bended knees, of underworld lords to do what cities, counties, states, the national government and millions of citizens admit they cannot do—rescue the Lindbergh baby.

"It is notice to the parents of every child in America who may have enough money to tempt the cupidity of some lawless gangster that our government can no longer protect them and that they must hereafter provide at their own expense their own protection for their babies.

"Civilization in America has, by a mere handful of desperadoes, been actually hurled back into the cave days, when every man had to protect and to fight for his own. Jungle law will have superseded the law of civilization if this handful of organized criminals can thus set at naught the powers of organized society."

Policeman John T. Esschen of the Hudson avenue station was discharged from the force yesterday by the civil service commission for being intoxicated while on duty. Policeman John P. Linderman of the same station was fined 30 days' pay for sleeping while on duty.

DELAY WORLD COURT ACTION BY DISPUTE ABOUT RESERVATION

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Action on the world court was prevented today by a sharp division of opinion among the members of the senate foreign relations committee, where the Walsh resolution providing for senate approval of the protocol of American adherence is pending.

The debate grew out of the Reed amendment to the resolution, which provides that if the senate consents to American membership in the court it does so with the clear understanding that the court, without the United States' consent, shall not entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any question in which the United States has or claims an interest.

Friends and foes of the court alike were divided over the question of whether or not this amendment, which is patterned on the famous "fifth reservation" rejected by the other powers, would require approval by the other signatory nations.

It is the contention of Senator Reed [Rep., Pa.], author of the amendment, and of Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.], author of the resolution of adherence, that the amendment merely clarifies article five of the Root formula, which is now a part of the protocol.

Other senators, among them Senators Borah [radical Rep., Idaho] and Robinson [Dem., Ark.] assert that the Reed amendment reaffirms the rejected fifth reservation, while the Root formula does not prohibit an advisory opinion and leaves withdrawal from the court the United States' only means of objection.

Enrique Hertzog Forms New Bolivian Cabinet

LA PAZ, Bolivia, March 9.—(AP)—A new cabinet, headed by Enrique Hertzog as minister of government, was formed today to replace the one that resigned two weeks ago because of opposition to its financial program. The new ministers, in addition to Hertzog, are Juan Maria Zalles, foreign affairs; Gerardo Berrios, treasury; Agustin Villegas, public works; Julio A. Guiterrez, war, and Alfredo H. Otero, public instruction.

Fail to Link Anarchist with Easton, Pa., Bombing

Postoffice inspectors and department of justice agents failed yesterday to find anything in the papers seized with Colombo Boris, 8325 Lafayette avenue, an anarchist, connecting him with the Easton, Pa., postoffice bombs which last December killed three men. Boris, however, is still being held in the absence of a $100,000 bond, and Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton said he was confident Boris can be deported as an anarchist.

The great "TOOTH" mystery

Why do teeth start to go when you're young? Why do some people keep them longer than others? Why does the dentist talk about "pyorrhea" when you are worrying about "teeth"?

The loss of teeth has no connection with wrinkles and gray hair. Today you may flash a carefree smile that shows white teeth without a flaw. Tomorrow your dentist may be forced to remove one of them, or two, or three.

The shock is cruel in these cases, not so much from pain as from hurt pride. It seems very mysterious to the victim, particularly if he has always thought he was giving his teeth the proper care. Brushing teeth night and morning, keeping them beautifully clean—this he has done but it was not enough. The average person is likely to think only of the surface. The dentist's thoughts go deeper. For pyorrhea is a gum disease.

Don't neglect seeing your dentist periodically. And when you brush your teeth, use Forhan's, the toothpaste for both gums and teeth. It is the lifework of a specialist in pyorrhea, Dr. R. J. Forhan. Pyorrhea may be eating down into your gums for five or ten years before it causes the loss of a single tooth. But half the lost adult teeth are actually taken by this dreaded disease. That is why the dentist worries about your gums.

Get ahead of pyorrhea. Buy Forhan's Toothpaste today and start immediately to clean your teeth and massage your gums according to the directions in the package. Forhan's comes in a big brown tube that lasts a long time. It is pleasant. You will like it and so will every child old enough to use a brush. All drug stores.

DEMOCRATS PICK 2 DELEGATIONS IN MINNESOTA

Smith-Roosevelt Battle Splits Convention.

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—[Special.]—Clashes between Smith and Roosevelt supporters today split the Democratic state convention wide open and resulted in the withdrawal of the Smith group to hold a convention of their own. The result will be two sets of Minnesota delegates to the national convention.

The regular delegation was instructed to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the party's nomination. The second group, named by the bolters, was uninstructed but, if seated, will vote for Alfred E. Smith. They expect to carry the fight to the Chicago convention.

Bolters Demand Dry Vote.

The bolting group declared for repeal of the 18th amendment and many of the group then returned to the main convention and sought adoption of a similar resolution. Roosevelt supporters defeated the effort and voted instead for a plank urging a state by state referendum on prohibition.

Of 800 delegates, approximately 200 withdrew. The clash came over the credentials of the 141 Hennepin county delegates, who with the Ramsey and Wabasha county delegates, all Smith Democrats, were not permitted to vote for chairman. Einar Hoidale, leader of the Roosevelt faction, was elected.

Neil M. Cronin, choice of the Smith group for chairman, was defeated by a vote of 542 to 115.

The storm burst after Hoidale had made his speech of acceptance. Mrs. Ruth Haynes Carpenter of Minneapolis insisted the delegates of Hennepin county had been "disenfranchised without cause" and announced the delegation would withdraw from the convention.

Battle from Start.

A series of verbal clashes marked the opening of the convention as the two factions struggled for position. Within a few moments J. J. Farrell, state chairman, who was presiding, had smashed the speaker's table with his gavel, pounding for order.

A minute later he and J. R. Foley of Wabasha were engaged in a physical struggle for the microphone on the stage. Foley demanded the floor on a point of information and Farrell refused to recognize him.

Meanwhile, John Freeman of Olivia, made his way to the platform and began a nominating speech for Hoidale. When he had finished, Cronin's candidacy was placed before the delegates. In the turbulent next half hour, amid confusion, uproar, and wild waving of arms, 23 speakers paraded the virtues of the two men in seconding addresses.

Shouts and catcalls, hisses and boos interrupted the speeches until the vote was taken.

AS CAPITAL SEES RESULT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination for President were jubilant today over the clean sweep of the delegates made by their candidate in the New Hampshire primary yesterday against the opposition of Alfred E. Smith. They proclaimed the New Hampshire vote the beginning of the end of the stop Roosevelt movement.

Final unofficial tabulations gave the vote for Roosevelt pledged candidates as 14,200 and for Smith candidates 8,670.

The anti-Roosevelt Democrats were considerably jolted by the poor showing made by Smith, which they endeavored to attribute to his late entry into the contest. They insisted the first crucial test of Roosevelt's strength will be furnished by the Pennsylvania primary next month.

Senator Clarence C. Dill [Dem., Wash.] struck the keynote of the reaction of the pro-Roosevelt Democrats to the New Hampshire primary results. The Democrats of the country, Senator Dill insisted, want victory and believe they can win with Roosevelt.

"It is not that New Hampshire Democrats love Smith less," said Senator Dill, "but love victory more. They know that a sure way to victory is to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt."

14 DIE IN FIRE AFTER BLAST IN LARGE GAS TANK

4 Others Are Injured, 2 Critically.

Camden, N. J., March 9.—[Special.]—Fourteen men were burned to death following an explosion inside a big metal purifying tank at the gas distributing plant of the Public Service Gas and Electric company on Cherry street today. Four others were injured, two of them probably fatally. One man, frightened when he saw flames, escaped just before the blast.

Eight of the victims had been jobless for some time and had been employed only for the day. Several of the dead were married. More than thirty children were left fatherless by the disaster.

So badly charred were the bodies that positive individual identification was difficult. A list of the dead was made from the company records, after a check of the names of the four injured and the one man who escaped against the list of those who entered the tank this morning.

Hundreds Rush to Scene.

The blast was heard more than a mile away, in the center of the city. It brought hundreds of men and women rushing in panic from the tenements which surround the gas company's plant and police and company employés had great difficulty keeping families and relatives of men known to have been working in the plant out of the danger zone.

Pitiful scenes were enacted as the charred bodies were lifted from the interior of the tank by means of an improvised block and tackle.

Tank Made of Steel.

The tank in which the explosion occurred is of fabricated steel, 35 feet high and 30 feet square. It is mounted on girders, which raise it about 15 feet above the ground.

The interior walls and floor are coated thickly with a combination of chemicals, sawdust and charcoal, through which gas is filtered to be purified. Several times a year this coating has to be removed and a new one applied.

The crew of workmen trapped in the tank today were engaged in scraping the chemicals from the walls. They had entered the tank by climbing a stairway on the outside, like a fire escape.

A chance spark caused by the shovel of one of the scrapers grating against the metal side of the tank is thought to have ignited an accumulation of gas.

Men Make Such a Mess, Women Start Own Bank

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, March 9.—(AP)—Several of the leaders of the women's clubs hereabouts announced today that they were sick and tired of the mess men bankers had made of the world's finances and that therefore they had organized the Women's Bank of Prague. It will be managed entirely by women and will extend credit to women only. The profits, if any, will be devoted to feminist propaganda.

SECOND STRETCH OF NEW YORK ELEVATED HIGHWAY IS OPENED

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—With hands numb from the cold, Borough President Samuel Levy today wielded the shears which cut the white ribbon stretching across the west side elevated highway at Riverside drive and 72d street, and thus officially opened the section of the highway which extends from 59th street north to 72d street.

This symbolic gesture was witnessed by a score of motion picture men and photographers who managed to stop shivering along enough to do their duty and make a record of a civic event.

LIFE WITH ONE'S MOTHER-IN-LAW MAY BE CRUELTY

Forcing one's wife to live with her mother-in-law may be an act of cruelty, Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude ruled yesterday.

The ruling was given on the petition of Sam C. Ross, 6430 Woodlawn avenue, to reduce the payments of $7 a week which he now makes to Mrs. Marian C. Ross, 7525 Kingston avenue, for the support of their son, Charles, 26 months old. She is suing him for separate maintenance, charging cruelty, but Ross asserted yesterday that the allegations in the bill did not constitute cruelty and that his wife had deserted him.

"I had to live with his mother," Mrs. Ross replied. "She came to our apartment for all her meals. Finally I couldn't stand it. I left his apartment at her demand."

"The bill charges inferentially that keeping the plaintiff near her mother-in-law was a cruel act," said Judge Trude, "and there is often basis for such allegations. I refuse to modify the support order."

Wife Butts In on Holdup; Saves Husband's Money

"We're sorry to do this, but we have to live." One of two well dressed young bandits uttered these words last night as they confronted Herman Erso and Harry Klein, 1309 South Kildare avenue, in front of Erso's home at 1321 South Kildare avenue. Klein handed over $4, but before Erso could be searched Mrs. Erso opened the front door of their home. Erso cried out: "Close the door; it's a stickup." One of the robbers hit Erso on the head for his outcry and they both fled with only the $4.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN, 76.

SOCIETY BANDIT'S RECORD BELIES HIS APPEARANCE

First impressions of members of the detective bureau were wrong yesterday when a man of apparent importance and respectability entered with two representatives of the Secret Six. They soon learned he was a prisoner—a society robber named Fred Reardon 40 years old, 4616 North Racine avenue.

"O, yes, I have a little record," Reardon said with a laugh. The "little record" dated back to 1907 and showed he had served four prison sentences and has seven aliases.

Reardon was implicated by Fred Randall in the robbery of the home of Stuart Templeton, wealthy attorney of Lake Forest. Four polite men posed as interior decorators and gained entrance to the Templeton home two years ago and departed with jewelry worth more than $5,000. The Templeton servants were asked to view Reardon today.

Chief Schoemaker said he had information that Reardon was also one of the three masked bandits who robbed the York State Bank of Elmhurst a year ago and he is suspected of having participated in the robbery of $200,000 of jewelry from Joseph C. Newman last November as Newman walked away from his hotel.

SLASH IN RATES OF PAY ACCEPTED BY ELECTRICIANS

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local 134, voted last night to accept a wage cut from $13.60 to $12 a day on new construction and $10 a day on rehabilitation work on existing structures. The cut is about 11 per cent on new work and 27 per cent on old work.

The agreement was signed by President C. M. Paulsen and Michael J. Boyle, business agent of the union, and William McGuineas, president of the Electrical Contractors' association. The agreement is for the period ending May 31, 1933.

In addition to the voluntary wage cut, it was stated, the members of the union have been paying 10 per cent of their weekly salary in unemployment relief.

Bomb Causes $200 Loss to Auto Sales Company

A small black powder bomb was exploded early this morning at the front entrance of the Eff N Jay Auto Sales company, also known as the West Auto Park company, 1220 South Ashland avenue, doing $200 damage. Julius Greenstein, owner of the place, said the bombing was a mystery. On Jan. 4 the place was bombed and at that time no explanation was given.

COLD WAVE IS WANING, SAYS WEATHER MAN

Back to Normal by First of Week, He Predicts.

A gradual break in the cold wave, which brought near-zero temperatures to Chicago and spread across the country, was predicted last night by C. A. Donnel, principal government forecaster. The break really started yesterday when the mercury climbed to 17 degrees above zero, giving the city a noticeable respite from much lower temperatures which had persisted since Saturday.

Today, according to Mr. Donnel, the thermometer probably will not register above 20 degrees. Day by day, he said, there will be an appreciable rise of a few degrees with normal temperatures returning about the first of next week. Normal readings for this time of the year are 40 degrees above zero for the afternoon maximum, and 26 degrees above for the night minimum. Yesterday's minimum was 3 degrees above at 5 a. m.

Record March Cold Snap.

The last time zero was recorded here was Jan. 23, 1930, and there now seems to be little danger of upsetting this record this season. However, the length of the present cold snap established a March record for Chicago.

"It is unlikely now that we shall have any zero weather," said Mr. Donnel last night. "There will be a gradual rise of a few degrees daily and we ought to get back to normal conditions by the first of the week. The high pressure area in the northwest, the source of our cold, is dissipating. As a result we had 17 above here and the coldest spot in the country today was zero at Yellowstone park."

Storms on East Coast.

While Chicago was gradually emerging from the icy grip the east and southeast yesterday started to feel the belated winter blasts. Along the Atlantic seaboard there were severe storms, extending into the ocean, crippling ships and delaying luxurious liners.

Farther north, off Newfoundland, the tail end of a three day blizzard still remained, bringing with it another S. O. S. from the storm swept Atlantic. The newest casualty is the German freighter Harburg, which reported itself helpless from a broken rudder shaft 180 miles southeast of Sable island. The steamship Vincent headed for the Harburg. The Harburg is listed as of 4,486 tons.

Crew of Collier Saved.

The collier H. F. De Bardeleben was another disabled by the storm and was drifting eastward toward Europe. After standing by several hours, the British motorship Loganbank rescued its crew of 34 men, according to radio messages.

Wireless dispatches stated that the De Bardeleben was proceeding at a speed of 8 or 9 knots with her engines to keep from being swamped, but was forced to go in only one direction—toward Europe. The ship is about 500 miles off New York. Originally it started out from Boston for Norfolk. The Adriatic also had been standing by.

RELIEF WARRANT SALES CAMPAIGN CLOSES TONIGHT

$12,500,000 of Issue to Be Taken.

With approximately $12,500,000 worth of tax warrants subscribed, the drive to sell state relief warrants will be halted tonight. No efforts to sell more of the $18,750,000 issue will be made until some time in the summer.

Announcement of the cessation of the drive to interest the general public in the 6 per cent notes was made last night by Philip R. Clarke, director of the special selling division. The total subscription last night was $12,293,400. It is expected that the $206,600 balance of the $12,500,000 will be subscribed today.

Officials stated that the removal of the warrants from the market was a measure of economy. The Illinois emergency relief commission estimates the present budget as of Feb. 1 at $2,500,000 a month. The present quota will carry through until July 1, saving the 6 per cent interest for five months on the remaining $6,250,000.

Among the subscriptions which brought the drive within striking distance of the relief quota were the following:

U. S. Steel corporation subsidiaries	$250,000
Youngstown Sheet and Tube company	50,000
Central Republic bank	100,000
William Wrigley Jr. company	10,000
Montgomery Ward & Co.	100,000
Edison Electric Appliance company	10,000

The Montgomery Ward subscription brings its total up to $200,000.

"The speed and enthusiasm with which our workers are operating," said Mr. Clarke, chairman of the drive, "are sure to enable us to reach the $12,500,000 goal within 24 hours. The men have been going at top speed and deserve the gratitude of the entire community. They have neglected their own business to aid in the general relief work by selling the state 6 per cent notes."

Two more divisions in the trade groups yesterday reached their goals. They are groceries, under F. H. Massmann, and men's wear, under B. J. Cahn. Seven of the trades groups have gone over the top. They are lumber, railway supplies, hotels, restaurants, and clubs, paper, licensed lenders, groceries, and men's wear.

REPORT PROGRESS IN CAMPAIGN TO END HOARDING

Further progress in the national campaign against hoarding was reported yesterday at the offices of the Citizens Reconstruction organization—set up by President Hoover in an effort to bring out hidden money and put it to work.

A downtown bank advises that several envelopes were removed from a safety deposit vault which contained more than $3,000. The owner bought cashiers' checks and later bought securities. In another bank a customer paid $4,500 in currency for a mortgage and another bought a part of a mortgage, giving $2,000 in currency.

In another case a mortgage of $6,500 was paid for in ancient yellow backs. A bank reports $26,000 increase in savings since the first of the month, while another states that it has received more new savings in the last few days than in the preceding six months, most of the accounts being credited with old bills. Another bank reports a marked increase in savings accounts.

Further, anti-hoarding workers assert that business houses as well as banks are taking in the old large sized paper money. They also say that a feature of the drive has been the number of $500 government 2 per cent certificates bought.

SCHOOL BOARD WEAKENING ON BUDGET STAND

Asks for Education Plan to Fit $60,000,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school board weakened some yesterday in its stand for a $90,180,000 budget, in which it has been charged there is "$1,000,000 or more" of waste in the operation of the school buildings. The trustees, from their actions, seemed to have lost some of their confidence that the taxpayers will pay $90,180,000 to operate the schools as now conducted.

WM. D. McJUNKIN.

At the request of Trustee William D. McJunkin the board adopted a resolution asking Dr. George Strayer to make recommendations for a school system to be operated on $60,000,000, on $70,000,000, and on $80,000,000, as well as on $90,000,000. Dr. Strayer is directing the Columbia university survey of the Chicago schools, for which the board is paying $100,000.

Urges Property Control Bureau.

Trustee McJunkin explained that if it is necessary to cut the expenditures to $60,000,000 the trustees should be advised in advance what sort of education would be provided.

He also wanted the board to set up a property control bureau, but the board did not order that done. He estimated there is a preventable waste of $500,000 a year in the supplies, materials and equipment purchased by the board. He estimated the movable personal property of the board at $10,500,000, and charged that it is being handled in a "careless, haphazard way."

"I recently heard a bathtub was stolen out of a loop hotel," said Mr. McJunkin. "If that can be done what can happen to our property? Last year there were 171 typewriters stolen from the board, 18 adding machines, 21 radios and victrolas, 38 microscopes, 4 office rugs, 4 movie machines, 1,500 pounds of type, 10 sewing machines, 25 tons of coal, and $4,200 in stamps."

Trustee James A. Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee, asked that the list be not printed because it might reflect upon the trustees, but the board did not attempt to suppress the facts. Mr. Hemingway said he is opposed to the property control bureau because he did not think it would make any one honest.

The mental attitude of the board towards its $90,180,000 budget was not smoothed by a letter from the D. F. Kelly committee stating that it was organized at the request of the board Nov. 6 to sell tax anticipation warrants and had sold $6,494,000 worth. Part of that money went to pay teachers' salaries. In order to sell more warrants it is necessary that the board give "ample intention to reduce its 1932 budget to the cash receipts for 1929." It went on:

"The board of education, nevertheless, passed its 1932 budget, amounting to $90,000,000, and thus assumed full responsibility to secure funds to meet its budget and discharge its debt of approximately $125,000,000.

"Further Efforts Useless."

"It must be obvious that it is useless for our committee to make further attempts to assist the board in financing these obligations."

Trustee Joseph P. Savage took an opportunity late in the meeting to attack the Kelly committee again.

"The object of these fellows is to put off, as long as they can, payment of their fair share of the government," said Mr. Savage. "I have taken about all of their statements I intend to take. I don't propose to let Mr. Kelly, Mr. Sargent, or Mr. Avery reflect upon my character. They are not going to dictate to me."

Defends Mayor Cermak.

"It is not good manners," Trustee Robert F. Carr replied, "nor good taste to be attacking every one who is trying to aid the city in its troubles. Why a tirade every meeting against this man or that who is attempting to aid us? Mayor Cermak is doing an excellent job, sincerely and honestly, and he followed a fellow who did the rottenest job for Chicago.

"This board is too much in politics. It is a shame. I took a position on the board to aid it in getting away from politics. It is our job to spend the vast millions to educate the children.

"It is a healthy sign when men like Kelly, Sargent, and Avery take an interest in public affairs. They have no ax to grind. It is bad taste to stand up and damn every one who wants to help us. We have to get a better educational system, one that is more economical."

A Proper Request.

Dr. Strayer was asked by President Lewis E. Myers whether he will comply with the McJunkin resolution. He replied that it was perfectly proper for the board to make the request and that he intended to fulfill his contract. He added that there is no profit in the $100,000 fee charged for the investigation.

SCHOOL BOARD TAKES IN $23,372 IN CASH JUST 'MAKING CHANGE'

The board of education, as an incident of its distribution of small denomination tax anticipation warrants to creditors, has taken in $23,372 in real money, it was announced yesterday by Arthur C. Schweitzer, assistant business manager. The cash transactions, he explained, occur when the creditors pay the difference between the amounts of their claims and the face value of the warrants they receive.

So far the board has given out a total of $3,625,448 in 1931 warrants in denominations as low as $50. Of this amount contractors have taken $1,876,200; teachers, $1,047,100, and civil service employés $695,998.

WOODCOCK HERE; PRAISES RECORD OF DRY FORCES

Amos W. W. Woodcock, national director of prohibition enforcement, announced yesterday that he was gratified with the work dry agents have been doing in Chicago. Mr. Woodcock stopped in Chicago on his way to the west coast and conferred with M. L. Harney, new prohibition administrator for the Chicago district.

Figures showed that from July 1, 1931, to Feb. 1, 1932, there were 786 cases of liquor law violation in the northern Illinois district which were tried in Chicago, Mr. Woodcock said. Of this number 751 cases resulted in convictions.

PLAN CITIZENS' COMMITTEE TO CUT 1932 COSTS

Some of the members of the D. F. Kelly tax warrant sales committee and a number of other citizens are seeking to organize a committee for the purpose of urging a much larger cut in expenses for 1932 than has been undertaken by any of the local governments. Ernest R. Graham has been asked by several to take the chairmanship of the proposed organization. The first meeting will probably be held next Monday.

Mr. Kelly received a letter yesterday from J. Soule Waterfield, president of the Chicago real estate board. It reads in part:

"I wish to congratulate you on the courageous way in which you are going after the tax spending bodies in Cook county, looking forward to reduction in the cost of government through the paring of budgets. Allow me to assure you that in this part of your endeavor, the Chicago real estate board is unanimously and wholeheartedly back of you.

"Important as work of this kind is at any time, it is doubly important now."

COMPANY'S HEAD PLEADS GUILTY TO BANK FRAUD

Clarence C. Dunkle, president of the Multifoot Sales corporation, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of conspiracy to embezzle and obtain money under false pretenses from the defunct Exchange State bank. His plea was entered before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court, just after the state had completed its case against the defendant.

It was understood that Dunkle made the plea with the understanding that he would not be sentenced to the penitentiary. Sentence was deferred for a week.

Roscoe H. H. Luckenbill, president of the closed bank, who is also named in the indictment has been a fugitive for two years. He and Dunkle were accused of obtaining $24,000 by a series of worthless notes. Defense attorneys argued that Dunkle had been duped by Luckenbill.

Arthur Candrian, secretary-treasurer of Dunkle's concern, was found not guilty on a directed verdict.

Kane County Supervisors Table 10% Pay Cut Plan

The Kane county supervisors, meeting yesterday at Geneva, voted unanimously to table a resolution prepared by their budget and finance committees recommending a 10 per cent reduction in salaries of all appointive county employés. The supervisors also voted to rescind their action at their December meeting, when they cut their own pay 10 per cent.

Inconsistent Spending

With few exceptions men spend more, in proportion, for other things than they do for dress. Many live in elaborate homes, travel luxuriously, and indulge in extravagant pastimes without giving due consideration to personal appearance. Dress that is not in keeping with one's realm in business or mode of living is not economy at any price, but often a source of embarrassment which tends to depreciate even one's own opinion of himself.

On the other hand, the consciousness of being well dressed in appropriate qualities, from underwear out, is an avowed asset. Befitting attire adds greatly to one's appearance, poise and pleasure, and unquestionably warrants an outlay proportionate to other expenditures. Lower prices now prevail in each of our four shops — New York, Chicago, London and Paris.

We Believe Men Are Interested in Style When It Comes from a Source That Means Something to Them — Our

DEERPATH SUITS

Have That Kind of Style—Here's Why:

On a train that comes in every morning from Lake Forest is a car named "Deerpath." In it may be seen more well-dressed younger men than in any other place of comparable size around Chicago. Some of the clothes these men wear were made here*, some in New York, some in London. But they all possess quiet, yet unmistakable distinction that is due partly to the expert cutting of the tailors who made them, and partly to the sophisticated tastes of the men who wear them.

Truly Gentlemen's Clothes

They are the kind of clothes we all instinctively admire, and should all like to wear. But until now it hasn't been possible to get them except from a very few famous establishments, and at prices beyond the average man's reach.

Now, however, in the suits pictured here, we believe we have developed for the first time ready-to-wear clothes — at moderate prices — that have the same subtly distinguished air.

Originated Here — Sold Here Only

We believe they will make an instant appeal to young men who appreciate what they are. And we take a pardonable pride in being the first to offer them.

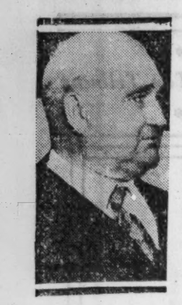
EXPECT JACOBS WILL DISCHARGE 400 PAY ROLLERS

All Employes in His Office Through Today.

Four hundred and ninety-one employés in the office of the assessor and sixty employés in the office of the old board of review become automatically discharged today when delivery of records to the new assessor, J. L. Jacobs, is formally completed.



HAYDEN N. BELL.

Jacobs refused yesterday to state definitely how many employés in the assessors' office will be reappointed. He indicated that a certain number will be retained to carry on routine work. Yesterday he ordered discontinued until further notice the work of putting 1931 real estate and personal property valuations on the record books.

Expect 400 to Go.

Observers in the office expressed the opinion that the ax will fall upon at least 400 pay rollers. Jacobs, in his position as efficiency adviser to the county board, has often asserted that the pay rolls of the board of assessors were well padded, and that the work could be done by fewer employés.

Today is also the final day of employment for 341 other county employés dismissed as a result of the county board's passage of the 1932 budget at a saving of more than $5,500,000. Thus, for a few hours at least, a total of 892 county employés will be jobless.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell advised Jacobs that all the employés of the assessor's office will be out of jobs when the records are formally handed over today.

Must Reappoint Workers.

"In legal parlance the old board of assessors will be non est when the records are given up," said Mr. Bell. "Jacobs himself will be the only one with a job. He must reappoint employés he needs to carry on the work."

It was said that Jacobs would probably reappoint a number of employés for a sixty day period. Eventually, under the new law, the entire office will be under civil service and every employé must be examined as to his fitness for the job. Questionnaires requiring data as to experience, education, and other details were handed the employés yesterday.

Harry S. Cutmore, who directed the 1928 reassessment and then was ousted from his post as director of appraisals by the old board of assessors when he charged its members with mismanagement, has been tendered the post of chief assistant to Mr. Jacobs and has agreed to accept the appointment, it was reported last night.

Confirmation Refused.

Jacobs and Cutmore refused to talk on the matter, but the former promised a formal statement today, when he will also make public his plans for reorganizing his office. Where the Cutmore appointment will leave Charles E. Fox, present director of appraisals, remained a matter of speculation. Fox spent two hours yesterday in conference with Jacobs, but it was noted that the assessor conferred later with Cutmore.

Two staffs of experts from the Jacobs engineering firm and from the Cutmore company were making an inventory yesterday of records and files in the office. One minor order gave a hint of the manner in which the office is to be conducted. Jacobs ordered the frosted glass in the doors and windows of the old assessors' office removed and replaced with clear glass. It was behind this frosted glass that former assessors had many "private conferences" with big taxpayers.

StrategyFails; BanditsLook in Groceries, Take Cash

Precautions against robbers were taken last night by Meyer Wasserman, 3815 Wrightwood avenue, manager of a United Tea company store at 2757 West 22d street. Before leaving the store he hid $50 among some groceries he was taking home. As he entered the passageway alongside his home three robbers seized him and took $290 from his purse. Then they looked among his packages and found the $50. Shakespeare avenue police believe the men saw him with the money in the store and followed him home on a street car.

TWO CHILDREN DIE OF BURNS

Two children died of burns in the county hospital yesterday. One victim was Jerome Paczynski, 2 years old, who was scalded in his home at 2027 Armitage avenue on Tuesday. The other was Yvonne Claybrook, 2 years old, colored, 6021 Calumet avenue.

MAYOR'S POWER TO CUT PAY ROLLS BEFORE COUNCIL

Cermak Asks Approval of Amendment.

Mayor Cermak submitted to the city council yesterday an amendment to the continuation ordinance giving him blanket power to dismiss employés, in order to reduce city pay rolls to meet estimates of revenue for the year.

The measure was referred to the finance committee. The council later adjourned until March 23, and unless a special meeting is called before that time, the mayor may not be able to put his job slashing program into effect before then.

ALD. JOHN TOMAN.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] explained that the continuation ordinance as it stands gives the mayor power to dismiss whatever employés he wishes. The amendment was submitted in conformance with Mayor Cermak's earlier promise to the aldermen that he would not undertake any job cuts without discussing the matter with the council. The proposed amendment is the mayor's method of keeping this promise.

Nelson Assails Measure.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], attacking the measure, said that fear of losing their jobs would react against the efficiency of city employés.

"I see a number of civil service employés here now who should be at work," replied Mayor Cermak, glancing at the crowded galleries.

"If a public hearing is called on this proposal, the crowd will overflow the council chambers," said Ald. Nelson.

"Suppose you call a meeting of taxpayers who are unable to pay their taxes," said Mayor Cermak. "How large would that be?"

The mayor made public figures on the pay roll savings accomplished during January and February as compared with expenditures in the same months last year by the old city administration. The savings totaled $2,900,173. In February, 1931, when the mayoralty primary was at its height, city pay rolls were $5,317,403. They were cut to $3,537,783 during the month just passed. In addition, Mayor Cermak said, a saving of $675,000 in overtime payments has been effected since July 15, last year, over payments in an equal period by the old administration.

The council adopted two resolutions asking county officials for tax information. One, by Ald. John Toman [23d], asked the county treasurer to list unpaid and delinquent taxes for 1928 and 1929 in seven classifications; downtown business properties, apartments, hotels, industrial sites, stores, residences and vacant property. The second, by Ald. Barnet Hodes, asked the county clerk for a list of all tax exempt real estate in the assessments for 1928, 1929 and 1930.

Another resolution by Ald. Toman, asking the surface and "L" lines to institute 5 cent fares as a means of improving their business in the depression, was referred to the local transportation committee.

Teachers' Pay Issue Up.

The resolution of Ald. Thomas O'Brady [14th] calling for a recessed meeting of the council Saturday to hear demands of school teachers for further pay from city funds was referred, after a spirited discussion, to the finance committee. That body refused Tuesday to call a similar meeting.

"I had to fight at a meeting recently for the principle of paying school teachers on the same basis with city employés," said Mayor Cermak. "I hope to close a deal soon for the sale of tax warrants which will give the teachers another two weeks' pay. I'm afraid that if they come to a meeting here some of them will explode some firecracker which would prevent that deal going through."

SEXTON ASKS FUND FOR GAS RATE INQUIRY

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday requested the city council to give his office an appropriation to carry on the investigation of the new gas rate schedules filed with the Illinois commerce commission by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. The request was referred to the finance committee.

"We must have an appropriation sufficient to permit us to get the advice of two or three engineers and accountants," Mr. Sexton wrote to the council. "In this respect the city's case is no different than, and certainly just as important as, a condemnation case in which the city is fortified by more than one expert to testify in its behalf.

"Up to the present we have approved total bills in this case aggregating $6,982. There is no more money available in any fund for further use by this department in the case."

SPEND LESS THAN YOU TAX IS KEY TO LOUISVILLE PLAN

Mayor Tells Gotham How City Balances Budget.

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Mayor William B. Harrison of Louisville, Ky., told the New York Board of Trade today how his city had become outstanding in its handling of municipal finances. Four hundred bankers, real estate men and city officials heard him explain the method by which Louisville had reduced its tax rate 5 per cent and its assessments 7 per cent, while building schools, incinerating plants, parks, and playgrounds. This was done, he said, without impairing the city's substantial cash reserves or the high rating of its municipal bonds.

Mayor Harrison told the diners that "we did not know that we were doing anything extraordinary, and only woke up to hear that we were famous thirty or forty days ago. That was when the United States census bureau, in its annual report, gave Louisville the lowest per capita cost of government and the lowest per capita funded debt of any of the 25 cities having a population of 300,000 or more."

Has No Pet Formula.

He disclaimed any ability to prescribe how any other municipality might put its own house in order. Louisville did it, he explained, simply by living within its cash income in accordance with restrictions which Kentucky law and Louisville ordinances placed on its spending powers.

One of the outstanding features of his explanation of economy in Louisville was the successful operation of a 10 per cent salary suspension of all municipal officeholders, to be returned to them in whole, in part, or not at all, according to the cash position of the municipality at the end of the year.

Employés Save City's Cash.

"As opposed to a direct cut," Mayor Harrison said, "this move had had the effect of making our employés economy conscious. Each employé has a direct and personal interest in saving every possible penny. Requisitions are closely scrutinized. Departments are watchful of each other and buying is close. When we close our books on next Aug. 31 I predict a most satisfactory result."

In the last analysis, however, Mayor Harrison said he believed "we may discount all artificial checks and counterchecks, and admit that, to no small extent, we owe our present position to the fact that ours is a community of home owners. Give a man his home and his little plot of ground and you awaken something in him that can never be found amongst the cliff dwellers. He has a stake to cherish and defend that no renter, tenement or apartment dweller can quite conceive or understand.

Cut Government Services.

"Goaded by insistent demands upon a lean pocketbook, the taxpayer is indeed in revolt, and excusably so, but before he can experience substantial relief he must be willing to relinquish some of the governmental services to which he has become accustomed, accepting the same lowered standards that he has been compelled to apply to his own private mode of living.

"All of the public debt, all of the improvements — highways, streets, schools, parks, playgrounds, libraries, hospitals, and such—were not thrust down the throat of an indifferent people by designing politicians. The demand was from citizens, and it is still there. If you do not believe it, abandon a single schoolhouse, a single highway project, reduce your policing or fire protection standards. The protesting wave will astonish you. Nevertheless I insist that there be a coöperation between the spending agency and the recipients of the benefits of that spending."

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To quickly end stubborn coughs due to colds, it is important to soothe the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, saves money, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

PINEX for Coughs

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have. You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

creases proposed on incomes and estates. The committee expressed the hope "that the financial condition of the country at that time will warrant a corresponding revision of income and estate taxes, provided for in this bill as an emergency measure."

The failure to balance the budget last year and this year, the committee opined, would not affect national credit.

"It cannot be doubted, however," said the report, "that any failure to balance the budget for 1933, showing as it would a continuing failure in the face of known conditions to meet current expenditures out of current receipts, would evidence such a lack of sound business methods in the conduct of our national finances as to cause a loss of confidence and apprehension as to the future. A failure to face squarely the problem presented and to take the necessary steps to balance the budget would inevitably have serious consequences to our entire credit structure.

Must Maintain Credit.

"In these times of doubt and uncertainty, even more than in normal times, the unimpaired credit of the federal government is of paramount importance. Our national credit structure is bound up with and depends upon not only the belief, but the certainty that the federal government will meet its obligations when due and will take in advance such steps as will enable it to do so.

"Our national currency is inextricably bound up with our national credit. Anything that impairs the one necessarily affects the other. Our commercial credit system is inextricably tied up with the credit of the federal government and anything that shakes public confidence in that credit necessarily affects the entire commercial credit system upon which business development and expansion are dependent.

Most Important Issue.

"In the opinion of your committee, the preservation unimpaired of the national credit is the most important single issue facing this country today, and it is confidently stated that this is possible only by taking these steps necessary to balance the budget for 1933.

"Temporary relief measures such as the bill creating the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be, to a large extent, ineffective unless steps are taken to balance the budget and maintain the national credit. The bill reported by your committee will accomplish this result."

In searching for means of balancing the budget the committee proceeded on the assumption that government expenditures would not be materially reduced and also ignored the possibility of obtaining from 500 to 900 millions of dollars from legalizing and taxing beer and light wines. Starting out to obtain revenue from accustomed sources, the committee discovered that the rich and the well to do of 1929 have been comparatively impoverished by the stock market slump.

How Incomes Shrank.

The report presented this graphic picture of the effect of the stock market crash on income tax revenue:

"Decrease in capital net gains, 1930, as compared to 1929—$1,796,000,000, or 77 per cent.

"Decrease in ordinary net gains, 1930, as compared to 1929—$1,562,000,000, or 67 per cent.

"Increase in capital net losses, 1930, as compared with 1929—$36,000,000, or 85 per cent.

"Increase in ordinary net losses, 1930, as compared to 1929—$219,000,000, or 22 per cent.

"In regard to corporations, the controlling factor was a decrease in gross income of 15 per cent. Many corporations failed to make any profit at all. In fact, out of about 456,600 active corporations making returns, 237,000, or 52 per cent, showed a deficit instead of a profit."

Law of Diminishing Returns.

After submitting tables showing the extent of the income tax increases proposed the committee said:

"It is the opinion of your committee that these increases in the rates, particularly on the higher incomes, reaching as they do in the proposed bill, a maximum of 46 per cent equal, if they do not exceed, the point of diminishing return. No more revenue can be obtained out of a tax on large incomes. It is significant that these increases in individual income-tax rates, amounting as they do to practically a doubling of the taxes on large incomes, will produce, it is estimated, only $112,000,000 additional revenue for the fiscal year 1933."

The committee rejected a high tax on luxuries because it would not produce sufficient revenue and a tax on selected industries because it would be discriminatory. It came as a last resort to a manufacturers' excise tax which the committee denied would be a burden on the poor man.

U. S. MARSHAL'S VISIT TO GALPIN STIRS UP GOSSIP

Story of Order to Back Custer Brings Denials.

BY PARKE BROWN.

When United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer walked into Homer K. Galpin's office in the Custer governorship headquarters last Monday he started a hurricane of gossip that reached its height yesterday.

"Galpin sent for Laubenheimer," was the most frequent version of the yarn, "and told him that he'd better line up for Custer if he wanted to hold his job. He said he had Senator Glenn's authority to deliver the message."

Since Marshal Laubenheimer received his appointment on the nomination of Charles S. Deneen while the latter was United States senator, and since he has been regarded as one of the wheel horses of the Deneen organization as boss of its 49th ward branch, the story was a shock even to the Deneenites. So far they have refused to take any position on the governorship.

Marshal Laubenheimer's Story.

The first inquiry concerning the tale was directed to Marshal Laubenheimer. In effect this was the substance of the interview:

"It was at the request of a third person that I went with him to see Galpin. We talked generalities about five minutes and the question of my reappointment was not discussed there. What has been said to me on that subject came to me in a round about, indirect manner."

Former County Chairman Galpin, who has been placed in charge of the Cook county end of the campaign of Omer N. Custer, was interviewed next.

"Absolutely nothing to it," he said, "nothing at all. Marshal Laubenheimer came in on his own initiative with a candidate for ward committeeman in his ward. They wanted to talk over the question of their being with Custer. Nothing was said about reappointment for the marshal."

Denial by Senator Glenn.

But United States Senator Glenn at Washington was the most emphatic of the principals in his comment on the gossip.

"There is no truth in any of the reports concerning warnings given to Mr. Laubenheimer that he must support Mr. Custer's candidacy," he said.

"I have not communicated directly or indirectly with Homer Galpin since Mr. Custer announced he would run for the governorship.

"So far as political activities are concerned, I am devoting my entire attention to furthering my own campaign for renomination and reelection to the senate."

Tice Runs Downstate Drive.

Custer headquarters announced that during the absence of State Senator Harry G. Wright, who is downstate campaigning as a candidate for the state auditorship, State Representative Homer J. Tice of Greenview, a leader of the agricultural and bone dry blocs in the general assembly, is in charge of the campaign outside of Cook county.

This led to one of the few jests of a concededly drab campaign.

"Homer Tice and Homer Galpin managing things for Omer Custer. A dry Homer and a wet Homer and a Omer that won't say where he stands ought to produce a new epic," got a laugh even at Custer headquarters.

William H. Malone's headquarters made public a telegram he received from Rockford assuring him of support there. It was signed by George J. Duke of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Franklin B. Forsaith, president of the Winnebago Farmers' institute; Stanley Wiezouk, treasurer of the local Polish Roman Catholic union; Arthur E. Gustafson, W. Clyde Oliver, and A. L. Johnson.

Candidate Is a Guest.

Jacob D. Allen, Deneen candidate for clerk of the Superior court, was the guest at a luncheon at the Union League club yesterday. Among those present were Harry Eugene Kelly, Judge William E. Helander, Judge David E. Matchett, Harry Olson, and Ernest D. McDougall.

Declarations in favor of placing a physician in the coroner's office marked a luncheon at the Hotel Morrison for Dr. Joseph C. Ross, Republican candidate. Among the speakers were Dr. John R. Harger, president of the Chicago Medical society, and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy. Dr. R. R. Ferguson, president of the Illinois State Medical society, presided.

HOOVER BIDS FOR OHIO DELEGATES, BUT WON'T ENTER PRIMARY RACE

Columbus, O., March 9.—(AP)—President Hoover made a formal bid for Ohio's delegation of 55 to the national convention today, when he filed his consent with the secretary of state to have candidates and alternates pledged to him as their first choice for President in compliance with state law.

At the same time, Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr filed the nominating petitions of the 11 delegates and alternate candidates at large, who had receive the President's consent to pledge to him.

The President did not file a declaration of candidacy as a means of entering his name in the presidential preference primary, and it is not expected that he will do so.

Olin J. Ross, Columbus attorney, filed at the same time in the Republican presidential preference primary.

Evansville, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—William E. Simpson, 40, Dayton, O., was drowned, and four others, including Thomas Harrison, Chicago, narrowly escaped drowning today when a heavily loaded truck skidded off the cable ferry two miles north of Mount Carmel, Ill.

Chicago Heights Youth, 17, Takes Own Life with Gun

Suffering from constant headaches and evidently fearing he was a burden to his family, Anthony Lalle, 17 years old, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 1309 5th avenue, Chicago Heights. Police learned that the boy also had been depressed over inability to find employment since last spring when he was graduated from the Franklin High school in Chicago Heights.

RUTH McCORMICK AND A. G. SIMMS WED IN COLORADO

Close Friends of Couple Attend Ceremony.

Colorado Springs, Colo., March 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Medill McCormick, widow of the late Illinois senator and daughter of the late Mark Hanna, today became the wife of Albert Gallatin Simms, former congressman from New Mexico, in a ceremony at Mrs. McCormick's Broadmoor home.

Only a small group of friends of the couple were present at the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Paul G. Robert of Grace Episcopal church.

The romance between Simms and Mrs. McCormick had its beginning in the national house of representatives in Washington, when both were members of that body. A license for the ceremony was procured late yesterday by Simms, who obtained from Judge John Young a dispensation which waived the five day provision, by which that time is supposed to elapse between issuance and use of a license.

Married in Gray.

Mrs. James Ailshie of Boise, Idaho, was matron of honor, and Justice John Simms of the New Mexico Supreme court, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. McCormick wore a gray afternoon dress trimmed with chinchilla, at the request of her daughter, Katrina, a student at Columbia university in New York, who was unable to be present for the ceremony.

A second daughter, Ruth Elizabeth, and Mrs. McCormick's son, Medill, both of whom are students at private schools here, attended the wedding.

Simms, a Republican, was defeated in the last congressional race by Dennis Chavez. He went to New Mexico from Arkansas in 1913.

Lewis Sends Congratulations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], who defeated Ruth Hanna McCormick for the senate in 1930, sent the following telegram today to her and former Representative A. G. Simms of New Mexico, to whom she was married this afternoon:

"Please let me extend a very cordial congratulation and good wish to both of you in all matters in all future life."

VICTIM OF GAS REACHES PHONE, SAVES FAMILY

Stanley H. Knight, head of the soda fountain manufacturing company bearing his name, struggled to a telephone early yesterday and saved himself, his wife, and their two children when fumes from the furnace swept through their home at 51 Kenilworth avenue, Kenilworth. The gas escaped from a rusted flue which had broken.

The telephone call reached Dr. Rufus B. Stolp. When the physician arrived he found Knight lying unconscious on the floor. The rest of the family were unconscious also. Mrs. Knight was in bed. The children, Margaret, 19 years old, and Stanley Jr., 15 years old, were on the bathroom floor.

Dr. Stolp called the Kenilworth police and started artificial respiration for the victims. Lieut. Victor Fallstick and Policeman William Summer aided him when they arrived, and within twenty minutes the family was revived.

The TRUTH about Gargling

A Sore Throat needs MEDICINE

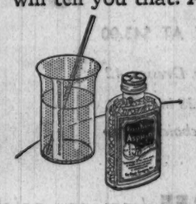
A sore throat may be serious. Most people know this, and are careful to gargle at the first sign of any soreness.

But it isn't the act of gargling that brings relief. It's what you use for a gargle.

Throat specialists, as well as physicians generally, use Bayer Aspirin for this purpose because it has definite medicinal action. It relieves the soreness; allays the inflammation; and reduces the infection.

Think of these medicinal properties of Bayer Aspirin when you want throat comfort and protection. Gargle promptly—with a gargle of proven medicinal value. A mild case of sore throat which one good Bayer Aspirin gargle could clear-up completely, can take a severe turn while you are seeking relief through some bland refreshant of no more therapeutic value than the use of so much sweetened water.

You know how quickly Bayer Aspirin knocks any cold. It is just as marvelous a medicine for sore throat. A few tablets crushed in half a glass of water makes the best gargle you can buy. Doctors will tell you that. And the doctor has a reason for specifying genuine aspirin tablets bearing the Bayer cross.



Any DOCTOR will confirm these Facts

"I've suffered my last spell of sour stomach," says H. K. White, Chicago. "I found that by taking ACIDINE three or four nights a week I never have that uncertain feeling whether my meals are going to set right or make me miserable from excessive acid and gas."

"I cannot help telling how good ACIDINE is," says J. F. McCarthy of Dorchester, Mass. "I had been troubled with an acid stomach for the last ten years. Now after using two boxes of ACIDINE I feel O. K."

End gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE NEW TAX BILL: BETTER BUT BAD.

The house ways and means committee, headed by Congressman Crisp of Georgia, has reported its revenue bill, which is calculated to bring in a billion dollars and balance federal expenditures in 1933. The bill is a Democratic measure to the extent that it was framed by a committee dominated by Democrats. Wide departures have been made from the administration's tax proposals offered by Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills on Jan. 13.

On the whole, the Crisp bill is the better for its departure from the treasury's suggestions. The principal innovation is the manufacturers' sales tax, modeled somewhat after the Canadian example. This tax is expected to produce close to $600,000,000 of relatively painless revenue. The treasury had suggested a number of sales taxes in the form of excises upon automobiles, phonographs, radios, and other items of substantial cost. The Democratic bill wisely rejects the idea of penalizing certain manufactures, including precisely the items depended upon for a business upturn, and, instead, makes the 2¼ per cent tax apply to all manufactures with the exception principally of foods and goods moving into export.

Another departure which will be generally applauded is the refusal of the committee to make the new and higher rates apply to 1931 incomes. That would have worked a serious injustice to individuals and corporations which had set aside reserves on the theory that the tax rates would remain unchanged, only to discover that their reserves were inadequate.

The committee has also shown good sense, if a somewhat inadequate sense of humor, in attempting to tax home brews to the extent of $50,000,000. That possibility was overlooked in the administration proposals. Perhaps if the government succeeds in collecting $50,000,000 from homemade beer and wine which contain commonly from 6 to 15 per cent of alcohol it might be encouraged to permit the manufacture of less intoxicating and more palatable beverages commercially which would yield eight or ten times as much revenue.

While the Crisp bill avoids the federal gasoline tax, which had numerous adherents, it imposes two taxes on petroleum. One, expected to yield $25,000,000, is a tax on lubricating oil, and the other is, in effect, a tariff on imported crude oil and gasoline. The tax on imported oil is expected to yield only $5,000,000, and is, therefore, of small importance as a revenue measure, though of large importance as a means of preserving the American market for American petroleum. As such it will appeal to owners of oil wells in this country, but there is reason to fear that it will result in increases in the price of gasoline in some sections of this country and also in hastening the depletion of our oil resources. This measure ought to be considered with more than usual care.

The Democratic bill goes considerably farther than the administration wished in taxing estates and gifts. This is a section of the bill the consequences of which also deserve most careful consideration. If accumulations of capital are to be so heavily taxed that forced sales of assets and sacrifice of experienced and able control of business enterprises will become obligatory in many instances, the tax may prove far more costly than the revenue of $35,000,000 a year can possibly justify.

If the Crisp bill, on the whole, compares favorably with the Republican program, it still cannot be said to be a sound measure. No bill increasing taxes with business and incomes in their present condition could be a sound proposal. Congress is able to exert a good deal of ingenuity in discovering new objects and sources of taxation, but no ingenuity at all has been displayed in reducing the costs of government which make the collection of taxes necessary.

Congressman Crisp and his colleagues of the ways and means committee have determined to balance income and outgo in 1933. They deserve much credit for this decision, but the Democrats can add immeasurably more to their reputations if they will face the other side of the ledger and attack the expenditures with equal vigor. Unless congress can make up its mind to bring taxation within the earning power of the people of the United States congress will achieve what no enemy in war has succeeded in bringing about: the destruction of the republic.

JUSTICE.

On Feb. 16 THE TRIBUNE reported that, through the intervention of Judge Edward Shurtleff, Judge Charles Williams of Chicago had set free two gunmen, Carl Parker and Stanley Wilson. They had been sentenced to serve from one year to life. They were freed after only a few weeks in the penitentiary. They had been identified by the victims of a number of holdups. Parker, diagnosed as a paranoiac, had previously escaped from a lunatic asylum. Wilson had lost two jobs because he was suspected of theft.

On Feb. 19 THE TRIBUNE published a letter from Mr. W. G. Trautvetter in comment on the matter. He wrote:

"I wish to voice a protest through your paper of this action by public officials sworn to protect the interest of law abiding citizens. I am the druggist . . . who was held up at the point of a gun in May, 1931, by these criminals. Parker fired six shots at me, endangering not only my life but six other persons in my store at the same time.

"If there is any way by which I, as a complaining witness, can assist in compelling these criminals to serve the sentence that was justly imposed upon them by the court I would do all in my power to help."

Early in the morning of March 8, less than three weeks after this letter was published, a bomb was exploded in Mr. Trautvetter's store and another in the Klink pharmacy at 1900 East 73d street in the same neighborhood. Mr. V. R. Klink some time ago had identified three young hoodlums as those who had held up his shop. At this writing it is not known whether the three identified by him were the men who held up Trautvetter's pharmacy or were even members of a gang to which Parker and Wilson may have belonged, but the fact that the holdups were committed in the same neighborhood, in much the same manner, suggests strongly that the crimes were committed, if not by the same men, at least by the same gang.

There is therefore a considerable presumption that the Trautvetter and Klink bombs were intended as a punishment and a warning. Notice has now been served upon victims of robbery with a gun that any attempt on their part to punish the criminals will fail, as it failed with respect to the two gunmen, Parker and Wilson, and in addition will be avenged by inflicting further losses on the victims.

This is, of course, only a presumption, but it is a presumption far better grounded in reason and common sense than the outrageous presumption of Judge Williams, who freed the two gunmen on some kind of a showing that they were good boys who would, in all probability, live model lives if allowed their liberty.

Unfortunately, the state's attorney has not shown much interest in the matter. His investigators have dismissed the subject with the statement that it is not likely that Parker and Wilson would have bombed Trautvetter. Quite so. The more the matter is studied, the clearer it becomes that Trautvetter was neither robbed nor bombed. He is the victim of hallucinations. No crime was committed. No escaped paranoiac was freed by Judge Williams. Indeed, it is doubtful if there ever was a drug store, a hoodlum, or a bomb.

WE ALSO TAKE OUT YOUR BARBERRIES.

Brewer's wort, liquid malt, malt sirup, and malt extract are to be taxed 35 cents a gallon in the proposed sales tax bill prepared by the house ways and means committee. Grape concentrate is to be taxed 40 per cent of the base of something which you need not bother to understand. Aside from it there'll be plenty of calls upon your understanding. Wort and malt extract are used in the making of beer, grape concentrate in the making of wine. Both are so extensively used by the citizenship imbued with the spirit of respect for law, between spells of being immured for violation of it, that the ways and means committee can estimate a return of $50,000,000 from this taxation. Some ways. Some means.

To make this revenue available great masses of the imbued citizens must further imbue themselves with beverages prohibited under the Volsteady interpretation of the eighteenth amendment. The beer the imbuer can make may run as high as 4 per cent alcoholic content and Mabel Willebrandt's concentrates will lay him down in his cellar a good heady intoxicant which can overcome consumer resistance in a half hour, New Year's eve or any other time.

However, the $50,000,000 will not be clear profit to the dry government, even if the imbued citizenship does for itself as handsomely as the ways and means committee anticipates. To prevent the use of such intoxicants as are to be taxed congress appropriates $11,369,000 for Amos Woodcock's bureau of prohibition enforcement in the department of justice. Amos rates one-fourth of the entire department of justice fund and that does not include the keep of the citizens, some 40,000 of them, who have been sent to the penitentiary under the Volstead act for not understanding when the government is jocular and when it is not. Deducting the money given Amos to prevent the use of the taxed beverages you get $38,630,500 net for the good old United States dry government, but that is not all clear profit.

From it there must be deducted the subsidies granted the wine concentrate producers in California, say $4,000,000. Now more than ever they must be encouraged to produce the beverage which Amos is to destroy but which his government is to tax. There also must be considered the additional federal judges to be appointed to satisfy Mr. Hoover's recommendation that the imbued citizen be given more encouragement in the courts. Bishop Cannon's recruits in the coast guard also must be paid.

Probably a fair estimate of the government's net profit from the taxation of prohibited beverages would be $30,000,000, which will be about enough for the bureau of animal industry to get the Buffalo gnat and Montana sheep tick out of the hair of citizens who think they have them because they have imbued themselves with too much concentrate, taxed at 40 per centum of the basis on which the tax is computed under subsection [A] or [B] of this section of section 603, as the case may be.

The Other Side

NO ONE OF SENSE URGES LONE BOYCOTT.

[Des Moines Register.]

Ridiculing talk of an economic boycott against Japan, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE calls the internationalists and pacifists "idiotically belligerent." Were the league of nations associations (to which THE TRIBUNE probably refers, principally) talking about a trade embargo laid down solely by the United States, as the newspaper implies, that would not be so far wrong.

But the "illusionists," the THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE calls them, have been chiefly distressed because the United States at several critical stages was not in a position to act simultaneously with the other world (or league) powers.

Few of the so-called pacifists are so "illusionist" as to suspect that the United States alone could safely and effectively establish a boycott against Japan. But just suppose that the United States had been in the league, or in close liaison with it, and that all of the nations had thereby agreed to effect the boycott simultaneously. How perilous then does THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE think that Japan, which is having a difficult time with the poorly equipped and poorly organized Chinese, would have been to the world concert?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THESE DAYS!

Oh, my dear! I've something just simply horrible to tell you! But you must give me your word of honor you won't breathe it to a soul!

Oh, I promise you! Not one word to any one! Oh, do tell me quickly!

It's about the Jack Coupons; have you heard?

Oh, no, but I know it's about how hard the depression has struck them! Oh, I can't bear it; don't tell me! What is it?

Well, they've had to give up their house!

No! That beautiful place?

Yes, they have; they told me so themselves!

I can't believe it!

But it's true just the same. And they've had to take two suites at the Ritzy!

Oh, it's too horrible! I can't believe it!

And they've had to give up practically all their servants! They're only keeping the butler, the chauffeur, and two of the maids.

Oh, it's simply sickening! I could just cry!

And they've given up all their cars except the Spazzuzi Eight and the Duplex Eighteen and Three-Quarters!

Oh, I can't bear it, I tell you; I can't bear it! Don't tell me any more! Oh, these are terrible times, the most terrible times!

And the Gotcashes! Have you heard about them?

Don't tell me! I know! It's another terrible story of poverty and hardship! What is it?

My dear, try to be brave! I must tell you!

Oh, but they're my very dearest, dearest friends! I'd rather not hear! Go on!

They've sold their house at Newport!

Oh, no, no, no! Don't tell me that; oh, don't, please! I just couldn't bear it!

But it's true. And they've given up going to Europe and their trip around the world this summer.

How ghastly, how perfectly ghastly!

Yes, they're simply going to their hunting lodge in Canada as soon as they come back from their house down in Florida.

It's perfectly terrible! But dear little Goolie is so brave! I know she'll not give the faintest sign to show how much she suffers!

And the Astorkins, have you heard about them?

Oh, not a word. What has happened to them?

Well, you know that they're the very last word when one's talking about society?

Of course! Oh, what's happened to them?

They've discharged their second cook.

Oh, oh, it's simply revolting!

My dear, you don't know the half of it! Have you heard about the Glitter-Dashers, you know, those wonderful New York people that come out here now and then?

Oh, I know them so well; they're my very best friends! Don't tell me that anything's happened to them!

My dear, you must be calm—but the Glitter-Dashers have given up their yacht!

They have—have—have—what?

Here, my dear, here are my smelling salts—and wait until I find my gin flask. Now, be quite brave, dearie; I will tell you again! The Glitter-Dashers have given up their yacht!

Oh—it is too terrible—too sickening for words—too horrible! Oh—oh—oh—everything—is—going—around—I-I-I (faints).

SALUTATION.

There sits a man who's fat and stupid.
He grunts when he smokes

He's got a mind like

He winks at the girls

Watch him when he

He will blush

doesn't know.
The words I speak will creak,

The words I don't will

Thus I salute this

And he'll be pleased,
not teased

YELLOW FEVER—PAST AND FUTURE.

IN a letter dated Oct. 2, 1878, Martha Freeman Esmond wrote of the news of the yellow fever epidemic of 1878. Amongst other statements were these: "The deaths in New Orleans to date from the disease number 2,400. We are fortunate not to have it in the north, but in Memphis it has been very bad. The state of Mississippi has been one of the hardest hit. I wish our doctors could find out the cause of this terrible epidemic and prevent its starting on its fearful course."

Since there has been no worthwhile epidemic of yellow fever in 53 years our people cannot imagine conditions as they were on the date of this letter. Defoe wrote a story of the plague year in London, but the details were so gruesome that most people refuse to accept what he wrote as fact, regarding it as fiction. He told facts as they were in London and what he wrote was true, in its essentials, of conditions as they were in the great epidemic of yellow fever of 1878-'79.

The north had reason to feel secure in that year, but it had not always been so. Yellow fever epidemics have prevailed as far north as Montreal. Those of Philadelphia, New York, and Boston are well known. That of Montreal masqueraded under the name "maladie de Siam."

The wish that the doctors could find the cause of the diease and prevent it from starting on its fearful course has been partly realized, but the task has not been completed. During this fifty-two year period North America has had only three outbreaks of yellow fever and they have been trivial. Yellow fever is like smallpox in that the disease was brought under control, even though the definite cause of it remains unknown.

Within a few years we have gained much additional information about the disease. We have sera by the use of which we can make diagnosis, determine strains of the malady, and possibly we may cure a person sick with it or vaccinate against it. We know of some animals that can be inoculated with it, some that cannot, and some that may have become immune by exposure. We know much of the disease as it prevails among semi-wild people in its natural habitat. And we know much about the mosquitoes that carry it. While we do not know its cause we know almost as much about the laboratory side of the disease as we need for practical purposes. At least we are in the vicinity of that goal.

It is air transportation that is creating the new danger. It has been demonstrated that flying machines carry mosquitoes when starting in mosquito infested places, unless precautions are taken. Such precautions are the exception and not the rule. It is easily possible for a flying machine to carry infection-bearing mosquitoes from Africa to susceptible populations in Europe in less than a day's time. The Sahara desert was an adequate protection to Cairo, Alexandria, and other cities to the north so long as camels were the means of transportation. But a variation changes the picture. A flying ship from Brazil to the United States could loosen infection bearing mosquitoes in, say, New York, Chicago, St. Louis, or New Orleans in two days after they had been taken on board.

HIVES AND SOAP.

Mrs. W. Y. S. writes: Thinking my experience with hives may be of profit to some of your readers, I am sending this. I suffered for months, and then my husband broke out, too. After we stopped using a particular brand of soap we were all right, except once, when stockings were washed in same. Later I used this soap for washing all right, but followed directions, as I should have at first. I used too much, and did not rinse the clothes in enough water, according to directions. Washing powders are powerful and require thorough rinsing.

INCREASE SHAMPOOS.

L. writes: For the last five years or more I have been troubled with an itch on my scalp. I believe it is dandruff. It itches at night before I go to bed. After I shampoo my hair, it doesn't itch for about three days. Then it starts again. I lose a lot of hair. When the itch is not present I do not lose hair.

REPLY.

Why not shampoo your hair at least twice a week, and possibly oftener? Use a little grease after shampooing. That may be all the treatment you need.

COATING OF THE TONGUE.

Mrs. W. C. writes: What causes a coating of the tongue when there seems to be no stomach trouble of any kind? My tongue is always coated.

REPLY.

Sleeping with the mouth open is probably the most frequent cause. Constipation is often a cause. So is reverse peristalsis.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—A naval engagement has taken place off Yalu, where a Chinese squadron was covering the landing of a large force. The landing was effected with success, but in the meantime the Chinese ships were attacked by a Japanese fleet. In the battle that followed the Chinese warship Chin Yuen was sunk by the fire of the Japanese and the Yang Wei, also a Chinese ship, when attempting to get out of the range of fire, was run aground. One other Chinese ship is reported to have been sunk. The Japanese also are said to have sustained heavy losses, three of their vessels having been sunk. Admiral Ting and Col. von Hannekin are reported to have been killed during the attack. Latest reports of the number of Chinese killed during the battle of Pingyang place the total at 6,500.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18.—An imperial edict has officially degraded Viceroy Li Hung Chang and deprived him of his three-eyed peacock feather because of his mismanagement of the Corean campaign. Tatoati Shang is reported as intriguing against Li Hung Chang.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A dispatch frim Pingyang, Corea, says that every hour adds to the crushing character of the Chinese defeat. The total of the Chinese losses during the two days' battle is now said to be more than 17,000 men killed, wounded, and taken prisoners. Japanese cavalry is continuing the pursuit of the Chinese who succeeded in escaping.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 10, 1904.

PORT ARTHUR.—It is rumored here that a Japanese squadron has reappeared off Vladivostok.

TOKIO.—Japanese warships bombarded the forts at Tallenwan [Port Dalny] the night of March 8, and then attacked Port Arthur.

SEOUL.—It is reported that a fight has occurred between Coreans and Russians on the Corean side of the Tumen river.

TIENTSIN.—The Japanese forces have advanced from the Yalu river, have captured Fenghuancheng and have driven the Russians in that vicinity to Takungling, the eastern pass. The Japanese are in force seventy miles to the east of Newchwang. The Russians, with 35,000 men, are strongly entrenched at Liaoyang and Haicheng, where a battle is imminent. Some small engagements already have been fought, the Russians falling back with loss. All women and children are leaving Newchwang. The Japanese are using the same tactics and advancing on the same route they employed during their war with China.

YINKOW.—Convincing reports have reached here that the Japanese are advancing westward from the Yalu river and are now about 50 miles northwest of Antung. According to native accounts, there has been fighting. The Russians at Newchwang and in that neighborhood are acting as if they expected an attack. The families of Russian officials have departed from here.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 10, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—The United States is going to war with the lawless revolutionary forces of Mexico. President Wilson decided to take action with armed forces in Mexico to protect Americans on both sides of the boundary and to pacify the bandit infested northern section of the revolution ridden country. The President not only intends to dispatch all available troops of the regular army across the border into Mexico but to ask congress for authority to raise volunteer forces to patrol the frontier. Already United States soldiers are on Mexican soil pursuing Francisco Villa and his band who raided Columbus, N. M., today with a loss of 17 American lives. It was this raid that caused the President to abandon his watchful waiting policy and adopt aggressive measures. Secretary of State Lansing immediately notified Eliseo Arredondo, Carranza's ambassador designate to the United States, that the President intends to send the American army into Mexico.

COLUMBUS, N. M.—A desperate battle between 250 United States troopers of the 13th United States cavalry and a force of Mexican bandits, variously estimated at between 500 and 1,500, led by Francisco Villa, followed a raid by the bandits on this city early today, when nine American civilians, seven troopers and one Texas guardsman were killed, and five United States soldiers and several citizens wounded. Three troops of cavalry were posted on the boundary tonight. Troops from Fort Bliss and from Fort Huachuca, Ariz., have been ordered to reinforce troops now at the border.

The first intimation of the approach of the bandits came when Private Fred Griffin of K troop on sentry saw a number of Mexicans around the quarters of Lieut. John P. Lucas. Griffin opened fire and at the cost of his life drew the attention of the bandits long enough to permit Lucas to reach camp and turn out his machine gun troop. By this time the Mexicans had swept through the town.

THE INTELLIGENCE OF CATS.

Westmont, Ill., Feb. 25.—You may be interested in hearing of a successful demonstration I once undertook showing the intelligence of the lower quadrupeds.

A factory hand had spilled some glucose on the floor and our cat was sniffing at it. She was naturally of a highly nervous disposition, albeit an excellent mouser, and I feared the shock would be fatal were she ever to become mired in glucose for an extended period. So, to teach her a lesson, I set the cat gently in the center of the glucose. At first she made no move, merely looking at me in a whimsical and somewhat roguish manner peculiar to factory cats, as if she would say, "And now what are you up to?" Finally she decided to leave the spot, but could not. She would lift one paw after another, setting each paw down again to lift another, but never able to free more than one at a time. Finding that she did not progress she decided to jump out. She tried this and merely landed on her nose. She then sat down to consider the best way out, and, here comes the almost human thought, she began to weep. I could not stand any more of the harrowing experiment, so I carefully bathed her and dried her rapidly in a dehydrator. Except for some slight nausea she was in no way harmed.

I will just add that we were always good friends, and I deeply regretted losing her when she died of a broken heart. I hear you saying that no one ever died of a broken heart, but she did, and I will prove it. The factory was to shut down for three days, and in order to provide for her I purchased a large piece of liver and divided it into three portions, each properly labeled, one piece to be eaten each day. Unexpectedly passing the plant the next day I thought I would drop in and see the cat, and I found her dead. And in the poor thing's paws was a bit of her third day's ration, the other two having been consumed. This showed conclusively that she fully intended eating the entire amount of liver at one sitting, and when she found that she was unable to do so the shock affected her heart, fatally.

R. W. SHERMAN.

THE LIFE SPAN OF THE CAT.

Chicago, March 6.—We have at home an old cat which last fall reached its 20th birthday. It is still very active and to all appearances will live to enjoy many more. We were wondering whether it is a common occurrence for cats to reach this ripe old age.

THE SHERIFF'S FORCE.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—I wonder if the proposed drastic reduction in the personnel of the sheriff's office is a measure of retaliation directed at Sheriff Meyering for being man enough to support Michael L. Igoe for governor instead of following the dictates of the Democratic party boss. G. J. C.

PERTINENT INQUIRY.

Chicago, March 6.—Is there any record of a man or woman stopping the use of liquor on account of or because of the Volstead law? I travel extensively and never could find one, but I have found many who never drank until the dry law was passed. LEWIS F. MARTIN.

SCORE CARD FOR LEAP YEAR.

North Chicago, Ill., March 2.—The eligible unmarried male is, during this year, subject to the fatal onslaughts and terrific, purposeful barrages of his unmarried feminine acquaintances. He is like a ship in a storm-tossed sea without a chart. Of course, a woman unmarried is a woman unhappy, desperately seeking her happiness, which is man.

I submit for the protection of the male my chart, with which I have had consistent success. [No copyright.]

ANOTHER FOR OSCAR.

Chicago, March 2.—Maybe Oscar Hewitt could find some interesting work investigating the collector of internal revenue office here. For fifteen minutes today, while waiting to be quizzed by a Mr. Corwine for nonpayment of my June and December installments on 1930 tax, I actually counted nine employés who showed no semblance whatsoever of keeping busy—not bureaucracy, just plain, every day pay rollers. It is enough to make people Red when you are struggling to keep your home, business and maybe keep from starving to see a situation as above.

Let John Public have some figures on the cost of collection of federal income tax, especially in the Chicago district.

Let us have more like today's editorial, "Into the Abyss." E. PETERSON.

ANTI-BANKER.

Chicago, March 2.—Why should Orr in a TRIBUNE cartoon represent Alexander Hamilton as one of the builders of the country when as the successful promoter of the first Bank of the United States he became undoubtedly one of the chief wreckers of the general welfare of the country? Immediately after the establishment of the Bank of the United States, Hamilton and his gang of financial hi-jackers threw the credit resources of the country into the gambling operations of the stock market and caused a very severe panic during the winter of 1791-'92; they brought on another panic in 1796. From the days of Hamilton to the present, the bankers and their associates have produced a major panic and business depression about every ten years, with subsidiary panics added to these major blessings.

The subsidized press of the country was very much in favor of the new federal finance corporation headed by the so-called general whose free hand operations cleaned up the treasury of the United States during the world war. If the federal government would take the billions it is giving to the pirates and make loans of $500 to $1,000 to every needy unemployed head of a family, to be repaid in twenty semi-annual installments, these billions would begin to flow at once into the legitimate channels of trade, without the pernicious control of the bankers, and would soon bring about a general business revival. This would be much sounder finance than any plan that will be concocted by the bankers.

ERNEST BRADSHAW.

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

Chicago, March 1.—Prof. Simpson's letter in today's TRIBUNE in which he desires to bury the prohibition issue in our present political campaign will not, I think, have the approval of many thinking voters. Even from the economic and tax angle only, modification and eventual repeal would be the means of supplying employment for upwards of one million of our citizens, besides providing a very considerable sum to help meet our increasing tax deficits. Not many voters, I think, are going to allow any candidate to sidestep this important issue.

FAIR PLAY.

PROHIBITION TRIMMING.

Paola, Kas., March 5.—After consulting some political weather maps and reading a few wet bulb and dry bulb thermometers the following long distance prediction seems justified:

Both the Republican and the Democratic platforms this summer will be dry, but each will carry a gangplank leading to the wet, wet ground.

The construction of these platforms will not be difficult for skillful wood carpenters and the campaigns after the conventions can be conducted according to custom on the usual grounds.

C. CRAWFORD.

JUDGE SWANSON'S TRIP.

Chicago, March 5.—In this morning's TRIBUNE you show John A. Swanson and Pat Roche about to enter an airplane to go to Trenton, N. J., to aid in finding the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby.

I am convinced that the authorities at New Jersey can take care of their own criminals without the assistance of our state's attorney. In a word, Mr. Swanson's stunt is a political move intended to aid him in his campaign. When he comes back the cost of the trip will be charged to the people.

JAPAN OFFERS PARLEY TO TALK PEACE TERMS

Accepts League Scheme as a Basis.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

SHANGHAI, March 10 [Thursday].—The peace dove fluttered timidly out again yesterday. Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister here, sent Chinese authorities a note stating that Japan is prepared to meet China's representatives on the basis of the league of nations assembly's resolution of March 4. The note mentioned the imminent possibility of a renewal of hostilities.

QUO TAI-CHI.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The league assembly's resolution provided [1] that China and Japan take measures necessary to insure that order for a cessation of hostilities shall be made effective; [2] that representatives of the foreign powers inform the assembly of the manner in which this is done, and [3] that China and Japan enter negotiations with representatives of the powers for the conclusion of arrangements which shall make definite the cessation of hostilities and regulate the withdrawal of the Japanese forces.

Britain Acts as Intermediary.

The note was handed to Quo Tai-chi, vice minister of foreign affairs, through Sir Miles W. Lampson, British minister, and was apparently the outcome of a luncheon yesterday attended by Quo Tai-chi, Sir Miles and Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, commander of the British fleet.

After receiving the Japanese note, Quo Tai-chi, Finance Minister T. V. Soong, Wellington Koo, and other Chinese officials at a conference which lasted until after midnight decided upon a tentative reply, which was telegraphed to Nanking and Loyang [temporary capital] for final approval before presentation to the Japanese.

It is understood that the Chinese note expresses willingness to enter negotiations on the basis of the league resolution, but stipulates that the conference must be limited to a discussion of cessation of hostilities and withdrawal of the opposing forces. The Chinese insist that no conditions be attached to the withdrawal of Japanese troops.

Doves of War Also Flutter.

But while the peace dove cooed timidly in diplamatic circles other members of the dove family, carrier pigeons, bearing war messages, flew back and forth between the Japanese outposts and Gen. Yoshinori Shirakawa's headquarters adjacent to the Japanese front lines.

The Japanese commander-in-chief announced that the 9th division, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, had been withdrawn from the front and replaced by two new divisions recently arrived from Japan. The announcement said:

"The 9th division, with war stains still fresh on their faces and uniforms, marched back to their base within the Hongkew section of the international settlement amidst waving banners of the rising sun and the banzais of a large crowd of Japanese civilians lining the streets."

Commander Praises His Men.

Upon their arrival at their barracks in a cotton mill, Lieut. Gen. Uyeda made a speech in which he said:

"It is needless to say that the triumph of our arms is attributable to the august virtue of his majesty, the imperial emperor, and the warm encouragement given our troops by the Japanese nation and Japanese residents of Shanghai."

Gen. Shirakawa also issued a statement saying that the Japanese troops have ceased hostilities, but "unfortunately the quietness has ben disturbed by Chinese snipers, whose sinister activities more than once caused shots to be fired by Japanese sentries, which resulted in several deaths.

Chinese Blame Japs.

An official Chinese military report based on telegrams from Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, Chinese commander at the battle front, said that 2,000 Japanese calvarymen again advanced toward Lutuchiao, east of Taitsang, but that Chinese troops prevented them from gaining any ground.

The Japanese calvary action cannot be described as an outpost clash, the report said, but was, undoubtedly, conducted to cover Japanese troop movements in the rear and to find weak spots in the Chinese lines.

The Japanese now have more than 30,000 men massed between Wangtu and Taitsang, ready to launch an offensive in this sector, the communique said.

Jap Advance Repulsed.

At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a small party of Japanese scouts crossed the creek near Peisingking, but retired when fired on by Chinese troops, the statement said.

A telegram from Gen. Chiang Kwang-nai said that between 500 and 600 Japanese troops launched an attack Tuesday night at Lutu bridge, six miles west of Liuho. The purpose, it was said, was to attack Taitsang.

The attack was renewed early yesterday with a larger force and the fighting is continuing. The telegram said the Japanese commanders at the front had notified the Chinese forces that they must withdraw another six miles west.

KASHING (Headquarters of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's forces, southwest of Shanghai on the Shanghai-Hangchow railway), March 10 (Thursday).—Large forces of Chinese reënforcements are mobilizing here. They consist of troops from Kiangsi and Fukien provinces. This army marched overland through the mountains and they present a weather-beaten and bedraggled appearance. They are, however, determined to assist the 19th route army in opposing the Japanese invasion.

Most of the troops here belong to the 88th division. They are under Gen. Yu Chi-shih, right hand man of Gen. Chiang. However, some of the troops are of an independent brigade under Gen. Wang Ken which has been incorporated with the 88th division, while others belong to the 36th independent brigade under Gen. Lu Ti-ping, chairman of the Chekiang provincial government.

Build Trench System.

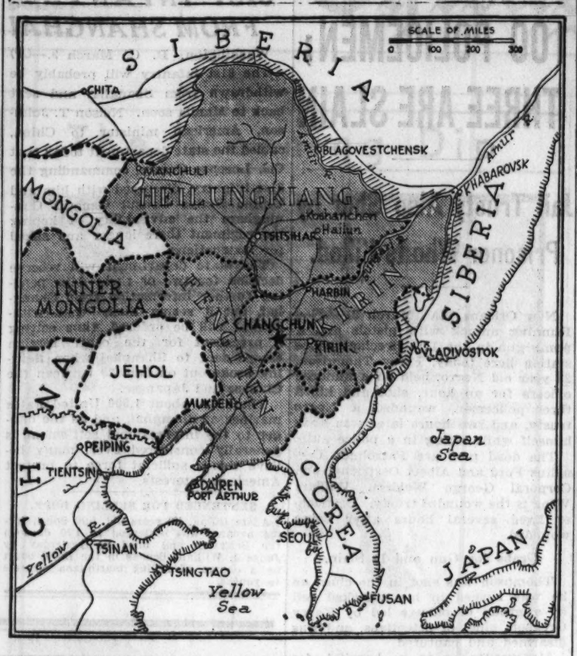
The troops are engaged in the construction of an extensive trench system and bombproof fortifications, which include defenses along the north shore of Hangchow bay, near Chapu and Kashing.

The government forces are reported to have reached a compromise with the Chinese communist armies in Kiangsi province for a cessation of the civil war.

The Chinese today captured a Japanese spy here. He confessed that the Japanese plan to cut the railway to Hangchow.

Trains and canal boats are jammed with refugees.

"Manchoukuo" Makes Bow Before World



The shaded portion of the map indicates the new far eastern state of Manchoukuo, comprising old Manchuria, from which Japan's army drove the Chinese rulers, and inner Mongolia, of which Henry Pu-yi, the former "boy emperor" of China, was installed as dictator yesterday.

WEIRD CEREMONY PUTS BOY KING ON MANCHU 'THRONE'

High Officials Kowtow as Pu-yi Is Installed.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 9.—(AP)—Henry Pu-yi, who was ejected from the dragon throne of China two decades ago, was installed as ruler of the new Manchurian-Mongolian state today at a ceremony featured by much kowtowing and weird music.

The kowtow—the gesture of subservience in which an inferior kneels before his superior and touches his forehead to the floor—was performed by Chang Ching-hui and Ma Chan-shan, two of the Chinese leaders who assisted in building the new government, when they presented the 26 year old ruler with the seal of state and his personal seal.

HENRY PU-YI.

The music was the new Manchurian national anthem, a hybrid of unearthly dissonances neither Chinese nor occidental.

Many Japanese Present.

A ceremony lasting exactly 25 minutes was required to elevate the former boy emperor to the position of chih-cheng—dictator—of the government which has been set up by the might of Japanese arms to rule over the territory that for centuries was the domain of Pu-yi's celestial Manchu ancestors.

Numerous Japanese officials were present, but they emphasized that they attended in their personal capacities only and that by being there they did not indicate Japanese recognition of the young nation.

The installation, marked by frayed remnants of the pomp and ceremony of the Chinese court in old Peking (now Peiping), took place in the "throne room" of the temporary presidential palace in this new capital of the state now called Manchoukuo.

Thirty Chinese, Manchus and Mongols, as well as fifteen Japanese, looked on. Some of the Chinese wore queues retained since the fall of the Manchu dynasty as a protest against republicanism.

Only privileged persons were allowed to witness the ceremony. The event attracted thousands of visitors from widely separated parts of Manchuria and Mongolia and all Changchun's hotels and inns were crowded.

The front row of seats in the throne room was allotted to the notables—Chang Ching-hui, Ma Chan-Shan, Hsia Hsia, Tsang Shi-yi, Prince Chi of Inner Mongolia, and Lin Seng of Barga.

New Flag Is Unfurled.

A Chinese military band blared discordantly as Pu-yi entered the hall, seven minutes after 3 p. m. Thereafter the ceremony moved rapidly through a succession of congratulatery speech and the presentation of the seals.

In behalf of the Japanese delegation Count Uchida delivered a congratulatory address, expressing Japan's friendship for the new régime. One of the spectators was Gen. Shigeru Honjo, the Japanese commander, whose conquest of Manchuria made the whole show possible. Later, as Gen. Honjo was returning to Mukden, his train was attacked by 800 Chinese. They were driven off by Japanese railway guards.

At the conclusion of the ceremony those present proceeded to a garden outside, where a flagpole had been erected, and hoisted the new state's flag, a banner with a yellow body, whose upper right quarter is cut by parallel stripes of red, blue, white, and black.

Among Changchun's visitors the most picturesque were scores of bannermen, Manchu retainers at Pu-yi's old court at Peking, whose sincerity is unquestionable. They knelt in long lines along Pu-yi's route to the palace and displayed huge yellow banners inscribed:

"Great Ching Emperor Hsuan Tung: The Manchus of Kirin province, under all eight banners, greet their sovereign of old."

China Brands Pu-Yi "Rebel."

NANKING, March 9.—(AP)—China's government considers the new régime in Manchuria as a rebel group, the foreign office announced today in commenting on the installation of Henry Pu-yi as chief executive of the new state at Changchun.

"The ridiculous activities of Pu-yi and those associated with him constitute a serious offense against the Chinese laws," the statement said. "Such a move as they have made is properly characterized as that of a rebel group. Manchuria is part of China's territory and is recognized as such by the nations of the world."

LEAGUE DECIDES NOT TO GIVE JAPS A 'CALLING DOWN'

Powers Put Over Plan for Just a Mild Resolution.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 9.—The league of nations assembly's resolution on the war in the orient, which has shaken the league to its foundations, will, it now appears, be just another resolution after all.

Efforts of the small powers to have the evacuation by Japan of both the Shanghai and Manchurian areas expressly demanded as a condition of mediation, to have Japan declared the aggressor and the league of nations covenant declared violated seem to have failed.

The drafting committee, on which the little powers with their ideals and the big powers with their sense of realities were equally represented, struggled through the afternoon with proposals submitted by eleven countries.

Subcommission Hits Snag.

Of two subcommissions appointed, the one dealing with the procedure to be adopted became entangled on questions of what kind of commission should be named, of whom it should be composed and with what powers it should be endowed to carry on the matter after the assembly adjourns and when the assembly is reconvened.

The second subcommission, on "principles," is dealing with the framework of the assembly's resolution and tentatively with its contents. A compromise between the big and little powers was contrived by the big powers—that nothing drastic be said or done to make it impossible for Japan to sign the resolution.

Divided into Three Parts.

The resolution, it seems, is to be in three parts, the first on principles, the second a restatement of the league's case, and the third covering provisions for future action through the assembly.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, said today that in his speech the other day, which seemed to be aimed in any and all directions, he really meant to line up the league strongly behind Secretary of State Stimson. So Stimson's idea of refusing to recognize Japaness gains made by force will be added to the league's arsenal of principles.

The evacuation of Shanghai and Manchuria before any negotiations can be held, as Spain, for one, insisted, is merely to be implied. Apparently in two places, for it will be stated that the settlement of any dispute under military pressure is contrary to the spirit of the covenant, and in a review of the case the council's resolutions of Sept. 30 and Dec. 10, calling for Japanese withdrawal, will be dwelt upon.

"Dynamite" Thrown Out.

As forecast in their speeches, the Spaniards, Swiss and Colombians and, to a lesser degree, the Czecho-Slovaks, produced demands calculated to make clear that Japan in the aggressor and to force—by moral suasion, of course, —evacuation by a certain date.

One delegate called "patently impossible" the proposals, by which was meant those which would sour the Japanese on the resolution. These proposals were thrown out. But still enough of the ideas of the little fellows got in to satify them and to strengthen considerably the original British suggestions.

The serious matter to be decided now is whether the draft resolution shall be shown to the Japanese for the approval of Tokio before it is produced on the floor of the assembly.

DE VALERA, FOE OF BRITAIN, MADE IRISH PRESIDENT

Dail Cheers as Old Rebel Replaces Cosgrave.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 9.—Eamon De Valera, once under sentence of death as a leader of the Irish rebellion against Great Britain, was elected president of the Irish Free State in the Dail Eireann today by a vote of 81 to 68. Only four deputies were absent — one, Deputy McDermott, refused to vote, one has died, and two were ill.

EAMON DE VALERA
[Acme Photo.]

Tremendous cheering marked the election of De Valera, who was born in New York of an Irish mother and a Spanish father. The crowded public gallery joined vociferously. The scene was unprecedented in the dail. Quiet was restored when De Valera returned thanks briefly in Irish.

William T. Cosgrave, retiring president, who with his ministers lined the front bench, looked resigned to the fact that his long career as head of the government, which he had guided from its infancy, was ending.

Awaits De Valera's Policy.

Cosgrave did not ask that De Valera should disclose his policy. He said the opposition would consider the new government's legislative proposals with sympathy when they were proposed.

"I propose to give every opportunity to Mr. De Valera to develop his policy," Cosgrave declared. "We do not want an explanations policy; we want to see what he is going to do."

Discussion showed that the independent deputies, who can be counted on to vote with Cosgrave, will be critical, but as helpful as possible.

One new independent member, Seumas Dillon, son of the late John Dillon, leader of the Irish party at Westminster, instantly struck the dail as a coming personality. He is young under 30, and full of ideas. He eloquently told the house that De Valera clearly was called on by the people to rule and that he would uphold the people's will and help De Valera.

Puts Ban on War.

He demanded, however, that De Valera should not lead the people to war, either at home or abroad. Peace is urgently needed and peace must be assured, he said. Dillon clearly indicated that in any further conflict with England, De Valera would have no help from him.

Another independent, Frank McDermott, scion of an ancient family, whose head is known as the McDermott, took a different view. He said the country evidently voted for De Valera, but that he has no sympathy with De Valera's policy and will not support it.

William Norton, new leader of the Labor party of seven, on whose constant help the new government must depend, stressed the insistence of Labor on social reforms such as housing, unemployment, and food supplies. He demanded that the new government take these steps first.

Ignores Question of Oath.

Norton ostentatiously omitted any reference to the oath of allegiance to King George, renunciation of the public safety act and retention of land annuities. Clearly, Labor does not want to have these questions raised.

Before the election of the president, the dail chose Frank Fahy, a De Valera man, its speaker. He was elected over the protest of Cosgrave by a vote of 79 to 71.

After the election of De Valera, the house adjourned until 6 o'clock. Meantime, De Valera called on Gov. Gen. James McNeill, who gave De Valera the king's confirmation of his election.

Promptly at 6 o'clock the dail resumed, with Cosgrave and his followers seated on the opposition benches, while De Valera and his new ministers sat on the front benches, so long held by Cosgrave's party.

Announces New Cabinet.

As De Valera took his seat unrestrained applause and cheers again broke out. When quiet was restored, De Valera submitted his cabinet, as follows:

President and minister of external affairs, Eamon De Valera.

Vice president and minister of local government and public health, Sean T. O'Kelley.

Finance minister, Sean McEntee.

Industry and commerce, Sean F. Lemass.

Justice, James Geoghegan.

Agriculture, D. R. Ryan.

Defense, Frank Aiken.

Lands and fisheries, P. J. Ruttledge.

Education, Thomas Derrig.

Posts and telegraphs, Senator Joseph Connolly.

Approval was granted without comment by the opposition. The house then adjourned until Tuesday.

Candidate's Widow Takes Seat.

There are, altogether, 43 new deputies in the new dail. These include Mrs. Patrick Reynolds, widow of the candidate who was shot during the election campaign in Leitrim. She was in deep mourning. The only other woman deputy is Mrs. Collins O'Driscoll, sister of the famous Michael Collins, who was killed from ambush during the civil war.

A basket of flowers was presented to De Valera from friends in Chicago.

Frank Aiken and James Geoghegan, new ministers of defense and justice, tonight visited Arbor hill prison in Dublin and ordered that political prisoners there be allowed special privileges. This is taken to indicate that immediate action will be taken for their release. The ministers ordered that the political prisoners be separated from the others.

IVY HILLMAN.

Miss Iva Hillman, 21 years old, 3433 West Jackson boulevard, formerly of Belle Center, Wis., was held at the detective bureau yesterday with four men awaiting officers from Wisconsin to return them there to answer charges of robbery at Lancaster, Wis. Paul Burns of that town said he was driving near there on Feb. 25 when he stopped to give aid to the occupants of a burning automobile. He said he was surrounded by four men and the Hillman girl whom he had stopped to help and forced to surrender $15 and his automobile. Burns remembered seeing the girl in Belle Center and learned her Chicago address. The men under arrest are Harold Dustin, Nathan Shoop, Michael Ducay, and Oscar Olson.

CLUB TO MURDER JAPAN'S LEADERS BARED BY POLICE

"Brotherhood of Blood" Found in Tokio.

TOKIO, March 9.—(AP)—Police announced today that they have discovered the existence of a small group of fanatical patriots who have banded together to assassinate notable Japanese leaders.

The recent assassinations of Baron Takuma Dan, financial czar, and former Finance Minister Junnosuke Inouye are said by the authorities to have been the work of this murder organization. The police arrested Daiji Kurosawa, whom they described as a third member of the "blood brotherhood" to which belonged the two peasants who killed Inouye and the baron.

Airman Headed Plotters.

Lieutenant Commander Fujii, a naval airman who was killed on Feb. 5 when his plane was shot down at Shanghai, was said by the authorities to have been one of the originators of the assassination movement. His rank enabled him to evade police regulations governing the sale of firearms.

Police said they had evidence that the airman bought eight Browning pistols in Dairen, Manchurian, and that two of them were given to the assassins of Baron Dan and Inouye.

The investigators indicated that obstacles are being placed in their way through the influence of strong reactionary political groups. They hinted that evidence appeared to lead to individuals high in the councils of ultra-patriotic societies.

Two of these "higher ups" are understood to have been temporarily detained, and a search is being made for Nissho Inouye, a Buddhist priest belonging to the Nichrien sect, and Ei Ji Furuuchi, a schoolmaster of the Ibaraki prefecture. The assassins of the former finance minister and the baron came from Ibaraki.

Indignant at Betrayal.

Lieutenant Commander Fujii, police officials said, apparently was indignant at what he considered the betrayal of Japan in 1930 at the London naval treaty.

It appears that he then formed the brotherhood of six members who were pledged to do away with enemies of the empire.

Financiers were made the first targets because the ultra-patriots believed financial interests shared with politicians—whom they thought the financiers controlled—in the responsibility for having betrayed the interests of the empire at the behest of foreign powers.

SUED FOR $5,000

MRS. GRACE R. GREGORY.

A suit demanding the return of $5,000 was filed yesterday in the Du Page County court by Mrs. Jessie Erickson, 33 years old, 463 Washington street, Elmhurst, a divorcee, against Mrs. Grace R. Gregory, 40; her husband, Albert Gregory, and his brother, Thomas, all of Wheaton.

Mrs. Gregory is known as a club woman, dry law supporter, and anti-vice crusader. She is a former deputy sheriff.

Mrs. Erickson charges in her suit that the $5,000 was taken from her "without any consideration" in June, 1926, and now asks its return, with 6 per cent interest. Her attorney intimated that she had been frightened into making the payment. No one, however, would discuss the nature of the transaction.

Burglars Ransack Summer Home of Robt. J. Thorne

NEGRO BATTLES 100 POLICEMEN; THREE ARE SLAIN

Jail Trusty Also Shot by Prisoner Who Is Killed.

New Orleans, La., March 9.—(AP)—Running amuck with pistols and a pump gun in the 12th precinct police station here today, Percy Thompson, 28 year old Negro, held off a hundred officers for an hour, shot and killed three policemen, wounded a Negro trusty, and two hours later was slain himself while riding in a police auto.

The dead men are Patrolmen Cornellus Ford and Albert Oestricher and Corporal George Weidert. William Wing is the wounded trusty. Oestricher lived several hours after being wounded.

Grabs for Gun and Is Slain.

Thompson was shot in the chest as he was rushed in his unlocked cell by a group of officers led by Harry Gregson, chief of detectives, and was disarmed and captured.

He was taken to a hospital for treatment of his first wound.

On being taken from the hospital to the 1st precinct station, Thompson was said by Officers Vick Swanson and James Smith, accompanying him, to have snatched at Swanson's holster in an attempt to get his revolver. Swanson shot the Negro near the heart and Thompson died a few minutes later.

More than a hundred policemen hurried to the little jail in the heart of the Negro section at the alarm that a disturbance had broken out in the jail.

Holds Police at Bay.

A dense crowd, mostly Negroes, was dispersed into smaller groups as officers took up picket positions and pumped bullets from riot guns, pistols and a machine gun into the second floor cell tier where Thompson was firing at them over the bodies of the two officers.

Thompson was armed with two pistols and a pump gun taken from the men he had killed and wounded. A group of four officers led by Gregson and Police Captain Joseph Cassard attempted to get to him, but they were forced to retreat into the next cell under fire from the Negro's gun. Finally Thompson was persuaded to lay the gun down, but he grabbed it again and aimed at Gregson. Cassard diverted the shot to the ceiling by throwing himself against the Negro and Gregson shot him in the chest.

FAMILY ROUTED BY FIRE.

Peter Minisan and his wife, Julia, fled to the street with their daughter, Mary, 11 months old, when fire swept through Minisan's poolroom at 12051 South Ashland avenue early yesterday and attacked a partition separating their home at the rear.

U. S. MAY RECALL 31ST INFANTRY FROM SHANGHAI

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—The 31st infantry will probably be withdrawn from Shanghai and sent back to Manila soon. Nelson T. Johnson, American minister to China, cabled the state department today that Col. Lorenzo Gasser, commanding the 31st infantry, discussed with him and United States Consul General Cunningham the advisability of keping the regiment there longer and asked for instructions.

The state department will reserve decision for two or three days pending further information from Shanghai, but it seems likely that withdrawal will be ordered, thus setting a precedent for the other foreign troops sent to Shanghai when fighting broke out on Jan. 29 between the Chinese and Japanese.

There are about 1,500 United States marines at Shanghai, and as the danger to the international settlement is generally considered over, many believe this a sufficint force to protect American interests.

SENTENCED FOR SELLING DOPE.

Adam Dillon, 33 years old, 509 South Irving avenue, was sentenced to 120 days in the Bridewell and fined $1 yesterday by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court on a charge of selling marihuana cigarets to youths.

You Can Save 20% on Your Automobile Insurance

Automobile insurance is one of the benefits available to members of the Chicago Motor Club. Every year this department returns a cash saving to subscribers.

Last year this return was the largest in the history of the organization; it amounted to $816,473.76. The Inter-Insurance Exchange always has returned 20% of the amount paid the "exchange" for insurance coverage.

Cash savings, quick settlement of claims, and the financial stability of the "exchange" account for the fact that the organization wrote more policies last year than in any previous year.

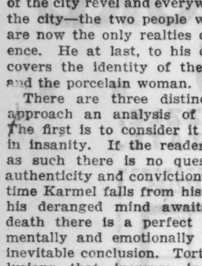
Mrs. Bevans Is an Authority on the Care of Children

War Wrecked Vet Studied in New Novel

Jeno Heltai of Hungary Is Author.

"Czardas," by Jenö Heltai. [Houghton Mifflin. [Published tomorrow.]

THE author of "Czardas" is one of the most distinguished men of letters in modern Hungary. His interests include the dramatic as well as the literary arts. And he has introduced a new psychological literature in his native country. "Czardas" is his first book to appear in this country.



JENO HELTAI.

The story deals with Peter Karmel's struggle to find meaning in life after a horrible three years at the front. He returns to his native city of Budapest maimed and shell shocked, without friends or ties of any sort and without interests. While he was in the hospital he was maddened by the appearance in hallucinations of a blind man and a porcelain woman for whom he could find no meaning or association in his former life. When he arrives at Budapest he goes to a hotel that is notorious for its malpractices. There he stays, drowned in alcohol, beset by horrible dreams and nightmares, choked by cigaret smoke, degraded by chance encounters, searching for the significance of the blind man and the porcelain woman, miserable, haunted, sick.

Recaptures His Past Slowly.

He slowly recaptures his past, places the vision of the blind man and the porcelain woman and begins a life of inactivity and unwholesome dreaming that results in abnormal living. He stays up all night, sleeps all day, drinks and smokes incontinently, resumes a relationship with a former mistress and seeks on the streets of Budapest—in dives where the scum of the city revel and everywhere within the city—the two people who for him are now the only realties of his existence. He at last, to his dismay, discovers the identity of the blind man and the porcelain woman.

There are three distinct ways to approach an analysis of this novel. The first is to consider it as a study in insanity. If the reader regards it as such there is no question of its authenticity and conviction. From the time Karmel fails from his plane until his deranged mind awaits peace in death there is a perfect progression mentally and emotionally toward the inevitable conclusion. Tortured by delusions that increase in vividness, uncertainties of action and thought, by emotional unbalance and by ideas of persecution, Peter Karmel becomes the perfect example of a man whose mind is hopelessly lost. As a study in psychiatry the book is compelling, horrible, and memorable.

Confusion of Plot.

If one is to approach "Czardas" as a realistic and technically well wrought work there will be several complaints. The aimlessness and the confusion of the plot, the overelaborate symbolism and the inadequate handling of the diary form leaves the reader as discontented as the hero himself. Nevertheless, the atmosphere of horror and madness, of fruitless striving and bitter disillusion is brilliantly communicated. The characterization of Peter Karmel, war-ridden and victim of his own crimes, will not be forgotten soon. And finally the contrast of the dream life which Peter throws himself into and the reality of the world as it is makes the search for beauty in a time when beauty was forgotten seem poignant and hopeless.

It is a thankless task to try to discover the meaning behind symbolism. But this book is so obviously symbolic that some attempt must be made. The main message of the author seems to be that life must not be dreamed away, but must contain action and resignation. The porcelain woman represents the past to which Karmel stupidly devotes himself and which results in his spiritual disintegration. The blind man frightens him because he has not learned how to face death.

Among Books Published Today.

The following books are published today:

"Trial Balance," by John V. A. Weaver [Farrar & Rinehart], is what the author calls a "me-book" and is written in narrative poetical form. The author employs verse to fit his mood and consequently has written a brilliant experimental poem as well as a slim autobiography.

"Early Closing," by D. Wynne Wilson [Doubleday Doran], describes the charming segment of English life in a public school. Though it is a first novel, it was selected by the English Book society. M. D.

Bright Blouse Worn with Suit of Neutral Shade

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The sports suit this season is smarter when it is white, or some light neutral color like beige or gray. Chanel made pale beige wool suits for Biarritz last fall, and jazzed them up to a sportive air with vivid striped jersey blouses. They made a great success, and the spring sports suit is their logical descendant, for it has a blouse or sweater that is usually extremely bright or dark and rich in color.

The white sports suit, made of either wool or cotton, is much more fashionable if it has a blouse or sweater of sapphire blue, orange, or bright red. Some women like emerald green blouses with their white sports suits, but this color is less frequently seen than are the first named shades.

The Marcel Rochas sports suit, shown in our sketch today, combines a white flannel suit with a waistcoat blouse of sapphire blue crêpe. The jacket has caps at the top of the sleeves to make the shoulders broad and athletic looking, and the neckline is without a collar, so that the sapphire blue blouse which has a small standing collar shows up to better effect. This blouse is buttoned down the center front with white buttons. The belt of the jacket is navy blue with a white buckle.

Electric Clock Runs Backwards, but Tells the Time

New York, March 9.—(AP)—New York's ideal host at the moment seems to be H. Denny Pierce, a broker, who has equipped his modernistic apartment on East 57th street with an electric clock that runs backwards.

The longer his guests stay the earlier it gets.

But when one of the more serious minded members of the party insists on knowing just what time it is in other parts of New York, there is a lot of figuring to be done.

The backward clock being the only timepiece in his apartment, Pierce either has to sit down and think it all out very carefully or call in his housekeeper, a merry eyed little Irish woman, who has mastered the technic of telling time backwards.

"You see," she explains, "it's always right at 12 and at 6 o'clock; for the rest you have to substitute 1 for 11, 2 for 10, and the like of that, till you get around to the figure 1, and then you know it must be 11."

Chicago Tied with St. Louis for Lowest Infant Death Rate

New York, March 9. — (AP) — The smaller cities—10,000 to 100,000 population—were healthiest for babies in 1930, the report of the American Child Health association for that year showed today.

The report covers 860 cities in the birth registration area, which includes the 46 states with compulsory birth registration. The national rate was 62.2 deaths per 1,000 live births, the lowest ever recorded.

Among the 10 largest cities Chicago and St. Louis were tied for the best record with a rate of 54; Cleveland was third with 55, and New York fourth with 57.

Oak Park was healthiest in the 50-100,000 class with a rate of 28.

Woman Tells Women Home Is Finest Job

Business Success Gives Her Views.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER

A successful business woman at a sort of feminist victory luncheon in observance of National Business Women's week yesterday arose to condemn the woman who complains of "getting tired of staying home."

Speaking on "Woman's Place in the Business World" before more than 500 men and women, members of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the Alliance of Business and Professional Women of Chicago, in the Hotel La Salle, Mrs. Ora H. Snyder, owner and manager of a chain of candy stores, began by saying women were in the business world to stay.

Before she concluded, however, she spoke her mind about women who, provided with a home and family and means, find their task of homemaker irksome or think they must apologize for staying home.

Equality and Independence.

"We do believe in equality and we do not want to be patronized because of our sex," she said. "This is the day of independence for women. We are independent in our dress, our business, our homes, our opinions. We drive our own cars. We go to Europe with no more concern than going to a nearby state.

"But I get tired of the woman who has a home and family to care for and complains because she's not working downtown.

"Running a home is the most important job of all, and having a family to care for is the greatest honor that can be paid women even yet. Unless a woman is forced to provide for her children by leaving the home, her place is there.

"Not that a business career ever hurts a girl. In fact, it makes her a better helpmate later on, a better mother, and in all a better business manager in the home."

Judge Urges Crime Prevention.

Judge Mary Bartelme, who presides over the first and largest Juvenile court in the world, made a plea for the Association of Commerce to sponsor crime prevention as it has crime investigation with its Secret Six. She spoke of the inadequacy of a parole system for juveniles in which the only alternative to putting a boy in St. Charles is to restore the boy to his bad home and neighborhood environment. She suggested that paroled boys be placed in foster homes.

Miss Jessamine Hoagland, president of the Federal Council of Professional and Business Women and member of the President's committee on antihoarding, urged the men and women present to take their money out of hiding. A becoming spring hat and suit was a tonic for men as well as women, she said. Miss Elizabeth K. Eckert, president of the alliance, introduced the speakers.

Washington Shows Artistic Trend as Buyer of Dresses

Boston, Mass., March 9.—(AP)—George Washington was a man of artistic merit. The proof: He bought his wife's dresses.

Albert Bushnell Hart, professor emeritus of history at Harvard university and official historian for the George Washington bicentennial commission, told the Massachusetts School of Art just why they should look on Washington as more than a soldier and President. He was a man of artistic merit, he said.

"Final proof that Washington was not only the bravest man of his day but also one of artistic talent lies in the fact that he ordered his own wife's dresses—and Martha liked them," the professor explained.

Dainty Flowers on Shoulder Stylish Bouquet for Easter

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Orchids and gardenias—aristocrats, each one—will set the tempo of the 1932 Easter promenade. More delicate and less expensive than ever, they are THE flowers society will pin on its lapel just two weeks from Sunday morning.

Easter is rather taking us by surprise this year, arriving, as it does, the earliest since 1921. [The year 1818 set the record, with Easter Sunday falling on March 23, only two days after the announcement of spring.] But whether all the weariness of winter has slipped away or no, Chicago fashionables will wrap themselves in a smart woolen, don a new canotier, attach a blossom or two, and march forth to St. Chrysostom's, St. James', or the Fourth Presbyterian church.

It will be quite a contrast to the picture Lake Shore drive presented 30 years ago—even 20 or 15 years back—when Easter corsages competed for size with the flower gardens that bloomed atop the Easter bonnets two or three stories high. Trim simplicity with attention turned to materials is the "dernier cri" now in milady's ensemble—so is it also with her bouquet.

Dress Demands Dainty Flowers.

"Modern dress creations call for the daintiest and lightest flowers attached to the shoulder," one of our city's leading florists told me yesterday. "It is every bloom for itself with only the leaves for background. This is the reason orchids and gardenias are so popular. Even sweet peas and violets have had their day since it is poor taste to lean too heavily on quantity."

"Why, I can remember ten years back when an Easter season wasn't a success unless I sold 1,000 bunches of violets," he went on, "but a round bunch of flowers isn't for the shoulder. This year we are particularly proud of the orchids since they have been hybridized to match most any ensemble. It was in 1922 that the United States government placed an embargo on all wild orchids which meant we had to grow them from seed. Hence hybridism and the yellows and blues and purples we have today."

But with all the smart sophistication that will surround an orchid or a spray of gardenias perched on the shoulder this Easter day, there is a never to be forgotten charm in the great old-fashioned bouquets of sweet peas, roses, carnations, violets, snapdragons and azaleas society used to wear. A paper or lace frill was the background and there were always a couple of heavy pins to fasten the bouquet stoutly at the waistline.

Paris Accepts American Idea.

The fashion trend in corsages, you know, has been "up, up, up." A well known New York florist tried to introduce the shoulder bouquet in 1912—even went so far as to have a model photographed—but Paris was the only city that welcomed the idea. A couple of years later the fashion came back across the water as a French innovation.

When Chicago society paraded through a snowstorm on Easter Sunday in 1912 not a bouquet was more than 36 inches from the ground [thanks to the pictures recorded in THE TRIBUNE files]. There was Mrs. George Henry High, particularly elegant in an ermine neckpiece; Miss Gwendolyn High, now Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, all with plumed and ribboned hats and corsages that competed with each other for size.

Twenty-five years back the papers reported 500,000 Easter lilies and 60,000 Easter bonnets sold for this gala Sunday. There was such a demand for every kind of flower that the regular delivery wagons had to be supplemented by "an enormous bus, such as is used in the triumphal progress of a victorious baseball team."

Lilies Never Out of Style.

But even though lilies were favorites a quarter of a century ago, there will be the same demand this season for like the Easter story or the Easter anthems, they never go out of fashion.

A slight trend "upward" was noticed in the location of the orchid bouquet Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed [then Miss Elizabeth Fuller] wore Easter Sunday, 1914. In this same promenade was Mrs. Frank Hibbard with the latest sailor hat and a heavy veil, Miss Martha Clow, now Mrs. Donald B. Douglas, and tiny Letitia Channon wearing curls and a tiny nosegay.

An abundant corsage of lavender sweet peas was Mrs. William E. Clarke's choice for the Easter parade in 1919—the year a spirit of unusual gayety prevailed as an antedote for the severe simplicity of war days. But a decade ago when the weather forecast was for "a pleasant day with possible showers at 10 p. m.," the demand for Easter flowers was unprecedented; and the egg business was brisk, bouquets had shrunk in size and were well on their way to the shoulder—at least to judge by pictures of Mrs. Arthur Dixon III. [then Miss Anna Marquis], who appeared in that holiday parade with her father, Dr. George Paul Marquis.

Mrs. Hoover Ends Florida Journey; Starts for Home

St. Augustine, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Completing her Florida pleasure trip with a visit to this oldest American city, Mrs. Herbert Hoover left late today by train for Washington.

She spent nine days touring scenic spots in the north and central sections of the state by boat and motor car that carried her as far south as Sanford.

The first lady arrived here yesterday aboard the motorship Sequoia on which she cruised for several days up the St. John's river.

She spent her last day in Florida walking along the quaint, narrow streets of this ancient city, visiting historical shrines and making small purchases in several shops.

She is due to arrive in Washington tomorrow.

U. of Chicago Sets New Standard for Admission Rating

Just because Henry Jr. ranks third in his high school graduating class doesn't mean any longer that he'll have preference over John Jr. who ranks twentieth in his class in another high school so far as admission to the University of Chicago is concerned. Instead, under new entrance requirements just adopted at the university, it may be that John, despite his lower status on paper, may be favored over Henry.

Roy W. Bixler, registrar at the university, said yesterday that the university had made a secret rating of the fifty high schools from which most of the students are drawn. Heretofore the university admitted the students whose grades placed them in the upper halves of their respective high school classes.

Registrar Bixler said the university had found, however, that students with low grades from one school might make better university material than students with high grades in an inferior school. Therefore, he said, the schools have been rated so that a larger percentage of graduates from the better schools may be eligible for admission to the university.

Treasure Hunt Leads Guests to Skating Rink

Randolph Owsleys Hosts at 'Grand' Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE most amusing party I've heard of in some time was the one given the other night by the Randolph Owsleys of Lake Forest, a supper party and treasure hunt which started at their house and ended at the Great Lakes Naval Training station roller skating rink. The first clews were written on the wee napkins used to wipe the crumbs of the delicious appetizers from the lips of the fifty guests who met for the first course at the Owsleys' residence.

These clews led the party to the coffee shop of the Deerpath inn, where the next clews were written on the cunning place cards for supper. After supper the guests, in couples, went by a roundabout way to the skating rink, where Mrs. Everett L. Wyman and Dwight Ingram discovered the treasure, two large white rabbits, which delighted the hearts of the Wyman and Ingram youngsters the next morning, I'll wager.

The rest of the evening was spent in skating and from all I hear it was a "grand" party and one that not soon will be forgotten by the gay young "marrieds" who were there.

Another interesting dinner that I heard of the other day was one given early in the week by Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott Jenkins at their residence, 10 East Schiller street, for Joseph E. Otis Jr. and his bride, who are just back from their wedding trip. It was only a small party, however, like most of those that are being given these days. Mrs. Otis, formerly Grace Quinlan, is a most attractive person, rather Spanish in appearance.

Women Press Opera Drive.

Hats off to the women on the guarantee fund committee of the Friends of Opera, for, in spite of everything [It does not take much imagination to imagine what discouragement they meet in their appeal for funds to save the opera for Chicago in these days, does it?] they are not discouraged and they are going right ahead with the job they have undertaken in a gallant, valiant way!

At the meeting held yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Arthur Meeker's at 1100 Lake Shore drive, they reported $4,650 secured during the last week, making a total of $21,200 that they have added to the fund, which now amounts to $287,650, including what Samuel Insull obtained himself and the unexpired pledges.

Mrs. Charles King Corsant, chairman, presided yesterday, and after the reports tea was served, Mrs. David S. Cook and Mrs. Charles H. Swift pouring. Some of those at the meeting were Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Edward Hines, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. A. F. Callahan, Mrs. Mark Trude, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Margaret Hambleton, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Miss Carrie Pam, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Mrs. John L. Senior, Mrs. George Halleck Taylor, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, Mrs. Maurice Rothschild, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell [who incidentally voiced the sentiment of every one present, I'm sure, when she said, "I'm quite discouraged," and then reported several pledges], Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, and Mrs. Murry Nelson.

Musical for Lecture Group.

A few blocks further up the drive there was a Russian tea and musical yesterday afternoon, given by Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne, chairman of arrangements for the Cook County League of Women Voters' benefit lecture, for her committee members, at her residence, 1448 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. William G. Hibbard and Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter poured at the tea table, which was quite Russian in appearance, with samovars and a heavy linen cloth embroidered in red, and bouquets of red tulips and white daisies, and a lovely old Russian brass candelabrum on it, along with all sorts of dainty sandwiches and cakes.

The musical program was given by Wally Heymar, violinist, and Eva Gordon Horadesky, contralto. Maurice Hindus is to give the lecture next Wednesday night at Orchestra Hall and his subject will be "Russia and the World."

Book Shop Needs Volumes.

Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer is leaving today to spend a week in New York. Mr. Cramer has been in the east on business for several weeks.

Mrs. Cramer, by the way, has taken on the job of Chicago representative for the Junior league bookshop in Lake Forest. She will be glad to have books sent to her residence at 2710 Lake View avenue or to arrange to have them collected for final delivery in Lake Forest.

The book shop stock is low at present because most of the Lake Foresters who make generous donations to the shop in the summer time are away, and, as Mrs. Edison Dick said at the Junior league meeting on Tuesday, Lake Forest just now is principally inhabited by "poor young married folks" who are trying to complete their own libraries in their new homes.

Every book received by the Lake Forest shop is either sold or given to institutions in need of reading matter. They can sell almost anything but old magazines, and these are sent to hospitals and nursing homes. Children's books are given to camps, orphanages, and clinics.

The Junior league is also collecting playing cards and games of all sorts for the Joint Emergency Relief committee to be sent to the relief stations, where jobless men spend so many hours every day.

The Junior league sale of second hand clothing will be held next Thursday at 32 South Michigan avenue. The provisional members in charge of the sale are assembling and pricing donations at the Drake hotel. The sale will include men's and children's as well as women's apparel this year.

Special Chair Protects Gown Used in Movie

Costume of Joan Crawford in Tango Scenes.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 9.—So tight is Joan Crawford's gown for tango scenes in "Letty Lynton" at MGM's studio that she couldn't sit down without wrinkling it and a special "reclining board" was made by the prop room, covered with padding and slanted back so she could lean back on it and relax. The gown that necessitated all this kid glove attention is an affair of jet beads with a tight rumba sash.

Jesse Hibbs, who played tackle with the Chicago Bears during the professional football season; Ernie Pinckert of the 1932 all-American grid nominees from the University of California, and Manfred Vezie, former Notre Dame end, and a dozen other collegians are playing minor rôles in Ramon Novarro's "Huddle" at MGM.

Joel McCrea came back from Hawaii this week with a badly cut foot. McCrea, who acted as Dolores Del Rio's leading man in "Bird of Paradise," whose exotic scenes were shot in the islands, cut his foot on coral and had to play through part of the picture with a bandage around it. The cameramen kept the injured foot out of vision.

Dorothy Manners, former screen actress and now a film magazine writer, was married yesterday to her editor, Walter Ramsey, head of the Hollywood editorial force of a movie monthly.

The Clark Gables have closed their home here with Mrs. Gable going east to see her two children by a former marriage. The Zeppo Marxes have taken over the Gable home. Gable is quoted an interview, declaring that his wife's trip to New York did not be broken a marital break.

Eric von Stroheim doesn't know for sure, but thinks it was a gag. Anyway, he reported to police that he had picked up a small bottle containing a note floating in the ocean off Point Dunte, north of Santa Monica. The note read: "Lindbergh baby at Honolulu." On the other side were words "want help," and it was signed "Mrs. A. Canero," with additional notation "17 degrees off Koko Head." All of which made the Los Angeles police decide it was either a prank or the work of a crank.

Bobbie Arnst, wife of Johnny Weissmuller, came to Hollywood intending to transfer from the footlights to the screen. She took several screen tests, but no rôles developed. Her husband, who had just come west with his bride to have her company during her assault on the film citadel, did get a movie job—that of Tarzan in MGM's unreleased thriller of that name. Now Miss Arnst has gone back to the night clubs and opens on St. Patrick's day at the George Olsen roadhouse. Johnny will go on with his movie work.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

Gambling, as a general rule, is a vicious habit and should be frowned on by all right thinking people. That gambling for one person, however, is not gambling for another, is demonstrated by yesterday's play-a-problem. This was the hand:

NORTH [dealer].
♠—A,K,8,3,2
♦—3,2

WEST.	EAST.
♠—Q,J,10	♠—7,6,4
♥—K,Q,J,10,9,7,6	♥—5
♦—6,5	♦—9,8,7
♣—7	♣—J,10,9,8,6,5

SOUTH.
♣—A,K,Q

North dealt and bid a spade. East passed. South bid three diamonds—a jump shift or game demand take-out. West bid three hearts and North bid four hearts. East passed. South bid six diamonds. So far there is no doubt about the bidding. The gambling element has not come into the picture and even the very average contract player should have carried the bidding to a six diamond declaration.

But should he take a chance on seven? Is it too much of a gamble? Well, in the first place, if he does not take a chance on a grand slam with this hand, I doubt very much if he shall ever bid a grand slam. By this bid of four hearts, North has not only shown the ability to take the first trick in hearts, but has made a strong demand upon South and has, therefore, shown a holding of at least three high card tricks. Since we must suppose that West holds at least one high card trick in hearts North is more or less placed with the ♥ A and no further strength in that suit. Where, then, are his other top cards? Obviously in his original bid which is spades. We can feel fairly safe [sitting South] in believing that North holds both the ♠ A and ♠ K. We, therefore, feel sure of six in our hand. If North holds the ♠ A and ♠ K we lose no spades, if he holds the ♥ A we can only lose one heart and we obviously have no losers in either diamonds or clubs.

Now you can count on your skill. If you feel able to take advantage of end plays or any other opportunity the game may open to you, then here you should take a chance and bid the grand slam. However, if you are not sure of your ability to do these various things it would indeed be a great gamble for you to bid the grand slam and you should be content with the small. Obviously, it is no trick at all to make six diamonds, but let us suppose that you bid the seven and are playing to take all the tricks.

West opened the ♥ K and dummy played the A, East the 5, and South the 4. Dummy returned the ♦ 3, South took with the ♦ 10. South then led out the ♦ A and the ♦ K, clearing the trump suit. To the fifth trick, South led the ♠ 9 to dummy's ♠ K and to the sixth trick dummy led back the ♣ 2, which South took with the Q. South now proceeded to lead out the ♣ A and the ♣ K and then the ♦ Q and then the ♦ J. To the eleventh trick South led the ♦ 4 and West discarded the ♥ Q. South then led the now good ♥ 8 and for the thirteenth trick led the ♠ 5 to dummy's ♠ A.

If, at the eleventh trick, West had discarded a spade instead of a heart, South would, of course, have led over to dummy's spades and made up his last two tricks in that suit in dummy.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—K,5
♦—9
♣—K,10,8,7,3

WEST	EAST [dealer].
♠—7,4,2	♠—Q,J,10,9,8,6,3
♥—Q,10,5,2	♥—7
♦—10,3	♦—A,K

SOUTH.
♦—Q,J,8,7,6,5,4,2
♣—4

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Woman's Drug Club.

The Woman's Allied Drug club will hold a luncheon today at the Piccadilly tea room, preceding a tour of the Adler Planetarium.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfaction in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

LOVED TO EAT, AND NOW SHE CAN!

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Ralston have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 1160 Park Avenue, says:

"I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals; couldn't sleep like I should; never felt right.

"For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, until I learned about Pape's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now; have gained five pounds, and feel fine."

If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, nausea, headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating—either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN

Plant a Row for Charity, Is Plea to Farms

BY PAUL POTTER.

Thousands of bushels of surplus farm products were donated last fall by farmers in Michigan, Indiana, and Illinois for charitable purposes in Chicago. Peaches, apples, potatoes, cabbage and other perishables that were glutting the market were picked up in trucks donated for the purpose and manned by unemployed fathers anxious to work for food for their families.

The Rev. Johnston Myers, veteran pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 Michigan avenue, personally started and carried through this work. Throughout the winter his church has been a breadline for hundreds of worthy folk, where bread and coffee could be had each day. They thronged the balconies of his church on Sunday mornings, thankful for such help.

Yesterday the Rev. Mr. Myers announced a new plan by which rural families might coöperate in varying this bread and coffee diet by supplying fresh vegetables and later fruits and nonperishable garden truck.

"Plant a part for the poor," is the slogan under which he suggests that farmers set aside one row of potatoes or other garden crops, one tree in the orchard, or one shock of grain for the city's needy. The latter, he says, are willing to work but can find none. They are glad of the chance to man the trucks which Chicago firms donate to pick up this food and haul it to worthy Chicago charities.

"We began too late last year to collect the farm food surpluses," said the Rev. Mr. Myers. "Although farmers were very generous and we brought thousands of bushels of fruits and vegetables into the city, we can do better if the farmers were to plant with our plan in mind. The extra row of crops or extra tree would make the farmer feel he was doing something to help worthy fellow men.

"The people who have been living on coffee and bread largely would welcome the fresh vegetables. The largest factor, you know, in suppressing discontent is to provide the people with proper food."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A Depression Tragedy.

"My mother has been in a tuberculosis sanitarium for four years, and now she is well enough to come home as soon as she can get clothing. She has gained so much in weight that she is unable to wear any of the things she had before she went away, and I wonder if you can help us get some for her. She needs a coat, dresses, sweater, warm pajamas, and underwear, size 40 or 42. My father was killed last September while searching for employment, and I have been out of work. M. C."

Let's try to make this woman's homecoming as cheerful and comfortable as possible. If she is sufficiently provided with warm clothing to be able to dispense with that worry, it will help matters a great deal.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1932 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

To Dodge Colds

Put Mistol in the nose with the handy dropper, and check what might become a bad cold! Mistol goes deep into the nose passages and throat—keeps its healing balms in contact with the inflamed membranes, gives you relief. Doctors recommend it. At any druggist.

Pajamas Hold Sway Despite Hostess Gowns

And Stylish Models Are Worn Everywhere.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Lounging pajamas seem superbly indifferent regarding the entrance of tea and hostess gowns which claim to be superior and more feminine apparel for the favor of fashionable women. Pajamas have never been so exuberantly youthful and colorful as they are this spring. Pajamas go about everywhere . . . they are as essential to the modern wardrobes as bobbed hair is to every fashionable woman.

The new models and wise and scheming loungers . . . you'll see them practically every hour of the day or evening . . . sitting about the breakfast table . . . wandering around the garden . . . lunching . . . swishing into tea, changing into gleaming satins, velvets and brocade for the dinner hour, and last but very much not least, they have crashed the smartest evening society with models of lace and chiffon, so cleverly fashioned that only a trained and experienced pajama person can tell which is the dress and where are the pajamas.

The true enthusiast collects new models as assidusously as others buy new perfumes or handkerchiefs . . . new color combinations are irresistible . . . new swagger mannish trousers replace the wide swirling three yards around affairs of last season. A short bolero jacket tempts the unwary this year, and so you buy until the clothes closet is an overflowing mass of flamboyant patterns and color . . . the carefully hoarded treasures of a "shop hound" for pajamas.

Can Be Trim and Nautical.

This spring you can be trim and nautical with tailored trousers copied from the gobs . . . you can wear them sharply creased right down the front, a la the best pressed man about town . . . or be just as correct with a couple of yards around each ankle. The choice is up to you! You can be tied into them or buttoned in and also hooked, without any visible trace of how or when.

New pajamas, just unpacked, seem to have been planned for two purposes . . . lounging indoors and out-of-doors . . . many of them are two piece models with very little supplied to describe about the blouse. Spring pajamas follow the printed way of the newest spring frocks as well as using rough silk fabrics in plain flat colors . . . also like the newer frocks of 1932.

One spectacular as well as patriotic pajama ensemble waves the red, white and blue combination before the shopping public . . . a short bolero jacket is of navy blue flat silk crêpe with the long popular bell-like sleeves. The trousers are apportioned in medium width . . . the back is practically missing, the front section looks like a wide bib with a buttoned band around the neck . . . this all fits snugly and is of rough white roshanara crêpe. The red is mustered in at the waistline with a wide red suede belt perforated with white edged holes.

Bow Fashion Will Please.

If you know your bow fashions you'll appreciate printed silk pajamas that flaunt a short coat with a scarf that ties in a huge bow under your chin. This coat is of plain citron yellow. It is worn over printed silk pajamas of green and pale yellow, providing an excellent spring color combination, ready for the Easter breakfast.

Wherever your fancies may rove among the printed fashions you'll have infinite opportunity to pick your prints, either boldly unsuppressed or discreetly censored in any color combination or style, with this season's properly toned background.

Timid Girl Can't Convince Folk She's Changed

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's a new and somewhat enlightening angle on the conflict of our current youth. A young woman of 20 would like to know how to go about living down her high school days reputation as a demure, innocent, bashful girl. That reputation of hers the young lady believes to be the thing that stands between her and popularity.

Wouldn't you think that there might be a demand for girls with reputations like that? What with so much criticism from male youths that the other kind of girl is running them ragged? It just goes to prove that pleasing our young men becomes more and more complicated as a female art.

You offer them a sweet, old fashioned staidness and they say: "We can't use it!" Or, you offer them speed—and they hate that.

There must be the road that lies between! There is!

"Meka," the girl of the query, was denied boy companionship in her high school days. That is, there was no "beau-ing" in her young life. She was allowed to attend chaperoned parties. After high school the girl went off to college. And there, she tells, she learned "about life, people, society." Two years of it and she was an altogether different person.

But when she returns to the home town, so far as the home town boys are concerned, she is still the bashful innocent. "A dreadful reputation," she insists, though we cannot agree it's as bad as that. In fact, we keep on clinging to the quaint idea that the girl might just become a best seller, matrimonially speaking, the simple, world-untutored having rare charms for certain of our men.

But, youth being what it is and invitations to dances meaning what they do to girls of 20, we'll agree that a girl can blossom of her own free will from the retiring violet to the gardenia class without sacrificing any of her sweet charms. She can dance and play bridge. She can dress snappily. She can flatter—a bit brazenly, if need be, to get attention. She can throw a party and launch the new and eager girl to the old set. And make them like her, too.

From Palm Beach comes the news that Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick, who have been in the south since late January, are now the guests of the former Muriel McCormick, Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, who with Maj. Hubbard, is entertaining extensively for the McCormicks. Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus McCormick are expected to return to Chicago early next month. Mrs. Hubbard and Mrs. Joseph B. Long, who is wintering at the Everglades club, were among the judges at the annual bal masque of the club held last night.

Among the newcomers to the Chicago colony at the fashionable Florida resort are Mr. and Mrs. Tracy L. Turner, Henry C. Bartholomay of Winnetka, who has joined his family, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fenton, who arrived from Europe on the Bremen on Saturday, are spending a few days in New York before returning to their Winnetka residence.

Additions to the Chicago colony at Pasadena include Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, who has been in the west since the first of the year and is now at the Huntington; Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Kemper, Mrs. Charles T. Boyton of Highland Park, and her daughter, Miss Edith Boynton.

George Lytton and fifteen of the twenty-five members of the University Club Banjo club will leave on April 2 to spend ten days or two weeks at the Lyttons' winter residence at Gulf Hills, Miss., where Mrs. Lytton has been since early winter. This is the fourth year that Mr. Lytton has given such a house party and since he can take care of only fifteen, the members of the club draw lots each winter to decide who shall be the lucky ones to be his guests. Miss Rosemary Lytton is spending the winter in Pasadena instead of at Gulf Hills.

Mrs. Lemuel K. Cushing of 1253 Lake Shore drive is giving a tea and musical this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at which Grace Nelson, pianist, will give the program. Miss Nelson is to be the guest artist with the Woman's Symphony orchestra at its concert on Monday, March 21.

Deb Is U. of C. Actress

Miss Phyllis Ferry, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Montague Ferry of Winnetka, has the part of Beulah in Thornton Wilder's comedy, "The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden," which will be presented tonight and tomorrow night in Mandel hall of the University of Chicago by the Dramatic association. The play is the students' contribution to the annual program staged by faculty and undergraduates for the benefit of University of Chicago settlement.

Salmon Holds Secure Place in Lenten Menu

Moist Loaf Best Guarantee of No Leftovers.

Salmon's gorgeous color and perfection of flavor have earned cooking respect for many years. Since it is everywhere available, both fresh and in tins, it is a splendid offering for our Friday Lenten menu. Consumed in salads, fish loafs, croquettes, or in appetizers it is generally enjoyed by every member of the family.

This morning I have a new recipe for salmon loaf that is good. It gives a moist loaf, and yet one that is firm enough to slice for luncheon sandwiches, should there be any left a second day. Perhaps you don't share my experiences. I find that when I serve salmon in any form to guests that they invariably clean their plates. And this is that kind of a loaf. It is made with the unsweetened canned milk and bread crumbs which give a resultant fine texture. I have another salmon loaf that consists of salmon combined with slices of bread soaked in milk, and this is made in the top of a double boiler. It, too, provides a moist, tender, and firm loaf. If you wish this recipe I will be glad to forward it. It should be remembered that the one given below is about two-thirds as expensive to make as the second loaf suggested.

SALMON LOAF WITH CANNED MILK.

1 tablespoon of lemon juice.
Few grains of cayenne.
1 teaspoon of salt.
2 eggs.
2-3 cup of chopped celery.
1½ cups of bread crumbs.
½ teaspoon of baking powder.
½ cup of unsweetened canned milk.
½ cup of liquid drained from the salmon.

Remove the skin and bones from salmon and flake with a fork. Add the ingredients to the meat in the order given. Mix well, and shape into a loaf. Bake in a greased or oiled baking dish in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] about thirty minutes, or until the loaf crust is firm and brown. Remove from the pan on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley or cress, wedges of lemon, or fan shaped slices of sweet-sour pickles.

Yield: Six servings.

The salmon croquettes suggested for Friday may be festively served if they are arranged on a hot platter, in the outline of a star. Cook and season the sprouts, then place them in the vacant spaces allowed in the star. Garnish the outside with the shoestring potatoes over which has been lightly sprinkled minced parsley. This serving treatment will require one of the medium sized meat platters, or a good sized chop plate. It takes but a jiffy to do, and it does make a modest dinner take on the glamour of a gala occasion. The directions for the croquettes follow:

SALMON CROQUETTES.

1 pound can of salmon.
1 tablespoon of butter.
½ cup of bread crumbs.
2 raw eggs.
Yolks of two hard cooked eggs.

Bone and mince the fish. Work the butter, slightly warmed, into it, then the powdered yolks, the beaten eggs, and lastly, the crumbs. Form into cones, or any croquette shapes. Fry in deep hot fat at 375 degrees Fahrenheit, the temperature at which a piece of bread browns in forty seconds.

Salmon timbales are a third offering. These are good served with any of several sauces, such as lemon and tomato. Recipes for the timbales will be forwarded on request.

make handkerchiefs dangerous to the entire family!

KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues

WHEN any member of the family has a cold, his handkerchief is a menace to everyone in the house!

It teems with germs. Spreads disease germs through the air every time it's used. Pollutes laundry bags and clothing.

Self-infects user

The old-time handkerchief spreads contagion. It carries germs back to the face, making recovery slower and more difficult.

Avoid this danger, as thousands of other progressive people are doing! Use Kleenex! Insist that the whole family use Kleenex! Each tissue need be used but once. Then you can destroy it, germs and all.

More comfortable, too

Kleenex is infinitely more comfortable than any handkerchief during a cold. It is softer than either cotton or linen, and much more absorbent. Kleenex costs less than having handkerchiefs laundered! Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store.

$3 worth for $1 is $2 saved by using Pepsodent Antiseptic!

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth washes. Hence it goes 3 times as far. That's economy for you! Why waste money on antiseptics that must be used full strength to be effective?

PLAIN, simple arithmetic is causing millions to change to Pepsodent Antiseptic. Because Pepsodent Antiseptic is three times as powerful as other leading mouth washes . . . hence it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money and gives you extra protection against colds, irritated throats. For protection against germs associated with common ills remember there are really only two leading kinds of mouth washes. On the one hand you have the mouth wash that must be used full strength to be effective. On the other hand you have Pepsodent Antiseptic, utterly safe even if used full strength, yet powerful enough to be diluted with two parts of water and still kill germs within 10 seconds. It is bad enough to have germs in your mouth before you gargle . . . it's worse to have germs in your mouth after you gargle . . . so choose the antiseptic that kills the germs even when diluted. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be sure! Be safe—and save money! Now is a good time to start.

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, prove the effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

Every Detail of Beauty Needed to Create the Perfect Picture

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You, too, are familiar with the woman whose lack of restraint impels her to remark publicly what you may have thought privately but delicacy restrained you from uttering. Well, she was present at this luncheon, along with her devastating comment.

"I'd like to scrub around the edges of that girl's nose," she blurted out, "and tell her to do some scrubbing inside of it. She might be good looking but for the smudges."

The remarks of this type of woman are devastating because of the truth in them. Women do keep an eagle eye on the nose for enlarging pores, for blackheads, and they spend much time in pelting powder at the well known facial decoration. But the interest is often centered on the top and clearly exposed sides of the nose. Those corners are frequently neglected under the last flesh fold to the south.

Cream sometimes is not wiped off thoroughly after the face cleansing. The dirt is not completely removed and the smudge shadows the corners in a general complexion dimming way. Too, there is no place where grime and dust seem to settle with such determination as immediately inside the nostrils. You breathe it in with almost every breath. And while douching the nose with soap and water is not recommended, the face cleansing job should not be considered finished until the nostril lining has been freed of soot and grime.

A bit of cream therein inserted and its removal with the objectional soot or grime is all that is needed. Or, the corner of a washcloth treated to soap will clear the area neatly. Just a reminder that an observer with a penchant for frankness may happen to sit across from you on a careless day.

And speaking of noses in more esthetic tone, do you know that if you keep your powder dark on each side of the nose near the eyes it will give the illusion of a real bridge if the natural construction is a little deficient here?

"DIRTY FACE" is a Thief

Don't let "Dirty Face" be the thief that robs you of your natural heritage. Don't be one whose chances in life are spoiled by dirt.

Dirt ages the skin, relaxes the pores, makes a woman look older than her years. It collects in the minute pockets of the skin, enlarging, irritating them, until nasty blackheads form. And the step from blackheads to pimples is a short and sure one indeed.

Avoid "Dirty Face" by the daily, persistent use of Daggett & Ramsdell's Perfect Cold Cream. There is no other cream just like it. No other cream is so carefully balanced to give to the skin the three essentials it must have—lubrication, moisture, and protection. Three special groups of ingredients are blended into Perfect Cold Cream for these very purposes.

Get a jar today. It costs just a few cents a week to keep your skin soft and smooth. Surely a youthful skin is worth that, isn't it?

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Bai, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the refuge of her second husband of dubious morale though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malise Bookes, aid-de-camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughters to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the belated honor because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself with misgivings the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother. She strolls over later to watch the gayety of the ball from a sheltered grotto in the governor's garden. She sees Mira Worcester, a faded beauty, and young Robert Grand, the governor's secretary and ward, steal away to a secret rendezvous. The governor follows them out and finds Faire. He requests her promise of secrecy regarding the incident. Faire is stung by his formal treatment of her. She overhears him tell Bookes that he is leaving at dawn for St. Rosario, where trouble is brewing. From a high knoll over the deep water Faire waves the governor a mocking farewell, but as she does she slips and falls down the cliff and is rescued from the water by Sir Philip. The governor is anxious to save his young ward from a scandal. Worcester has become suspicious and has threatened Mira. Bookes promises to save the boy by proving it was another girl and not Mira he'd been meeting. Bookes calls on the Chapelles. He threatens to close Flaxen's and have them deported unless Faire consents to clear Mira. Realizing all she stands to lose, Faire accompanies Booke to keep a rendezvous with Robert Grand. Worcester comes upon them and departs with apologies to Grand when he finds it is Faire with him and not Mira.

INSTALLMENT X.

A PROUD SPIRIT BROKEN.

When the boy had gone Mrs. Chapelle said ferociously, "He'll listen!" and her eyes fixed themselves on her Aya with their expression that, like her voice, said: "No nonsense."

Faire sat quiet, rigid; not eating.

"Take some fish, Faire," said Mrs. Chapelle.

"Can't eat, thank you."

And Aya at that said something that sent such blind rage coursing through Faire that when she mastered the spasm she found herself clutching her knife; clutching it and looking at sleek, dark Aya.

"None of that!" said Mrs. Chapelle in a low voice. "No need for any hysterics. I'm sure what Mr. Bookes asked you to do has given you a real prestige here. A real prestige."

"Prestige!"

"I'd have done it!" Aya sunk her voice to a whisper in response to her mother's look. "I'd have loved it. I'd give my eyes for an affair with little Grand. Or Bookes either. My! They'd thrill me. But it has to be you!" She sulked and puckered her lip.

"Now, Aya! Well, Faire, you've been a clever little girl and done yourself no harm. Mr. Grand'll have to be seen about with you a bit now. We understand why it's all been done—though least said the better, and, Aya, listen . . ."

Aya shrunk suddenly.

"Listen, Aya, you're never too big for me to thrash if I hear one word from you that gives anything away."

Aya cried.

"I'll thrash you," said Mrs. Chapelle in a voice strangely quiet for her. "You take care, my young madam. Well, now, I got the whole idea. Mantigua, who brought me all the gossip, says he went on to the club last night after Capt. Worcester got back from seeing you and Mr. Grand, Faire—Mantigua, he hasn't got the idea. And won't have. He thinks it's all real. Let him think. He told me everything—'bout Worcester and his friends going up to surprise his wife and Grand and finding it was Miss Faire Chapelle all the time. And my word! You girls'll be getting some attention from the men now! But I'll go on with what tidbits Mantigua's brought me. He says Capt. Worcester rushed straight home and there was me lady playing her piano all to herself." Mrs. Chapelle's loose mouth twisted into a grin. "And the fellow cried 'n' wept, and she gave him hell—and she says he's disgraced her before the whole island with his filthy suspicions, and she says she must get away from him and his dirty drinking ways and temper, and she says the yacht in from Jamaica is owned by friends of hers, and she'll go back with them, and get a boat to England. And my! That husband, he swallowed it all. And they say, Gawd, how he cried 'n' wept! But a woman that's tired of a man don't forgive him unless she's got to."

All Port Bai seethed with last night's scandal.

Aya: "Look at Faire, sitting there like a dead porpoise, sayin' nothin'! What I say is, if it had been one of us girls and not a Lady Mira Worcester——"

"I spoke to you before, girl," said Mrs. Chapelle gently.

Aya shrank.

"It's not been Lady Mira Worcester," said Mrs. Chapelle as gently, fixing Aya with her beady eyes. "The suspicion was on her from a drunk husband, but it's our little Faire that's been having the fun, and mother don't blame her at all. Get that?"

"Yes," Aya whispered.

Mrs. Chapelle had thought very, very swiftly that morning as Mantigua gossiped, and she had seized upon the necessary points of the situation. For Malise Bookes had frightened her the night before as she had seldom been frightened in her slippery life.

"I dare say I'll have to sack Joe; and—and—keep the place plumb straight. For a bit I'm going to watch those boys strict!"

Faire looked at her. Mrs. Chapelle would have liked to box her ears for that look, but the whole structure of the situation still rocked.

She remarked only: "Sir Philip won't be governor here much longer. He goes home next year."

Faire rose from the table, and went to her room to dress.

Both Mrs. Chapelle and Aya looked after her.

"If I'd had her chance last night!" screamed Aya fiercely, ungovernably.

Then Mrs. Chapelle reached out and boxed her ears, first one side and then the other, till she was tired.

Flaxen's was full from the hour of the "sundowner." Men surged in. All Port Bai seethed with last night's scandal. Aya made the best of herself. Mrs. Chapelle played loyal and tolerant maternity. But Faire would not come in. She would not serve a drink, nor dance a fox trot. She stayed in her room, lying on her bed. Mrs. Chapelle did not dare to coerce her.

The governor returned, alone as he had gone, after dark had fallen. He moored his boat by his private landing stage and strode uphill through the deep shades of forest trees to Government house. No one saw him come even if uninterested ears had caught the throb of his engine.

He went into his study silently. The green shaded lamp on his desk was alight. He sat down there; and for a few moments, as if by a religious rite or an act of discipline rather than any eagerness, love, or rapture, he looked long and steadfastly at the pictured face of the woman on his desk. He knew of course, uncaring, that this lonely portrait had been the subject of surmise and rumor in the islands. But no one had ever questioned him, the most inquisitive of women had failed, save that girl in the boat at dawn. He heard her now: "Is it your mother?"

He looked at the woman's face a long time and at the signature: "From Mary." It was reticent, more reticent than they had been in the flesh. . . . Sharply, as he looked at her, the appealing face, appealing eyes, and voluptuous throat, he thought of young Robert Grand with, also, his life before him, a lad to be saved from wreck. The governor thought, holding the portrait firm between his hands, as if he held the woman herself, and then, relinquishing it to its appointed place: "Must see what Bookes managed to do."

He rang his bell. The governor's bell! And instantly you felt the austere, long monkish house at attention. The butler was before him almost instantly.

"Is Mr. Bookes in, or at the club?"

"He is in, your excellency."

"And Mr. Grand?"

"He is here, your excellency."

"Will Mr. Bookes be good enough to come to me?"

Malise Bookes was quite at ease. A delicate and ticklish bit of backstair work had been entrusted to him and he had done it. That his method held privately a personal interest was immaterial. The complete success of it all had been astounding. He came to the governor's study confidently.

"Well, Bookes. My job's through. How's yours?"

"Gone off beautifully, I believe, sir."

"So? What did you do?"

The aide de camp detailed it swiftly. The right girl, the bargain, the spy, the scene, the timing; Lady Mira vindicated, and playing Worcester up, by Jove! Outraged! Going home! Worcester convinced, all the island convinced, or near enough, perfect secrecy arranged. "You will realize, sir, that I had to use the strong hand everywhere?"

"I don't doubt it. You're definitely certain the girl won't talk? What was the price?"

"Well, sir, I had to promise on your behalf that you would let Flaxen's continue to exist, while, of course, you were putting an end at once to anything there of which you disapproved."

The governor had relaxed in his chair. It was the relaxation of a tired, strained man. He sat up.

"Flaxen's!"

"Yes, sir. I mentioned the little Chapelle to you as likely to help us."

The governor's face set. "O . . . Yes. The little half caste."

"No, sir. She wouldn't have been any good. Was that the one I mentioned?"

"That was the one you mentioned," said the governor very quietly.

"The fair sister took on the job, sir. Seemed to enjoy it, from what he hears at the club——"

The governor was standing. He was no longer a tired man. He looked at his side.

"My God!" Bookes said to himself.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A little three year old Betty of our city pulled the following on the writer:

I often gave Betty pennies, so that every time we met she would expect a penny, and I stopped, as I thought I was teaching the child to be bold. For several weeks I said, "No penny today, Betty."

One day in front of the postoffice I saw Betty looking for something she had lost or dropped on the sidewalk.

"What are you looking for, Betty?"

"A penny."

"Where did you drop it?"

"O, I didn't drop any, I jes' looking for one."

Artists Pose for Artists in New Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The lowdown on Chicago artists! How many times in seeing paintings by various persons, men and women, you have wanted to know what he or she looked like? The chance is yours now. There opened yesterday in the studio gallery, Increase Robinson, director, Diana Court building, an exhibit of portraits of and by Chicago artists.

The exhibit is amusing and interesting. In the self-portraits the painters do not flatter themselves, except now and again when a more truthful likeness looks like flattery in view of some of the exaggerated absurdities which convey other personalities, and the artists in treating each other have their tongue in their cheek more than half of the time.

Still, for all the horse play and subtle interchange of symbolism, these portraits give one a fine working impression of Chicago artists. One of the very clever impressions is the "Unfinished Portrait," by George Melville Smith, a dramatic characterization of Flora Schofield, who, in the adjoining gallery, presents a self-portrait not more flattering and almost as amusing. Ethel Spears portrays herself as a charming head in a halo of just such whimsical incidents as make her paintings things of chortling joy.

Adam Emory Albright transports us to the sylvan gardens of Romney, Raeburn, and Gainsborough, in his delightfully pastoral, serenely slumbering portrait of his twin sons, now grown and enthusiastic modernists, Ivan Le Lorraine and Malvan Marr Albright. William Eppens is another painter who shows himself, an excellent head, surrounded and imbedded in symbols. Samuel Greenberg has done a clever skit of Raymond Katz; Katz with a refusal from the Art institute in hand categorically refusing one oil, one tempora, one water color, and what have you. The rejection does no harm to the seraphic smile of Mr. Katz, who, pipe in mouth and dreams around him, remains blissfully content.

This is an almost impossible show to dissect for criticism. It is too good and too different. You must see it to appreciate the many fine points. During its run various clubs of women are to tour the galleries.

Mrs. Whitney Awarded Medal as Art Patron

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, sculptress, art patron and founder of the Whitney Museum of American art, has been awarded the bronze medal of honor of the American Art Dealers' association it was announced today by Otto M. Torrington, president of the organization. The medal, which is presented "periodically to men and women who rendered conspicuous service to art in America," is given to Mrs. Whitney in recognition not only of her founding of the museum but also of her efforts through 25 years to encourage the talents of young American artists and to stimulate the public's appreciation of them.

Children Need Lots of Time for Resting

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Does your boy have a paper route? Does he have hours of homework to do, too?

Does your daughter stay up until you go to bed? Does she go to the movies in the afternoons instead of being outdoors? Or does she, perhaps, go in the evenings when you go?

Does she have quantities of homework, have to practice her music and so stay up late to get it all done? And, perhaps, go to dancing and gym classes?

Does your boy work after school and Saturdays at some indoor occupation, or outdoor, either? Do you have lots of company and a house too exciting or noisy for children to sleep in?

If your son or daughter is irritable or disobedient or grouchy, if appetite and sleep are unsatisfactory, if he or she is listless or thin and pale—perhaps, he or she is just a tired child. Fatigue can have the most unexpected results. It doesn't necessarily show itself in a yawn or heavy eyelids, or an "O, I'm so sleepy, mother." If it only would it would be simple to detect it.

But the fatigue leaves a much more devious trail behind it. It may impair health or disposition or cause real behavior difficulties to develop. The overtired child, for instance, doesn't gain weight, doesn't eat well. Paradoxical as it may seem, he doesn't sleep well. You know yourself what it is to be "too tired to sleep."

Cast a critical eye over your child's day if things aren't going as they should with him, either physically or in his behavior or in his school. Does he get enough fresh air? Does he have time to call his own? Does he have enough play? Does he get enough sleep? Is he or she too much scheduled? Is his day or hers divided up into time pigeon holes, with something fitted into each one?

Growth alone requires tremendous energy. Be sure your child is not overtired.

2 BAIN BANKS TO PAY DEPOSITORS 10% OF ACCOUNTS

First Such Action Since Closing June 10.

Two of the twelve Bain banks, the Bryn Mawr State, 2110 East 71st street, and the Brainerd State, 8464 South Ashland avenue, will make a ten per cent payment to depositors within the next three weeks, marking the first such payments since the Bain banks were closed last June 10. This was announced yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

The Brainerd bank, the auditor said, has $35,000 cash on hand for depositors, after meeting $37,500 in bills payable and settling $12,500 in preferred claims. Claims of the 3,945 depositors amount to $226,000. Of these, 3,417 depositors have claims of less than $100.

$77,000 in Bryn Mawr Bank.

The Bryn Mawr bank, the auditor said, has $77,000 cash on hand. The bank has already settled preferred claims of $12,500 and has met bills payable amounting to $110,550. The balance due creditors is $535,000. The bank had 7,199 depositors, of whom 5,975 had claims amounting to less than $100.

The auditor said he expected to approve legal papers authorizing the payment before the week ends. It is expected that Superior Judge William J. Lindsay, in whose court the receivership is lodged, will follow his usual policy of conducting the hearings on the payment personally instead of referring the matter to a master in chancery, a practice which some depositors have criticized as expensive and too slow.

The receiver of the Garfield State bank yesterday paid to Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner, $3,000 which twelve children, wards of the Probate court, had on deposit in the bank when it closed. The payment is the first made under the recent court order obtained by Judge Horner holding all such deposits to be trust funds entitled to preferred payment.

Feinberg Continues Quiz.

Circuit Judge Feinberg, continuing his investigation of the affairs of the dead Frank E. Lackowski and his defunct Second Northwestern Savings bank, involved Lackowski's former secretary, Miss Harriet Shosky, in another "ghost" transaction yesterday.

At a previous hearing Miss Shosky had testified that Lackowski had inveigled her into making a purchase of stock for one Gus Engstrom, a supposed customer of the bank, whom she claimed to have later discovered to be dead. A few hours after she made the charges Lackowski committed suicide.

Realty Broker Testifies.

At yesterday's hearing Frank N. Block, 5045 North Menard avenue, real estate broker, testified that in February, 1930, Miss Shosky, then secretary of the bank, summoned him to the bank and tried to induce him to tell Lackowski that certain securities she had purchased for herself were actually purchases for Block's account.

"Miss Shosky told me she had purchased 100 shares of Union Carbide for herself," Block said. "She asked me to state, if Lackowski asked me, that the stock had been bought for me. Lackowski never inquired about it, however."

The judge instructed Block to return for further questioning Monday.

POLICE FAIL TO FIND MOTIVE FOR DRUGGIST'S BOMB

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the Woodlawn police station said yesterday that an investigation into the bombing on Monday night of the W. G. Trautvetter drug store at 2338 East 71st street had so far uncovered no motive. The Trautvetter store was bombed half an hour after a bomb was exploded in Klink's pharmacy, 1900 East 73d street.

CAPT. DANIEL GILBERT.

"I went into every possible motive," Capt. Gilbert said, "but so far my investigation has uncovered no clews."

Capt Gilbert questioned Carl Parker, 25 years old, and Stanley Wilson, 19 years old, who, through an unusual court action, were released from prison last month after being sentenced to one year to life for robbery of seven drug stores. Trautvetter was one of their victims and was fired upon six times by the men in an attempted holdup of his store. He protested when they were released through the influence of Circuit Judge E. D. Shurtleff of Marengo.

"I am satisfied these robbers had nothing to do with the bombing," Capt. Gilbert said. "I have investigated the two since their release and find their conduct has been above reproach."

Mother Captive

A five day old lion cub is a patient in the Washington Boulevard hospital. It belongs to George F. Getz, Chicago coal dealer, and was born on his estate at Holland, Mich., last Friday. Dr. A. R. Metz, a staff physician at the hospital, said yesterday that he advised Mr. Getz to bring it to the hospital to be cared for until the critical stage of its babyhood was past. Dr. Metz was with Mr. Getz in Africa when the lion's mother was captured.

SEIZED AS BANDIT SUSPECT.

William Costello, 23 years old, 5159 West 91st street, was arrested as a bandit suspect when detectives found him with a revolver in his pocket early yesterday at Rush street and Walton place.

TRUCK COMPANY WINS INJUNCTION IN CHICAGO FIGHT

U. S. Judge Curbs Union and Terminal Company.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday issued an order restraining officials of the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Stablemen's Helpers' union, local No. 705, and the Chicago Motor Express Terminal, from interfering with the business of a Kalamazoo [Mich.] trucking concern. The order was issued without notice to the defendants, because of reputed threats of violence.

The complainant is Edward McNamara, owner of the McNamara Motor Express company of Kalamazoo. His bill alleged that Thomas M. Conley, president of the union, and Edward E. Arkin, president of the terminal company, had conspired to force his out of town trucking concern to do business with them.

Charges of Truck Operator.

McNamara charged that he was compelled to use the terminal for the loading and unloading of his trucks, and to pay 3 to 5 cents per 100 pounds for this work. In addition, the union and the terminal authorities forced the trucking concern to hire Chicago trucks for picking up the delivering merchandise carried in interstate commerce, for which he was forced to pay 10 cents per 100 pounds, he said.

McNamara also charged that he was forced to take out union membership cards in the Chicago local for his chauffeurs at the rate of $350 each.

It was reported that other out of town trucking concerns were planning to seek similar restraining orders if McNamara's fight proves successful. Judge Woodward set March 15 for a hearing on the suit.

Men Threatened, He Says.

The terminal in controversy is at 2263 Lumber street. McNamara said that the dispute had been marked by the intimidation of his employés and that his men had been threatened with physical violence unless they acceded to the demands made upon them.

McNamara's trucks engage in interstate commerce in Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, according to the bill of complaint, which was filed by the law firm of Allen & Darvey of Danville.

CHARGES CRUELTY

Mrs. Ann Barstow Henderson. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ann Barstow Henderson, 1939 Lincoln avenue, former night club entertainer, won $10 a week temporary alimony yesterday in her suit for divorce against Bruce Henderson, real estate salesman. She is charging him with cruelty and adultery before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, who entered the alimony order.

CAPLIS KILLERS TO LEARN THEIR FATE MARCH 25

Three Testify in Effort to Escape Chair.

Three youthful bandits, who have pleaded guilty to the murder of Policeman James J. Caplis, in an attempted holdup of the Beachview Garden café, at 804 Wilson avenue, on Dec. 21, took the witness stand yesterday before Judge James J. Kelly, who is to determine what penalty is to be imposed on the slayers. At the conclusion of their testimony both sides closed the case and Judge Kelly announced he would sentence the three on March 25.

The defendants are Frank "Red" Freeman, leader of the gang; Nick Bruno and Burlon "Jack" Burlison. Their pleas of guilty, by which they hope to escape the electric chair, were made Tuesday.

His First Crime.

Bruno, who is 21 years old and the youngest of the three, testified that the café holdup was his first crime. "Freeman gave me the gun and Dorothy Evans Conroy urged me to go out on the stickup," said Bruno. Mrs. Conroy, who is 16 years old, has been granted a separate trial. She appeared as a state's witness Tuesday.

While the rest of the gang were lining up the café patrons, Bruno said, he was standing near the washroom. After shots were fired, Bruno testified, he saw the policeman on the stairway. According to Bruno's testimony, Rocky De Phillips, who has not been apprehended, shot Caplis in the back and fired at him again after the wounded man tumbled down the stairs.

Assistant State's Attorneys Robert L. Donigan and Walker Butler subjected Bruno to a long cross examination, but the youth denied being in any other robberies.

Burlison also swore the cafe robbery was his first crime. He told Judge Kelly he became a bandit because he had been unable to find a job.

Calls De Phillips Leader.

Freeman testified that De Phillips was the leader. The Conroy girl and his co-defendants had stated that Freeman was the leader. "Then all these other people are lying about you?" Judge Kelly asked him. "Yes," said Freeman.

Freeman insisted that he had never been a bandit until the night of the murder, although George Schweda, 4414 North Natchez avenue, identified him earlier in the day as the robber of a roadhouse at that address last August.

CROWN EIGHT GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONS

WHITE SOX PLAY THEMSELVES A GAME OF BALL

Wherein Regulars Beat Goofs, 6-3.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 9.—They had to crack ice off the home plate to do it, but the White Sox today actually played a game of baseball—a bob tailed game, 'tis true, but nevertheless a ball game. The Regulars beat the Goofs, 6 to 3.

The contest, despite its scrubbish and frostbitten element, had a few flashes of enlightenment. For one thing, it revealed Catcher Smead Jolley picking low, fast curves out of the dirt, to say nothing of some gazellelike leaps for high ones and some masterful judging of batting weaknesses.

This keen insight caused Smead to call for pitches from Joe Bartulis that resulted in five strikeouts in the first three innings, three of which were in the first inning. Bartulis may have had something to do with this, but Smead congratulated himself on the way he was calling for them.

Bartulis Does Stuff.

Bartulis, the big Lithuanian from the University of Illinois, showed the most of the four pitchers who worked. Joe has plenty of what the trade calls "swift," and Manager Fonseca, who did the umpiring, said he was well pleased with the young man's curve.

Jack Hayes had three chances to show extreme artistry in the matter of picking up sizzling ground balls and also participated in his reputed specialty, which is acting as middle man in double plays. Moreover, Jack smacked himself a double, which is a more important symptom that his fielding display. Everybody knows that Hayes is a swell fielder, but the consensus isn't unanimous as to his ability with a bat.

Selph looked pretty snappy at third, where, doubtless, he'll be stationed on April 12 when the season opens at Comiskey park. Carey almost got hit on the head by a skyscraper which wiggled a bit in the wind, but he later made amends through agility in launching a double play. Selph failed to get the ball out of the infield in his first two trips to the plate, but the third time he stepped up he cracked a good single to center.

Regulars' Runs Unearned.

Erickson, long and eccentric lefthander who was the starting pitcher for the Goofs, looked pretty good and the four runs in the second which enabled the Regulars to win all were unearned, made so by rather sloppy errors on the part of Bower and Mulleavy, another error by Ryan, and a passed ball. These slips, hooked up with a walk, singles by Blue and Cissell and Hayes' double caused the four run splurge.

The playing of the game was a surprise and revealed great fortitude, for at getting up time this morning the temperature reading was 26.6 degrees—most unusual, we have been informed. At the time the contest started the mercury had mounted to 35, not a figure designed to induce sunstroke. Score:

Before You Bust Anybody, Pal, Go Watch Golden Gloves Bouts

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—All persons of pugnacious disposition who are not good boxers and are not in good athletic condition should attend at least one amateur boxing tournament every year to renew their humility and remind themselves how very foolish it is to think that they can lick this fellow or that fellow in a slashing contest. Most of the tournament boxers are trained to some extent and all of them may be presumed to have had recent instruction and serious practice in the rudiments of boxing.

Nevertheless, even in such a tournament as the Golden Gloves, which brings out some world champion amateurs and also serves incidentally, but only incidentally, to discover some good journeymen for future service in the professional game, the proportion of fighters who really can box and fight and keep going when they are seriously hit is small.

You Just Think You Can.

In fact, according to the experience of the physicians who examine the entrants in the New York tournament, at least two-thirds of the people who think they can fight somewhat are not fit to make the effort at all, much less to go three rounds which seems such a short, easy distance to the sedentary boxer at the ringside. Probably the percentage of those who are not fit to try to fight among the general male population is much larger than that.

The delusion of prowess is not confined to the young. It is shared by men of all ages and in all stages of physical decline short of actual paralysis, and one sometimes hears gentlemen who are positively elderly hurling insults and challenges at strangers over trivial or imaginary offenses and threatening, in the fine old virile phrase, to knock them quite bowlegged.

Fortunately for all concerned and for the manly pride of countless thousands, diplomacy is still an effective art in the relations between man and man and peace therefore hath many victories.

Now, for Instance—

There is a formula for the avoidance of violence. If the threat is delivered in the absence of the nominal bustee and is communicated to him, he may ignore it as beneath his notice, or he may telephone the other party to make inquiries. It is impossible to deliver a bust on the nose by telephone, so the thing is likely to be reasoned out in a manner satisfactory to the pride and dignity of both parties. If, however, the parties meet and the subject of the bust is mentioned, it is likely to go this way:

BY THE BUSTEE—What is this I hear about you going around town telling people you are going to bust me one?

BY THE BUSTER—Well, what do you mean by going around telling people that I said Harry Oats was—[something about Harry Oats here].

BY THE BUSTEE—Why, you have got that all wrong. What I said was that you said that if Harry Oats—[something else about Harry Oats here].

BY THE BUSTER—Well, that isn't the way I heard it. What I heard was that—

BY THE BUSTEE—Well, what do you want to go around town paying attention to a lot of cowardly gossips for anyway, a man of your intelligence and high standing. Hellsbells, I am not backing out of anything, but I don't see why you and I need to have any trouble over a lot of lying gossip by a lot of cheap muggs that if I had them here I would knock them bowlegged.

Round—and Fight—Even.

BY THE BUSTER — Well, I am sorry I lost my head about it because I always had a great admiration for you and I think we ought to be friends, but you can put yourself in my position and if you heard the same thing you would naturally be sore, too. So the best way I can think of is for I and you to shake hands and have a drink.

BY THE BUSTEE—Well, I certainly want to shake hands, but I will have to pass up the drink because my doctor tells me my plumbing is all shot to pieces and——

BY THE BUSTER—Well, that is oke with me, too, because I was only going to take some vichy anyway as my blood pressure is pretty bad.

And that is the end of that slashing contest. With the honors even and no knockdowns.

There is also the impromptu quarrel, between strangers, starting over any little thing or, for that matter, nothing. Both strangers are among friends. One threatens to bust the other and the other says, "you and what regiment?"

O Yeah? Well—

There ensues a minute or so of repartee marked by such words as silly looking, cheap phoney, mugg, and tramp as the fighters wait for their friends to take interfering positions. The bust on the nose is then let go, but some one catches the arm and both contestants are then seized, amid great excitement.

One man's friends tell him he is making a great chump of himself because, after all, suppose he does bust the other fellow, it will only cause a scene and anyway they all recognize that he is in the right and a dead game fellow. The other man's friends make an appeal to his sense of humor, digging him playfully in the ribs and saying:

"Why you old mountain lion, you, always wanting to clean out some joint because somebody happens to look cross-eyed at you. What satisfaction can you get out of busting a guy like that, anyway, and moreover a man of your strength, you can't tell but he might have a weak heart or something and you'd kill him. And anyway, look at that pin on his lapel. You know wrong guys don't wear those kind of pins and he's probably just a little hot headed like you and the chances are if you two boys shake hands you would be pals in five minutes."

The Bust Is Negligible.

So the humor of the situation appeals to both boys and another fight is over.

There are endless variations of this theme, of course, but the happy fact is that the actual busting on the nose is negligible compared to the number of threats delivered and the volume of honor and prestige which is risked annually. It is a good thing, too, because even among the better amateur boxers who have been practicing for weeks, the Sunday punch, consisting of a wild, pathetic swing for the head, is still the favorite weapon and though the boys may be trained to the minute, a three round fight in many cases is more than their legs and arms can stand. They wilt, they weaken, they droop, and they are counted out.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Golden Gloves team which was picked last night at the Stadium is rated by the experts as equal to any squad which Chicago has named for the inter-city bouts with New York.

The eight champions and eight runnersup know boxing. And they have courage to match their skill. Otherwise they could not have fought their way through a field of 3,000 to win their titles.

The Chicago team of 1932 has its sluggers as well as its boys who depend on clever boxing to win. All have found they can take punishment and come back to give the other fellow more than he sent.

Johnny Phagan, the colored welterweight, star of last year's tournament, was the first to win a Golden Glove. Phagan lost in the semi-finals a year ago, but last night he won the coveted prize. Phagan whipped William Celebron of Rockford, Ill., in the championship battle after a ding-dong setto. Celebron, of course, will be included in the squad of 24 which starts training today at the Illinois Athletic club and which will entrain for New York on March 25.

Niego Finishes Fast.

Stamina, endurance, and courage. These factors won the middleweight championship for Charley Niego of Coulon's gymnasium over Ambrose Geoghegan, a teammate from the same south side gymnasium. Niego had a clear advantage in the closing round, sending telling blows to the body when he needed the points.

Vernon Miller of Davenport, Ia., was the first out of town winner, and the margin of his triumph was by the proverbial hair. Miller and Max Marek, the C. Y. O. champion, fought blow for blow. Miller received the decision while Marek got an equal share of plaudits from the throng.

Adam Smith, after three years of trying, won a Golden Glove. He whipped Walter Karpinski of Grand Rapids, Mich., in the final bout in the heavyweight division. Karpinski had replaced Duffy Dvonch after Dvonch had a broken hand in the Tournament of Champions. Dvonch defeated Karpinski, but the Grand Rapids heavyweight was brought back and won his semi-final bout, only to lose in the final.

Soukop Whips Nate.

Johnny Nate of South Bend, Ind., got just as far as he did a year ago. Al Soukop of the C. Y. O. whipped Johnny in the final bout, knocking Johnny down in the last round and taking a three round decision which was unanimous.

What a fight, the one between Leo Rodak and John Ginter! For two rounds the boys battled on even terms, but in the last round Rodak pounded out the necessary points to win. Leo was the flyweight champion in 1931 and captured the 118 pound title last night.

Notables Throng Ringside to Cheer Golden Glove Champs

BY FRENCH LANE.

It was after 11 o'clock when the final Golden Gloves battle ended at the Chicago Stadium last night. But the crowd lingered on until the last blow had crashed into the ribs of a courageous contender. They would have remained hours longer if the program had continued.

The crowd was dispatched quickly to and from the Stadium. Most of the spectators arrived between 7 o'clock and 7:45 o'clock. There wasn't a traffic jam anywhere along the thoroughfares leading to the world's largest indoor arena.

Twenty minutes after the last Golden Gloves had been passed out, the crowd had scattered to the far corners of Chicago and the surrounding territory.

The ring was moved out; the ringside chairs were carried away; the floor was cleared, and the ice machine was turned on. A hockey game will be played tonight where the Golden Gloves warriors fought so gallantly 24 hours earlier.

Gen. John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing association, was an early arrival. Accompanied by Fred Gardner, a member of the Illinois state athletic commission, he came down the aisle to his ring side seat shortly after the doors opened at 6:30 o'clock.

George Lytton, who was one of the judges in the Tunney-Dempsey long count incident at Soldiers' field in 1927, was in a front row seat.

Al Copeland and Jack Elliott of the New York News, were in the press row, scouting the Chicago warriors who will invade Madison Square Garden for the intercity bouts on March 28. They were not exactly scared when the show ended, but they had a lot of high regard for the Chicago champions.

That battle between the two Joe's—Joe Roman of Joliet and Joe Romano of Rockford—was one to write home about. They were out in the middle of the ring for three rounds whaling away at each other. Game kids both of them. They could take it. Joe Roman got the decision by an eye lash.

Ambrose Geoghegan, the Negro boy who finished second in the middleweight flight, had the longest arms of any boxer in the tourney this year. They measured eight feet nine inches from tip to tip.

Either the spectators were too interested in the fights or they have forgotten about the long count. At any rate when Dave Barry climbed into the ring to referee an early bout

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago last night picked its 1932 Golden Gloves champions. A crowd that filled Chicago Stadium, the world's largest indoor arena, attended the coronation of the winners, who will fight New York at Madison Square Garden March 28 and a team from Germany at Soldiers' field July 26.

It was the fourth straight time Golden Gloves bouts had packed the Stadium. No crowd ever received more for its money. There were thrills enough packed into the evening's entertainment to last the average spectator a lifetime. Net proceeds will be given to charity.

For the 32 boys who battled their way through a field of 3,000 to reach last night's competition it was an evening of thrills, crashes and calamities. For honest effort, bitter fighting and dogged refusal to accept defeat, it stands unmatched in Chicago's ring history.

Cheers Echo Through Stadium.

The show, the setting, the gayly dressed gathering made a great picture. Rows filled. Sections filled. Depression for at least one night had to confess itself beaten. The crowd was not only one of the largest in the history of indoor boxing, but it also was one of the liveliest. It showed spirit. It was more sharply divided in a partisan way than any of its predecessors at Golden Gloves. There was something contagious in the air. Those who didn't cheer at the beginning just had to get into it before the show was half over. It was an emotional spree in which all joined.

The show opened with buglers playing "To the Colors" while a huge flag was raised to the rafters by four uniformed soldiers. When it reached the top of the building Miss Margery Maxwell of the Chicago and Ravinia opera sang "The Star Spangled Banner."

Flyweights at 113 Pounds.

There wasn't a boy among the 32 who failed to make weight, although every member of the flyweight group had a close call. Flyweights are supposed to come in at 112 pounds. A fighter is allowed an extra pound in all weights in Golden Gloves competition. If it had not been for that pound allowance all four flyweights would have been disqualified. Each tipped exactly 113.

Illinois Boxing association officials in attendance marveled at the way the boys came in less than an ounce under the weight limit.

The handsome team trophy which goes annually to the club scoring the most points in the final night was won by the Catholic Youth organization. It was accepted by the Rev. Gerald Scanlon, director of the organization, who thanked THE TRIBUNE for the work it was doing in the development of amateur athletics. The only 1931 champion to repeat was Leo Rodak, who was the Golden Gloves Chicago, intercity and international title winner last year. He has taken on weight in the last 12 months and is now the bantamweight champion of Chicagoland.

Ginter Puts Up Great Fight.

Rodak had to whip one of the strongest 118 pounders in the history of the meet to win a Golden Glove. His name was Johnny Ginter. Both boys represented the Catholic Youth organization.

After the first round, which was devoted to conventional cautionary maneuvers and what might be called physical soundings, Rodak appeared the more dangerous. He clearly established his superior strength and head work by the way he spun Ginter around in the clinches, always twirling him to the right to an off balance position, thus reducing the perils of his foe's right hand.

A sharp one-two, a left followed by a right, in the last round made Ginter blink and red welts of protest spread over his cheek bones. Before the final bell the game Ginter had been popped on the face so many times that he was opening and closing his eyes after the manner of a coal miner suddenly emerging into the light.

Adam Gets That Glove!

But save at least half your lung power for one of the big fellows. Adam Smith, who had been trying for three years to earn a Golden Glove, achieved his ambition by whipping Walter Karpinski of Grand Rapids, in the heavyweight final.

Johnny Phagan, the colored welterweight from the north side who was a runner-up last year, moved up a notch this season. He whipped Billy Celebron of Rockford in the 147 pound championship fight.

Another boy whose persistence was rewarded was Joe Roman of Joliet, who fought his way to the 126 pound title by winning the decision from Geno Salvatore of Streator. Roman was a runner-up on the Chicago team two years ago, but was eliminated in the White City sectional meet last winter by Don Gonzales of Cleveland, who carried on to international fame.

Chicago, 4; Out of Town, 4.

The score between the Chicago and out of town fighters was all even in the championship flight. Chicago has four champions, Davenport two, Rockford one, and Joliet one.

In the runner-up class the out of town boys had a 5 to 3 margin.

the crowd didn't stand and chant the historic fourteen. First time this has happened in many, many days. Later Dave refereed another match. Still the crowd ignored him.

Judge Joseph Sabath, Judge Walter P. Steffen, A. D. Lasker, E. J. Kelly, John Schank, the race horse man; George F. Getz Jr., Dick Hanley of Northwestern, Tom Nash, and Pat Roche were among the notables in the great crowd.

The judges and referee were hooted for ten minutes after Vernon Miller, the Davenport slugger, was awarded the decision over Max Marek for the light heavyweight championship. It had been a vicious battle. But the fans were not satisfied, and they were not backward about expressing their displeasure.

Miss Margery Maxwell of the Chicago Civic Opera sang the "Star Spangled Banner" as the American flag was slowly unfurled up near the roof of the Stadium a few minutes before the first bout.

Adam Smith's victory in the heavyweight division was popular with the crowd. It was the third time the round baker boy from Rockford had made a stand for a Golden Glove. Twice before he had failed, although he finished second a year ago. His victory over Walter Karpinski of Grand Rapids, Mich., was one of his most notable.

Here's the Blow by Blow Story of Eight Bouts That Decided Golden Gloves Titles

The blow by blow account of the eight final round bouts in the Golden Gloves tournament at the Chicago Stadium last night follows:

112 POUND CLASS.

Albert Soukop, St. Leonard's C. Y. O., Chicago, beat John Nate, South Bend, Ind. [3].

FIRST ROUND—Nate danced lightly around his opponent, sending in light lefts to the head. Nate drove his right to the ribs. Both angled for openings until Nate found a spot for two straight lefts. Soukop landed a stiff right to the mouth. They traded straight lefts. Soukop was only a little short with a hard left hook. Nate danced in with a straight left. Again they traded straight lefts. Nate continued to dance around his opponent, flicking a light left to the face. Soukop caught Nate coming in with a right cross to the heart.

SECOND ROUND—Nate sent two light lefts to the head. Nate drove a left to the head but was short with a right to the body. Nate delivered two light lefts to the head and then they pummeled each other around the body. Nate staggered Soukop with a hard left to the face. Soukop finally nailed Nate with a right to the head and was sportsman enough to wait while he picked up his rubber mouth guard which had dropped. They traded lefts to the head and then suddenly Soukop came in with a hard right to the jaw which made the South Bend boy stagger.

THIRD ROUND—Soukop sent Nate's head back with a straight left. Nate danced in fast and scored twice with rights to the ribs. Soukop nailed Nate with a hard right to the jaw. Nate jabbed a lump under Soukop's right eye with straight lefts. Soukop caught Nate with a hard right to the mouth, but Nate came right in, jabbing fast with a straight left. Soukop caught Nate with a terrific right to the jaw. Nate went down, but bounced right up. It was evident, however, that he was nearly out on his feet. Nate weathered the storm of Soukop's blows as the latter tried for the finishing punch.

118 POUND CLASS.

Leo Rodak, SS. Peter and Paul C. Y. O., Chicago, beat John Ginter, St. Jerome C. Y. O., Chicago [3].

FIRST ROUND—John sent a light left hook to Leo's face and Leo was too high with his countering right. Again Leo was too high and Ginter tried to nail him but Rodak covered up in time. In close they traded body blows. Ginter connected with a light left hook to the head. They sparred cautiously until Ginter drove a right to Rodak's head but it was too high. Leo came in quick, driving both hands to the ribs. Ginter again scored with a light left hook to the head and then brought it down to the stomach. Leo curved a left into Ginter's midriff.

SECOND ROUND—Ginter jabbed twice with a light left to the head then Rodak drove him into the ropes but was unable to land effectively. Ginter caught Rodak with a hard right to the jaw that made Rodak stagger. Rodak was short with a right and his lefts were blocked by forearms. They stood close and traded hard rights to the head. Rodak sent a light left to the head. Ginter sank a left hook to the body. Rodak speared the north side boy with straight lefts. As Ginter missed, Leo drove him back with left hooks to the head. Ginter scored with a left as the round ended.

THIRD ROUND—Rodak flashed a light left jab to the head and followed it with a right to the jaw but took two hard rights himself. Rodak forced Ginter back with left hooks to the face. Rodak caught Ginter with a hard right to the mouth and then centered a two fisted attack to his opponent's stomach. Ginter nailed Rodak with a left hook to the head but Rodak followed him right up, both hands swinging and forcing John to cover up. Rodak swung Ginter around with a left hook to the head. Ginter smacked a right off Rodak's head and Leo returned the favor.

126 POUND CLASS.

Joseph Roman, Joliet, Ill., beat Geno Salvatore, Streator, Ill. [3].

FIRST ROUND—Roman caught Salvatore in a neutral corner and bombarded him with right hand blasts to the head. Roman caught Salvatore on the cheek with a right, but the Streator fighter retaliated with a right cross that staggered Roman and made his mouth bleed. Roman drove Geno into the ropes with a two fisted volley to the head. Salvatore came out of a clinch and shook Joe with a sharp left hook. Roman was a trifle short with a left hook to the head. They traded left jabs to the face.

SECOND ROUND—Roman weaved his way in close and punished Salvatore around the stomach with rights. Salvatore met another rush by Roman with a straight, stiff left. They shook one another with solid rights and then worked to the body in close. Geno opened up with a two fisted bombardment to the head. They stood off and traded right hand blasts to the chin. Salvatore took two rights to the jaw. They went into a furious rally and both showed around the midsection the effects of the punishing body blows.

THIRD ROUND—They shook hands. Each scored with a straight left. Roman's right cross was blocked by an elbow. They appeared tired but still tried hard. Roman drew blood from Geno's nose with a hard right. As Salvatore backed into a corner Roman cracked him with a smashing right to the mouth. Roman forced Salvatore to break ground with a two fisted attack to the head. They went in close and punched freely with rights to the head. Roman swept in with a straight left. Geno nailed Roman with the same sort of a punch as the bell rang.

135 POUND CLASS.

Dan Neenan, Trafton's gym, Chicago, vs. Henry Rothier, Davenport, Ia.

FIRST ROUND — Neenan much the longer reach and scored with two left jabs to the head. Both waited for openings until Neenan scored with a left hook to the jaw. Rothier leaped in the air and reached Neenan with a left hook to the chin. Rothier drove a left hook into Neenan's midriff. Rothier sprang in, but his right was a trifle high. They swapped left hooks. Rothier again scored with a left hook to the face. Rothier sank still another left to the midriff as the round ended.

SECOND ROUND—Neenan speared Rothier with rapier-like lefts. Each connected with a left hook. Rothier bombarded Neenan around the stomach with a left but his right was too wide. Rothier sprang in and his left hook found a resting place on Neenan's ribs. Neenan couldn't seem to find his much shorter rival until he finally caught Henry with a hard right to the jaw. Henry only grinned and landed two left hooks to the jaw.

THIRD ROUND—They opened the round by a furious rally with Neenan having much the best of it. Neenan tried eagerly for right hand punches to the chin but Henry beat him to the wallop with short left hooks. Henry ducked under Neenan's left. Rothier again beat Neenan to the punch with a short left. In close Neenan punished the Iowan with short rights to the head. Rothier drove Neenan into the ropes with a two-fisted attack. Neenan caught Henry with a hard left hook to the jaw. Neenan's right swing to the face was short.

147 POUND CLASS.

FIRST ROUND—They missed with left leads and clinched. Along the ropes Celebron scored with a right to the head. Phagan jabbed twice with a straight left and drove a hard right to the head. Phagan danced out of harm's way as the Rockford fighter rushed. They traded lefts to the head and clinched. Again they swapped left hooks and Celebron was too high with a left follow-up. They sparred cautiously in mid-ring and each scored with a left to the head. In close, Phagan pounded Celebron around the stomach but took a hard right to the heart in return.

SECOND ROUND—They came out fast and mixed in mid-ring. Phagan knocked off the bandage over Billy's left eye with a right cross. Phagan was too high with a left and took a right to the head. Celebron chased Phagan across the ring but was unable to score effectively. Celebron dropped a light right on Phagan's head. Phagan speared Celebron twice with straight lefts. They went in close to work with both fists around each other's stomachs. Phagan rushed in and connected with a right to the head and then they swapped both hands to the jaw.

THIRD ROUND—They shook hands. Celebron scored with a light left to the head. Phagan held Billy off as the latter rushed in wildly. They both connected with rights to the head. Phagan jabbed Celebron's head back with a straight left, but Billy blocked the colored boy's follow-up. They went into a rally in mid-ring, with Phagan having the best of the exchange. Phagan bombarded Celebron around the body with left hooks and drove him into the ropes, where they traded both hands to the head.

160 POUND CLASS.

Charles Niego, Coulon's gym, Chicago, beat Ambrose Geoghagan, Coulon's gym, Chicago.

FIRST ROUND—Geoghegan speared Charles with a straight left to the head. Neigo pounded the tall colored lad around the middle with his right. Niego nailed Ambrose with a sharp left hook to the jaw. Ambrose was short with a left hook. He scored twice with straight lefts to the head but the blows were light. Ambrose repeated the maneuver but took a left hook to the body in return. Charles ducked under Geoghegan's left lead and they clinched. Geoghegan lunged in with a straight left which landed on Niego's chin. In close, Niego bombarded around the body.

THIRD ROUND—Niego feinted with a left and then swung in to score with another left hook to the head. Niego followed up but his right cross landed too high on the colored lad's head. Charley made Ambrose miss with both hands, then Charley delivered a left hook that caused Geoghegan's nose to bleed. Ambrose sank a left to the stomach but Charley chased him across the ring swinging and scoring with both hands to the head. Ambrose appeared very tired as Charley chased him across the ring. Both connected with left hooks and Ambrose was short with a right cross. Charley missed with a wild right.

175 POUND CLASS.

FIRST ROUND—Miller speared Max with a straight left to the jaw, but took two rights to the head. They traded twice evenly with left jabs. Max blocked Vernon's right cross and they clinched. Vernon drew blood from Max's lip with a lebt jab. Max stood Vernon off with a straight left and then drove in with a right uppercut to the chin. Vernon missed with a left and Max danced away. They traded left jabs. Vernon scored with a one-two along the ropes. Max went under Vernon's lead and drove a right to the body.

SECOND ROUND—Vernon shot a left to the face and then brought it down to the body, but Max sent at least six rights to the Davenport fighter's midriff. Max drove a right to the head and then a left to the stomach. Vernon caught Max coming off the ropes and nailed him with a hard right to the stomach. Max, however, forced Miller to cover up with a two fisted attack to the body. Max danced out of the way as Miller let loose two haymakers. Marek worked his way into close quarters and again forced the Iowan to cover up. Max was bleeding profusely from nose and mouth at this stage.

THIRD ROUND—Marek kept Vernon off with a straight left and then they went into a furious rally in midring, both swinging with all they had in an effort to knock each other out. Max worked his way into close quarters and drove his right hand to Vernon's ribs but Vernon fought right back, sending two sharp lefts to the head. Miller was very tired and hung on as Marek tried to force the fighting. Marek stood off and hit Miller at will as the latter tried to cover up. At this stage the fighting grew even more furious and both forgot defense to pound each other around the head. Marek drove three rights to the head without drawing a return.

HEAVYWEIGHT CLASS.

Adam Smith, Rockford, Ill., beat Walter Karpinski, Grand Rapids, Mich. [3].

FIRST ROUND—They lost no time getting out in mid-ring to swap blows. Adam sent a left to the head, but took a right to the same spot. They stood toe to toe and traded rights to the head. Adam nailed the big fellow with a sharp right to the head. Karpinski swung in fast only to be met with a two fisted attack to the head that shook him up. Adam sent two rights to the head and ducked under Walter's countering punches. Adam scored with a vicious left hook to the head. Karpinski delivered a right to the head and both took lefts to the jaw.

SECOND ROUND—Adam was too quick for Karpinski, beating him to the punch with a left to the jaw. Karpinski tried hard to connect but was ineffective, as Adam swayed away from his punches. Adam caught Karpinski coming in twice with wide and hard left hooks to the mouth. Karpinski fought back, but his right was too high. Adam boomed a heavy right off the Grand Rapids fighter's head and the latter was staggered slightly. Karpinski's hard right cross slid harmlessly over Adam's back as the baker boy weaved away. Smith scored with a left and a right to the head but took a left to the jaw in return.

DE LA SALLE HIGH OF JOLIET BEATS LEO FIVE, 26-24

De La Salle High school of Joliet last night captured the south section heavyweight basketball championship of the Chicago Catholic High School league by defeating Leo, 26 to 24, in overtime at Loyola university gymnasium. Bob Simon's field goal in the last minute of the extra period gave Joliet victory.

Joliet now will meet St. Mel, north division champion, for the league championship tomorrow night. The victory also qualified Joliet for the national Catholic tournament, which will start next week.

A basket by Golden with only 50 seconds of the game remaining gave De Paul a 21 to 19 victory over St. Mel and the north division lightweight title.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

AMATEURS VS. PROS.

THERE is no question we think, that boxing patrons prefer amateur shows of the Golden Gloves caliber to professional cards, unless there is a champion or potential champion on the pro bill.

That is proved by attendance, both here and in New York, at Golden Gloves tourneys. The reasons are action and earnestness on the part of contestants. We may add sportsmanship which appeals to at least part of the crowd. Bouts are only three rounds. That assures speed. In fact, action is so fast these amateurs often fight themselves out even in the brief time allotted.

With popularity of these bouts admitted, many perhaps wonder just how the Chicagoland champions of last night would fare in the professional ring. They have hitting power and gameness. We know that for no boy can survive the finals without those qualities. In those respects, at any rate, they would equal the pros.

The Wake's opinion is that Golden Gloves champions would make a good showing against pros but that few of them have enough experience at this time to be in the first flight. They have not the tricks of the trade—including often very questionable tricks—and they have not learned to husband their strength and power over a route of say six to ten rounds.

Dave Maier of Milwaukee, who fights for the world light heavyweight title at the Stadium March 18, is a Golden Glove graduate. He was an advanced performer among amateurs when he first tried for the Golden Gloves. Several others of these amateurs have entered the pro ranks but none has advanced as far as Dave.

There are many reasons why amateurs, more interesting to watch than pros, should not combat professionals. The most important is that amateurs, in theory at least, do not give their whole time to boxing but have regular jobs from which they derive their living. If they wish to become pros, they jump early so as to benefit from purses rather than medals. There are many chaps hanging around gymnasiums always willing to manage a promising lad and to induce him to enter that field.

Should there be more tourneys of the Golden Gloves type for the benefit of the public which so enjoys them? The answer probably is "No." The reason these tourneys attract so many entries is because they are annual affairs and championships carry great honor. More events of similar nature, under whatever name held, would lessen the honors and divide patronage and interest. Moreover, it is not desirable for his own good, that an amateur boxer, if he be a true amateur, be engaging in tourneys all the year round. That is why THE TRIBUNE sports department limits the number of tourneys it sponsors.

SET VOLLEY BALL DATES.

Dates for the A. A. U. volley ball championships will be set Tuesday, it was announced by Hobart Olson, chairman of the Central A. A. U. volley ball committee yesterday.

To forestall any possible criticism we hasten to state that this couple is married—and what's more, happily married. The photograph, we feel, interprets rather beautifully a thought we have wanted to express for some time. Has it ever occurred to you that a successful marriage requires one compromise after another? From the altar on through life, when you consider it, real happiness demands a generous spirit of give and take between husband and wife. Each must overlook the other's faults with loving patience.

It so happens that the young woman shown above freely forgives a persistent neglect. Her husband is not particular about shaving. How can his caresses be thoroughly welcome when his face is rough with bristles! Yet her patient attitude betrays not a hint of criticism. She is tolerant and gracious, as ever.

Most men, you will agree, are fairly regular in their shaving habits. But we all know that a man can shave without being clean shaven. And surely no man can look his best with even a faint trace of stubble. It is our firm belief that today's Gillette blades are positively unequalled for shaving tender faces smoothly. These phenomenal blades get all the stubble and give you a degree of comfort quite impossible to describe.

We urge you to let today's Gillette prove its worth. Buy a package and try a blade or two on our guarantee. Every shave must be cleaner and finer than any you have ever experienced before—or return the package to your dealer and get your money back.

THE GILLETTE BLUE SUPER-BLADE

The $2 Kroman DeLuxe blade has been withdrawn from production and replaced with the sensational Blue Super-Blade—far superior to the Kroman. You pay only a few cents more for the Blue Blade than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. The Blue Blade is of extraordinary quality—without reservation the finest blade ever produced. Colored blue for easy identification—it is contained in a blue package, cellophane wrapped, and is made by a distinctly different process. Distribution is not yet complete—so if your dealer hasn't the Blue Blade, ask him to get it for you, which he can, quickly.

GRIMES, MALONE UNLIMBER SPEED, BUT LOSE, 2 TO 1

Cub Regulars Win Last Game on Island.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 9.—The Cubs' last full workout of the year in their island camp today proved slightly embarrassing to the hitters. The veteran pitchers, taking their first serious stretch in the training grind, were responsible. They held the whip hand throughout a game in which the regulars nosed out the recruits, 2 to 1.

Four of the old time pitching fellows were pressed into service, two for each team. The best of the quartet were Burleigh Grimes and Pat Malone, who although on the losing end of the fight, held the regulars to five hits. Only one of these was scored against Grimes, who with a mouth full of slippery elm, bore down with his spitters in businesslike fashion. Malone's failure to prosper even though yielding only four hits in as many innings, is easily explained. One was a home run by Woody English and the three others were bunched in the eighth inning for the winning run. English also had a hand in this tally.

Hornsby Shifts Outfield.

Along with the pitching there were some fielding gems, by both the regular and recruit infielders. The regular inner defense of Grimm, Herman, English, and Hack was continually digging treacherous grounders out of the dirt. One stop by Grimm put a halt to a possible uprising when the youngsters had Root in trouble in the fourth inning. The double play resulting probably saved Root from having more than one run scored against him.

Manager Hornsby made a slight alteration in his regular lineup, but it was merely for experimental purposes. Dan Taylor was in right field, which had been occupied by Lance Richbourg, the ex-Brave. Taylor did nothing of a startling nature, either in the field or at bat. Half way through the game Richbourg was moved into left field in place of Stephenson. There will be more of this shifting to keep Richbourg ready to fill in should Stevie's legs begin to complain.

Moore Pulls Merkle.

As soon as the recruits nicked Root for a hit, they made it count for their only run. Johnny Moore opened the fourth inning by hitting a ball to right field, where Danny Taylor objected to backing against the fence. The ball sailed over him for a double. A moment later Barton singled into center and Moore scored.

Another promising opportunity arose as soon as Bush took over the regular pitching job in the sixth inning. Blair doubled against the right field fence. Johnny Moore bunted in front of the plate and did his own umpiring by deciding the ball was foul. It happened to be fair, so Hartnett threw it to third in time to catch Blair and Hack shot it to first to double Moore, who still was standing at the plate trying to win his argument. Then Barton singled, but there was nobody on to profit by it.

English Gets Homer.

English hit his home run to deep center in the regulars' half of the sixth, tying the score. Woody had slowed down to a walk before reaching the plate, but had room to spare on the throw-in nevertheless.

Grimm had the pleasure of starting the disturbance that blossomed into the deciding run in the eighth. He converted a slow roller to Blair into a single. Hartnett followed with a clean single to right. Bush's attempted bunt resulted in a force play at third and Hack popped to Jurges. Then English stepped in with his second hit, a single to right, and Hartnett scored.

Instead of folding up after the regulars' winning run had slipped across, the Recruits gave Bush more than a little trouble in the ninth. After two were out, Hemsley singled into center and Jurges hit safely through short. Campbell, the catcher recruited from Los Angeles, was hurriedly summoned to bat for Malone, but he did nothing.

BIG TEN TRACK STARS SHOOT AT OLYMPIC PLACES

Some of the country's most promising candidates for the Olympic track team will be in action in the Big Ten track meet at the University of Chicago field house tomorrow and Saturday. Heading the list is Jack Keller, Ohio State hurdler, who holds the national collegiate high and low hurdles titles. Keller is expected to beat Lee Sentman's conference record in the high hurdles.

Two of the leading prospects for the Olympic 400 meter run are Ivan Fuqua, Indiana sophomore, and Capt. Edwin Russell of Michigan, who will meet in the Big Ten 440 yard run. In the 880 yard run Edwin T. Turner of Michigan, who was second in the conference indoor last year, and who placed in the national collegiate meet, is one of the best college half milers. Indiana has Charles Hornbostel, sophomore, who has steadily cut his time this season, and last week did 1:55 6-10.

Good Distance Runners.

Henry Brocksmith, Indiana miler, who has run 4:17 indoors; Clifford Watson, Indiana, and George Wright, Wisconsin, two milers, were among the nation's best in the longer runs last season. Clarence Munn, the Minnesota shot putter; Bryce Beecher, Indiana, and Elton Hess, Minnesota, who have both done 13 feet 7 inches this season, are other Olympic possibilities.

Few meets have offered better balanced competition in every event than the one on the Midway presents, nor a closer margin among the contenders for the team title. Keller has to face a good array of hurdlers, including Capt. George Saling of Iowa, Charles Sheifley, Minnesota; Hawley Egelston, Michigan; John Black of his own team; and Roy Black of Chicago.

The dash brings together a fast group, most of whom have done :06 3-10 in the 60 yard event. Donald Renwick, Jock Campbell, and probably Russell of Michigan, Harold Thompson and Walter Haas, Minnesota, and Jack Brooks, Chicago, are among the leaders. In the 440, Russell and Charles De Baker of Michigan, Fuqua of Indiana, Keith Hampton, Illinois, Sidney Dean, Iowa, and Morris Teitelbaum, Ohio, make a fast field.

Expect Record in Half Mile.

The 880, with Turnef and Charles Ecknovitch of Michigan, Hornbostel of Indiana, James Dille and George Arnold of Ohio, and Stuart Skowbo of Iowa should result in a conference record.

Henry Brocksmith, Indiana; Dean Woolsey, Illinois; Larry Kirk, Wisconsin: and Charles Popejoy, Purdue, are the pace setters in a mile that should go in 4:17 or better.

The crossbar in the high jump should be 6 feet 3 inches or better when Ted Shaw and Murphy of Wisconsin, Bryce Beecher of Indiana, and Cam Hackie of Wisconsin end their work. Hess and Beecher are expected to push the pole vault bar around 13 feet 10 inches in their private argument, with E. E. Lenington of the Illini, John Okerlin, Iowa, and Lovshin of Wisconsin close behind them.

NEED ONLY TWO MORE TEAMS IN CATHOLIC MEET

With only two places still being held open for final decision from several eastern teams, officials of the national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament yesterday announced that all was in readiness for the ninth annual meet, which opens next Wednesday night at Loyola university gymnasium.

Catholic High school of Little Rock, Ark., and Cathedral High of Sioux Falls, S. D., were added to the list of contestants yesterday. Both teams are the recognized Catholic prep champions of their respective states and have good records.

John Schommer and Nick Kearns, veteran officials, have been added to the staff which will handle the tournament games.

ITALY PREPARES FOR WAR BEHIND TALK FOR PEACE

Mussolini Develops Big Military Machine.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 9.—While Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, orates for peace at Geneva and cultivates the company of international bankers, Premier Mussolini, the big boss, stays at home and develops Italy's preparations for war. Military critics are now agreed that if he ever decides to engage in a bellicose adventure he will have a formidable fighting force behind him.

Since he came to power, Mussolini's chief care has been to develop Italy's fighting forces, and military education has been emphasized in his program to inject a new sense of discipline into the formerly easy going Italian race.

Under Mussolini the Italian air force was created, the army overhauled and doubled in strength, the militia added to it, and the navy developed to a point where it is able to put teeth in its claims to parity with France, which is a far richer and stronger nation.

Italy Prepared Now.

Mussolini has done this in ten years. As an interventionist in the late world war, and also as a soldier in it, he was well placed to observe the effects of Italy's unpreparedness. The forces he now has developed in Italy are far different from those which joined the Allies in 1915.

A periodical publication of the armed forces of Italy has as its motto the words, "Our surest peace is in the shadow of the sword." Under this inspiration Italy's Fascist organization has been forging a war machine of formidable dimensions. Even tourists may find the artisans of this machine at work every Sunday in all the hundreds of towns and villages of the country drilling and organizing all the youths between 18 and 21—there are about 1,200,000 of them—in what are called pre-military courses.

From one end of the Apennines to the other the hills resound with the sound of rifle practice. Younger boys between 14 and 18 all belong to a preparatory military formation called "advance guards," and even boys between 8 and 14 are drilled along military lines.

Service Compulsory at 21.

All this is preliminary to the 18 months of compulsory military service to which all are summoned at the age of 21. Formerly this call for military service provided the army. Mussolini anticipates it by having millions of boys whipped into shape as rudimentary soldiers long before they reach the age of 21. He is therefore several jumps ahead of his neighbors in the event of general mobilization.

Drawn from this man supply is Italy's standing army. There are 581,477 men constantly under arms, according to figures submitted to Geneva by the Italian government last fall. Some foreign military critics put the figure 200,000 higher. Whatever it is, it does not include 22,000 men of the air force or 51,000 of the navy. Before the world war Italy had around 275,000 men under arms regularly.

The Italian army as generally spoken of refers to the regular army. But Mussolini in 1924 created the voluntary Fascist militia, which equals in strength the regular army. Its strength was listed at 343,000 men in the last edition of the Statesmen's year book and at 89,000 in the Fascist government's reports to Geneva. The difference comes from the way in which the militia costs are listed in various departmental budgets.

Militia Well Drilled.

The militia is well drilled and organized. Some of its members volunteer as shock troops for ten years. Part of it is interspersed and brigaded with the regular army. Both are distributed over four new concentrated army areas. The regular army has been reëquipped and reorganized. Mussolini expressed high satisfaction with it at reviews last fall. In addition to the metropolitan army in the peninsula there is a native colored army in the colonies.

The Italian air force was nonexistent at the end of the last world war. Mussolini created it in 1925. It is one of the most formidable fighting machines in Europe. It now has 2,100 planes and aims at 4,500. Air Minister Balbo demonstrated its bombing possibilities in a mass formation flight to Brazil a year ago. A more spectacular demonstration was given last autumn in aerial games in which 1,200 planes engaged. It is organized into 99 squadrons with 1,941 officers and 21,040 men. Italian air lines have a web over the whole Mediterranean with well equipped bases.

Equals France in Cruisers.

Italy's navy has displaced France's in cruiser strength. Since 1927 Italy has laid down three cruisers a year to France's one. Italy's total of completed flotilla leaders and destroyers also shows a larger increase than France's. She is slowly implementing her claims to parity with France.

Although Italian national wealth is not great, Mussolini has gone in for competitive armament expenditure at a great cost, either for prestige, or for needs, as the case may be.

Military critics estimate that 40 per cent of the budget goes for national defense or for armament. This year's budget figure is placed at 20 billion lire. The Italian government reported to Geneva that it spent 6,328,000,000 lire on national defense last year. That makes between 30 per cent and 35 per cent of the total budget, and the 40 per cent total is reached in expenses disseminated in the budgets of the ministries of colonies, public works, national education, and communications.

Look to Balkans.

A new pier in the harbor of Durazzo in Albania will enable Italian soldiers to land directly from transports without use of small tenders and so facilitate a quick dispatch of troops to the Balkans. Strategic railroads have been built north of Turin toward the French frontier and the railroad system between the Brenner pass on the German side making a circuit around Switzerland to the French side is highly efficient in case Germany should ever be allied with Italy again.

Through all this Mussolini has been making Italy a factor which must be given far more importance in the next war than was given her in 1915.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

FARM BUREAU CHIEFS WILL MEET TODAY TO PLAN LEGISLATION

Farm relief legislation is again to become an issue with the opening of a three day session of the American Farm Bureau federation's board of directors at the Hotel Sherman this morning. Chairman James Stone of federal farm board and Chester Gray, the federation's lobbyist, are coming from Washington to take part in the deliberations.

JAMES C. STONE.

Among the 28 items of business on the program, it was learned last night, is one proposing the creation of a federation committee to work with other farm organizations to voice what agriculture wants in the national Republican and Democratic platforms to be planked in Chicago in June.

Another subject will be the methods by which farm organizations defend the farm board. It is expected that Stone will ask the federation to ease up on its lobbying in Washington to secure its "equalization fee" plan of crop surplus control, while the farm board is being threatened with congressional extinction.

At the same time the federation directors are meeting, a conference will be held in the Palmer house on methods for doling out 40 million bushels of federal farm board wheat to the needy. The meeting will be attended by officials of the American Red Cross, the Millers National federation, and the Grain Stabilization corporation.

HOUSE HONORS SOUSA; SYMPATHY VOTE IS HELD UP

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—The house of representatives halted its business for five minutes today to honor the memory of the late John Philip Sousa. Calling for the recess, Majority Leader Rainey [Dem., Ill.] declared:

"The world has lost a great musician. Sousa was the greatest bandmaster, the greatest composer of martial music who ever lived."

Passage of a resolution of sympathy was held up, however, by action of Minority Leader Snell [Rep., N. Y.] because it contained a provision for a congressional committee to attend the funeral.

"I do not like to do this," said Mr. Snell. "It is proper that we pay tribute to John Philip Sousa. But I do not want a precedent established."

7 Hours in Bed and Not 7 Minutes of Sleep!

The Toll Acidity Takes

You go to bed dog-tired, but the minute you hit the pillow sleepiness vanishes. If you do sleep at all, it's only in snatches and you wake out of these "stupors" with a strange, startled feeling, sometimes in a cold sweat. Morning finds you a rag, gaunt and hollow-eyed and barely able to crawl out of bed.

Acidity is due to our unnatural eating habits, our excessive smoking and irregular hours. The excess acid upsets digestion and causes acid-indigestion with gas and heartburn. It causes putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal which frequently results in ragged nerves, sleeplessness, logy days and general loss of strength and vitality.

A remarkable new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100 year old pharmaceutical house in Germany. As an acid corrective it begins where milk of magnesia and bicarbonate of soda leave off. This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxoids which do not have to be chewed, but which may be swallowed whole. Magnesia Oxoids, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen! Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxoids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

5-Day Acid Test

To ascertain just how "acid" you are, make this 5-day acid test. Get a bottle of Magnesia Oxoids at all Walgreen Drug Stores or any other druggist on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Mark the change in your physical condition—note how much more sound and restful your sleep and how much more cheerful and active your days. If you don't sleep better and have more "pep" and power, return the balance of the Magnesia Oxoids to the druggist and he will refund your money. A-3.

Earthquake Shakes Greek Island; 8 Hurt; Homes Fall

ATHENS, Greece, March 9.—(AP)—Eight persons were seriously injured today when an earthquake on the island of Cephalonia caused several houses to collapse. Extensive damage was reported.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

VARIED NATIONS TRY TO RULE TRADE IN SUGAR

Industry Finds Self in Chaotic State.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another striking illustration of how politics and governmental interference can demoralize a great industry is given by Earl D. Babst, chairman of the American Sugar Refining company, in his annual report, issued yesterday. Although consumption of sugar, particularly in the United States, has held up remarkably well, the various attempts at restricting production, fixing prices and imposing tariffs throughout the world have brought the whole industry to a chaotic condition.

"The sugar industry has been under direct government control, either in the United States or in Cuba, a total of 108 out of the 176 months, or over 61 per cent of the period, since Aug. 10, 1917, when the industry, without guarantees, voluntarily submitted to United States wartime control," Mr. Babst says. "Meanwhile, there have been numerous attempts at decontrol, the influence of which covered the greater part of the remainder of the period. Moreover, there have been two so-called international controls and numerous conventions, all with governmental support."

Cites Wartime Control.

Mr. Babst traces the control of sugar during the war, the subsequent attempts to regulate production throughout the world and their failure and the political attempts in different countries to control their own situations. All these events have hampered the sugar industry in the United States.

"There have been increases in duties, new bounties and taxes and various sugar legislation in 33 countries since August, 1930, all serving to displace Cuba and all entrenching her world competitors against the day when normal prices will return," he continues. "It is the old and natural reaction to international cartels. Even the United States, by three increases in tariff, has put Cuba at a greater disadvantage than she was before the war.

At Lowest Price Known.

"On Feb. 9, 1932, Cuban raw sugar sold at nine-tenths of a cent a pound without duty, delivered in New York, being the lowest price ever recorded. The present tariff rate is 2 cents a pound, so that the duty on raw sugar was equivalent to over 220 per cent of the value of the sugar. Congress failed to take into account the fact that a domestic refiner must import 107 pounds of raw sugar to make 100 pounds of refined sugar and thus pay $2.14 in import duties for every 100 pounds of refined sugar he produces, while 100 pounds of refined sugar from Cuba would be admitted for $2.12.

"Shortly prior to the act of 1930 the refining of sugar in Cuba for export to this country was begun on a large scale. Under stimulation of the new tariff that industry now is rapidly expanding."

Mr. Babst goes on to assert that a flood of imports of refined sugar, not only from Cuba, but from England and Germany, has resulted from this political action. More than 441,000 tons of domestic production were displaced in 1931 and millions of dollars have been lost to the domestic industry by reason of less wages and less use of supplies used by the refiners.

Government's Large Share.

American Sugar Refining last year melted 1,130,557 tons of raw sugar at a manufacturing profit of about one-fifth of a cent a pound after taxes and depreciation. Sales totaled $118,000,000, of which the government received $22,300,000 duties. Net income for 1931 was $4,155,030, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $2.23 a share on the common stock. In order to maintain common stock dividends the company withdrew $1,244,950 from surplus. Net income for 1930 was $5,957,134, equivalent to $5.57 a share on the common stock.

The company continues to enjoy a strong financial position, with surplus at $20,798,545, reserves at $12,203,971, and cash at $17,003,460. Moreover, of the $30,000,000 of bonds originally issued the balance sheet shows outstanding at the close of the year $11,085,000, which amount has been reduced to $7,585,000 by redemption of $3,500,000 on Jan. 1, 1032.

Francis H. Brownell, chairman of the board of American Smelting and Refining company, and Donald R. McLennan, president of March & McLennan, Chicago, have been elected to the board of American Sugar to fill vacancie

Realty Here Pressed Into Price Cutter

BY SCRUTATOR.

With a billion dollars' worth of real estate securities in default in Cook county and some twenty thousand foreclosure cases pending in the courts, it is becoming increasingly apparent that not only the property in default but other real estate as well will be severely affected by the readjustment of values now well under way.

The situation is not peculiar to Chicago. New York is experiencing the same difficulties, and so are all cities where real estate values have been inflated.

A vast amount of property that once sold at high prices and collected rents accordingly is being put through the foreclosure wringer and will emerge with capital written down to rock bottom and fixed charges greatly reduced.

Increases Renting Competition.

The man who buys a building at foreclosure for fifty cents on the dollar can cut rents accordingly and still make money. Also he can probably get a reduction in taxes.

People now coming into possession of foreclosed buildings are operating with one-half to one-quarter the fixed charges of concerns which have been able to hold on to their properties. Many of these stronger concerns may be forced to liquidate by this competition, particularly if they have to go on paying taxes on an assessment fixed in boom times while the foreclosed buildings are reduced to deflated levels.

Craig Hazlewood, who heads the committee that has been working out American Bond and Mortgage company issues, describes this as a "vicious circle." He takes the position, however, that no good can be accomplished merely by avoiding foreclosure.

"The damage has been done," he says. "Values have been forced down not by foreclosures but by the conditions which caused the foreclosures."

Herbert Becker, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, estimates the total principal amount of defaulted real estate bonds and mortgages in Cook county at nearly one billion dollars. He says there are about 20,000 foreclosure cases now pending. Last year only $20,000,000 actually went to sale.

Bondholders Would Bid.

"There are many millions of dollars' worth of property now pending in foreclosure that could be put up for sale at any time," says Mr. Becker. "In each case there is a willing buyer, because the bondholders themselves are ready to bid and take over the property.

"This property isn't moving because of the difficulty in raising necessary funds for new financing. There is almost no institutional buying of mortgages in Cook county at present. One reason for this is that insurance companies are investing in policy loans money that might ordinarily be available for investment in mortgages. Another is that the present tax situation in Cook county is discouraging purchase of real estate paper."

Mr. Becker explains that when property is sold at foreclosure the fixed charges under the new setup are usually exceedingly low. The new mortgage need only be large enough to pay off prior liens and expenses incidental to reorganization. A building that was formerly saddled with a million dollar mortgage may have to carry only $150,000 to $200,000 under the new ownership.

Can Show Depreciation.

If taxes are too high, the purchaser has a good chance to get them reduced, because to prove how much the property has depreciated he need only show the price he paid for it.

The fellow across the street or down the block who has a soundly financed building, however, is immediately put at a disadvantage. Competition from buildings that have gone through the wringer may force him to liquidate.

This situation is already serious, even though comparatively few foreclosures have been completed. As soon as property goes into default fixed charges cease to be a deciding factor and rents come down.

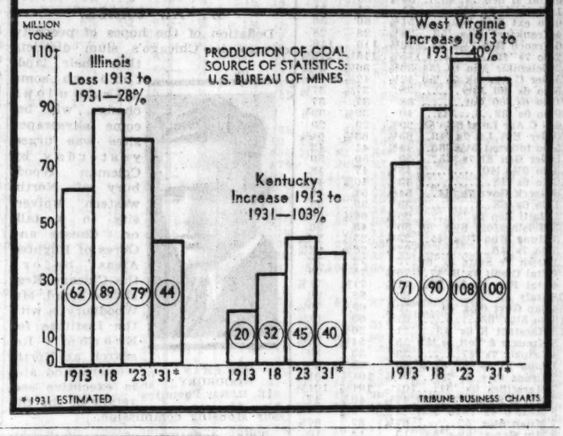
How the more than 20,000 pieces of property now in process of foreclosure and the other properties whose values are forced down by this epidemic of deflation and default can continue to support taxes levied on the basis of boom time appraisals remains to be seen.

France Bars U. S. Apples, Subject to San Jose Scale

PARIS, March 9.—(AP)—All fresh fruit and plants from the United States and Canada susceptible of carrying the San José scale were barred from France today by decree of the ministry of agriculture. Last year American fruit growers exported between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 worth of apples to France.

At the same time the ministry of commerce placed a quota on imported locks, keys, and furniture. The American commercial attaché was expected to file a protest, and Silas Strawn, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, said the International Chamber of Commerce would enter the fight against the French quota system.

ILLINOIS' COAL INDUSTRY DECLINES SINCE WAR WHILE HER RIVALS GAIN



AM. & FOREIGN POWER TAKES NO ACTION ON PREFERRED DIVIDENDS

Directors of the American and Foreign Power company yesterday took no action on the declaration of the quarterly dividends on the $7 preferred and $6 preferred stock, due at this time. Disturbed conditions throughout the world and the difficulties in converting into American dollars the monies of several of the countries in which principal operations are being carried on by the company's subsidiaries were cited.

The Niles-Bement-Pond company declared a dividend of 15 cents a share on the capital stock. Previously 25 cents quarterly was paid.

The Chicago Towel company declared a quarterly dividend of $1 on its common stock, thus establishing the issue on a $4 annual basis, against $5 formerly. The company also declared its regular quarterly of $1.75 on the preferred stock.

The Philip Carey Manufacturing company placed its common stock on a $5 annual basis by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1.25. Formerly the issue was on an $8 annual basis.

International Carriers, Ltd., declared a quarterly dividend of 10c a share. Three months ago 12½ cents was paid.

REPORT CHILEAN NITRATE TANGLE NEAR SOLUTION

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 9.—(AP)—The problem of the Cosach Nitrate Combine, $300,000,000 king of Chilean industries, appeared to be moving toward a final solution today. President Medley G. P. Whelpley, 39 year old former banker of New York, who came here recently to open negotiations with the government for a settlement, prepared to return by airplane to New York tomorrow to begin the actual reorganization of the huge company, which is controlled by American capital.

Mr. Whelpley and government officials have reached an agreement on the general principles on which the reorganization will be asked.

Nation's Monetary Gold Stock Increases $4,220,200

New York, March 9.—(AP)—All of today's gold transactions were in favor of the nation's monetary position. The New York federal reserve bank statement showed imports of $2,000,000 from Canada, $1,220,000 received at San Francisco from China and a decrease of $1,000,200 in gold under earmark for foreign account, the result of which was a gain of $4,220,200 in the country's monetary stock.

Power Output Decline Largest Since End of 1930

Electric power output for the week ended March 5 was 1,519,679,000 kilowatt hours, a moderate increase over the preceding week but 8.7 per cent below the corresponding week last year. This is the most unfavorable comparison with a year ago since the downward curve in power consumption started toward the end of 1930.

BETTER TIMES SEEN ALONG RAILWAY LINES

Earnings of the Chicago and North Western railroad are showing moderate improvement, Fred W. Sargent, president, revealed yesterday. The increase in revenues is due partly, he said, to an upturn in several of the manufacturing centers in the road's territory.

According to preliminary estimates, the railroad will show only a small net operating loss for February as compared with a January loss of $273,737. In February last year the road had a net operating profit of $383,775.

"Last month we also showed an increase in gross over the preceding month," Mr. Sargent said. "According to present indications, March will also show an improvement in both gross and net over February. Moisture conditions in our territory were never better, there being an abundance of rain and snow. The outlook for spring crops is excellent.

"The improvement in earnings is due partly to an upturn in the manufacturing cities, mainly Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, and Waukegan."

Car loadings on the Chicago and North Western railway from March 1 to March 7, inclusive, were 20,867 cars, compared with 28,121 cars loaded in the same period last year, or a decrease of 7,254 cars.

OTIS STEEL CO. REPORTS LOSS OF $1,571,342 IN 1931

Cleveland, O., March 9.—(AP)—Otis Steel company for 1931 showed a net loss of $1,571,342 after chargeoffs for depreciation and bond interest, President E. J. Kulas reported today. During the year $1,377,541 for maintenance and renewals was charged to operations. Since the start of 1925 a total of $15,307,701 has been charged to operations for maintenance and improvements.

Container Corp. Reports Net Loss for Year 1931

Container Corporation of America reports a net loss of $686,812 for 1931 after all charges, as compared with a net loss of $482,990 in the previous year. The financial position of the company at the close of 1931 showed an improvement over the previous year. Current assets were $3,641,372, including cash of $876,050, against current liabilities of $713,401. Cash was increased during the year, while receivables, inventories, and payables were reduced. President Walter P. Paepcke said that tonnage shipped last year was only 2.2 per cent below 1930, but prices were substantially lower.

Railroad Economist Urges Federal Bus Regulation

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—C. S. Duncan, economist of the Association of Railway Executives, urged federal regulation of bus and truck traffic in interstate commerce in appearing today as the second of the witnesses for the railroads in senate hearings on the Couzens bus bill.

He said regulation was needed because lack of it affected "the ability of the rail carriers to continue to furnish adequate service." Railroads have not made a fair return on their investments since 1920, Duncan said.

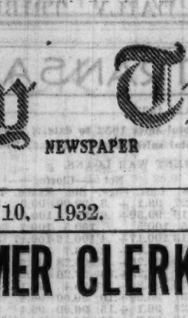
FORMER CLERK NEW PRESIDENT FOR U. S. STEEL

W. A. Irvin Succeeds J. A. Farrell.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—From shipping clerk to president of America's industrial giant was a 37 year story for William A. Irvin. The United States Steel corporation today appointed him president to succeed James A. Farrell when Mr. Farrell retires on April 19.



W. A. IRVIN.

Like many of the important steel executives, Mr. Irvin served without public fanfare. You will not find him in "Who's Who in America" or in any of the directories of directors; he seldom has been in the news. Even his election to a vice presidency of United States Steel last September was a quiet event.

Mr. Irvin's experience in the steel industry antedates the birth of the United States Steel corporation. To go beyond his first position with the industry, he started his career in 1888, at the age of 15, as a telegraph operator on the Pennsylvania railroad. If he had stayed with the railroad he might be listed among the dozens of key pounders who have become transportation chiefs. Instead he joined the pay roll of the P. H. Laufmann Company, Ltd., of Apollo, Pa., in 1895 as a shipping clerk.

Attended Night School.

His eduction in the public schools of his birthplace, Indiana, Pa., had been supplemented by night courses at the Indiana State Normal school. His training in steel began with the Laufmann enterprise, in which he worked through the various departments up to the superintendent's office.

When the American Sheet Steel company took over the plant in 1900 he was transferred to New York. In 1904 the merger of American Sheet Steel with the American Tin Plate company into the American Steel and Tin Plate company brought him the appointment to be assistant to the operating vice president in Pittsburgh.

For 20 years then Mr. Irvin filled that post. Next he was elected vice president in charge of plant operations with executive headquarters at Pittsburgh, and last September he was elevated to the vice presidency of the parent company.

He's 58, Has Five Children.

The new chief of United States Steel was 58 years old on Dec. 7 last. His 5 children by his marriage to Luella May Cunningham of Indiana, Pa., are Mrs. Frank Leitzell of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Herbert White of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Edward Hirsch of Philadelphia, William Archibald Irvin and Mrs. J. Stephens of Pittsburgh. His second marriage in 1910 was to Mrs. Gertrude Whitman Gifford of St. Paul, Minn.

Golf and horseback riding are his recreations. His societies include the American Society for Testing Materials, the Society of Automotive Engineers, the Pittsburgh chamber of commerce, the Duquesne club, the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania, the Pittsburgh Athletic association and the Pittsburgh Field club.

President Asks for Names of "Tight" Towns

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—A public contention that bankers have been hoarding and thereby restricting credit facilities today brought from President Hoover a prompt request that its authors name the towns and cities in which this has happened.

Benjamin Schwartz, director of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, who presented the accusation personally to the chief executive, asserted on leaving the White House he would forward by mail a list of towns within this category.

Schwartz headed a delegation of more than a score of members of the institute, holding a convention here. He handed to the President a lengthy petition and statement declaring many banks have refused to accept scrap iron accounts.

Threatens Jobs.

"This restrictive credit policy, if continued," the petition said, "will prevent the maintenance of the employment of hundreds of thousands of men who might profitably be employed in the machinery and organization of the scrap iron industry for the collection, preparation, and distribution of these by-products of American industry.

"This restrictive policy, if continued, will create a drain on the iron ore reserve of the country, while valuable raw materials are permitted to be dumped or to rot away, and will constitute a disservice to the national policy of conservation."

Conserve Iron Resources.

The statement asserted that approximately 40,000,000 tons of scrap iron were used in the manufacture of steel in 1929, and that this use conserved approximately 200,000,000 tons of natural resources in the form of iron ore and coal during that single year. It added that unless the use of scrap was continued available iron ore in the Lake Superior district would be exhausted by 1960.

Members of the institute delivered a pledge that the industry would "undertake a program to provide employment for the 200,000 people normally employed in the scrap iron and steel industry."

U. S. NOTES, BONDS IN PUBLIC HANDS OVER 17 BILLION

New York, March 9.—(AP)—The United States government had $17,459,156,290 bonds and notes outstanding in the hands of the public on Feb. 29.

The $17,459,156,290 total does not include the $900,000,000 treasury offering of this week, part of which will create funds for retirement of maturing certificates.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—The bears are beginning to prowl in Wall street again.

Traders inclined to the pessimistic view of things are becoming more active on the selling side of the market. One of the reasons is that the threatened congressional inquiry into short trading has been side tracked for the time being. Another is that they have received reassurances on the stock exchange's ruling requiring brokers after April 1 to get the written consent of customers before making use of stocks held for their account on a marginal basis in the loan market.

At least well informed brokers say so, and they back up their assertions with the declaration that the borrowing demand for stocks in the loan market is becoming more and more pronounced. It is now considerably more active than it was a week ago, they say, and growing more so every day.

List Falls Back.

At any rate, the list appears to be gradually falling back from the advanced positions it assumed when the threat of disciplinary measures at the hands of congress loomed so strongly awhile back. It perks up a bit for a session or two and then slides off to still lower ground.

Today it dropped back from 1 to 2 points, cancelling most of the gains run up so laboriously in yesterday's display of pool activity. Interest fell off with prices, the turnover subsiding to around 1,300,000 shares.

Trading was as featureless as ever—a bit more so in fact. American and Foreign Power issues attracted some attention by dipping to new low ground for the year to the tune of uneasy speculation over the outcome of the dividend meeting of the directors slated to follow the close of the market.

Disappointing weekly figures on the electrical output acted as a drag on the whole utilities group. The digits showed a slump of 8.7 per cent from the total of the corresponding week of last year, the sharpest decline for any week since the decline started.

Oil Shares Decline.

Oil shares came off their high horse and most of them wound up in the ditch with the best of the market. One large brokerage firm was conspicuously active on the selling side of this group for some mysterious reason. It was credited with having dumped more than 65,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sinclair Consolidated, Socony Vacuum, and other

ANOTHER GROUP REPORTS LOSS IN 1931 BUSINESS

Midland Utilities Has a Deficit After Dividends.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Midland Utilities company, one of the principal subsidiaries of the Insull managed Midland United company, yesterday issued its report for 1931 showing a substantial shrinkage in earnings for the year and a final deficit after payment of dividends on the preferred and common stocks.

Net income of the company for 1931 was $2,539,465, compared with $4,616,108 in the preceding year. Preferred dividend requirements totaled $2,512,971, which left a balance of only $25,494 applicable to the 278,000 shares of common stock which is controlled by Midland United. Dividends of $1,605,781 were paid to common stockholders which was at the rate of approximately $4.25 a share. This resulted in a deficit for the year of $1,483,610, as compared with a surplus after dividends in 1930 of $834,489.

It's an Investment Company.

Midland Utilities is an investment company controlling a number of utility properties in Northern Indiana and Western Ohio. Its preferred stock is held by the public and traded on the Chicago Stock exchange, but the common stock is controlled by Midland United company. Control of the Midland United, the parent firm, rests mainly with Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, Public Service of Northern Illinois and other Insull companies. Dividends on the common stock of Midland United were recently passed by directors.

The balance sheet of the Midland Utilities at the close of 1931 showed current assets of $9,392,184, including cash of $1,270,384, against current liabilities of $15,134,218. This compares with $10,782,385 and $7,805,459, respectively, at the close of 1930. Surplus at the close of 1931 was $2,516,960, compared with $4,603,055 a year earlier, the difference being the excess of common dividends over earnings.

CHICAGO STOCKS EASIER

Trading on the Chicago exchange quieted down yesterday with prices showing minor recessions. Interest still centered in the utility stock which followed the general trend and closed the day moderately lower.

Commonwealth Edison sold off to 94⅞ on a turnover aggregating 5,600 shares. Other Insull shares also sold off following the sharp upturn earlier this week. Middle West Utilities was active, but moved in an extremely narrow range and finished unchanged. Midland United closed at 2¼ on sales of 9,500 shares. Insull debentures were easier at 12¾.

In New York Middle West notes maintained a fairly steady tone with the June maturity quoted slightly lower at 51. Other maturities lost part of recent gains.

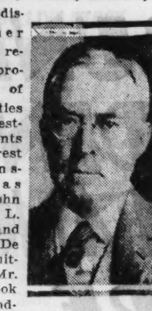
TWO EVANSTON FLAT BUILDINGS ARE REFINANCED

"Forestdale" and "Oakton Gables."

Transfer of two Evanston apartment properties yesterday to Harry G. Zimmermann disclosed further steps in their reorganization programs. One of these properties was the Forestdale apartments at 808-14 Forest avenue, Evanston. This was conveyed by John S. and Elmer L. Anderson and Theodore O. De Lang by quitclaim deed. Mr. Zimmermann took title for the bondholders' protective committee. It will be reorganized by means of the liquidating trust method. Bondholders will be given certificates of beneficial interest for bonds deposited.



PERKINS B. BASS.

The Forestdale apartment building is a three story and English basement structure occupying a 100x183 site, and containing seven five room suites and twenty-one apartments of four rooms each. It was completed in March, 1928. There are $170,000 first mortgage bonds now outstanding of the original issue underwritten by the State Bank of Chicago.

Oakton Gables.

The second of yesterday's transfers of the recorder's office was the Oakton Gables, at the southeast corner of Ridge avenue and Oakton street, in Evanston, occupying a site 143x271. The building was completed in 1927 and contains 46 apartments. There are a dozen six room suites; nine fives, twenty-four fours, and one five room flat in the basement. There is an office and a twenty-three car garage in the basement.

Title to this property was conveyed by Elmer L. Anderson and Theodore O. De Lang to Mr. Zimmermann. This also is a State Bank of Chicago issue and also will be reorganized by the liquidating trust method. Foreclosure proceedings are now pending on both buildings, but will be withdrawn when enough bonds are deposited to warrant this action, it is stated. Nearly all of the bonds have been deposited with the Chicago Title and Trust company, it is claimed.

Holman D. Pettibone is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee handling these two reorganizations and Charles Rothermel is secretary. The other members of the committee are Perkins B. Bass, Oscar H. Haugan, and William A. Peterson. Dent, Dobyns & Freeman are attorneys for the committee.

Greenwood Apartments.

T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for the Equitable Bond and Mortgage company's $175,000 bond issue on the Greenwood apartments, at 2 and Greenwood and Green street, in Maywood, announced yesterday that the receiver reports a cash balance on hand Jan. 31, 1932, of $9,033.

The gross income for the period from July 25, 1930, to Jan. 31, 1932, was $37,659. The disbursements totaled $28,626 for the same period. Operating expenses were $13,394 and receiver's fees were $1,000. Attorney's fees were $850. New furniture and fixtures cost $2,775. Refrigeration amounted to $3,167. Thirty-seven of the forty-three apartments were rented on Jan. 31, 1932.

COTTON CHANGES SMALL

Cotton prices moved within a narrow range, with a nice volume of business and a fairly strong sentiment in favor of the buying side, the continent being reported as one of the best buyers. Commission houses were the principal sellers.

Liverpool was weak and closed 6 to 7 points net lower, with sterling exchange slightly lower. At the close futures in Chicago were 1@4 points net lower, with markets 1@2 points lower and 1@2 points net higher, the latter in New York. Spots in New York were unchanged at 7.05c, New Orleans and Houston 6.95c and Galveston 7c.

Deliveries of American cotton to British mills in February averaged 32,000 bales weekly against 20,000 bales in January. Reports from the wholesale cotton trade in New York said sales of goods exceeded the mill output, reducing stocks to about the lowest on record. World's consumption of cotton for the past year ended Jan. 31 increased 306,000 bales of all kinds, with an increase of 662,000 bales of American cotton, mainly at the expense of East Indian and sundry points. Prices follow:

AROUND 120,000 BUSHELS OF CORN SOLD TO BRITAIN

1st Big Foreign Purchase in Many Months.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A sale of around 120,000 bu American corn was reported as having been made for export yesterday to Great Britain, the first large amount of this grain that has been disposed of abroad in many months. This sale and the possibility of further business were instrumental in bringing more general buying of corn futures, with the May advancing ⅞c over Tuesday's finish to 41c, the highest price since Feb. 19. Profit taking and the reaction in wheat checked the bulge and the close was well toward the bottom, with net gains of ⅛@¾c. May finished at 40⅜ to 40½c; July at 42¾c to 42⅞c, and September at 44c.

While confirmation was lacking, it was claimed that the corn sold was a Virginia variety, and the price was said to have figured out about 3¼c over Chicago May. No. 2 mixed in the local market was quoted at 4@4¼c under the future. Freight rate on corn from Chicago to Baltimore for export is 11¾c per bu.

Bids for More Corn.

Reports from the seaboard indicated there were bids in the market for more cash corn within 1½c of a working basis. The trade was encouraged by the sale as export business in corn during the last two years has been unusually light, total clearances from the United States in 1931 being only 2,384,000 bu, while in 1930 the total was 7,637,000 bu. In 1922, however, there was 166,000,000 bu cleared.

Prospects of a material broadening in the European demand for coarse grains was anticipated in some quarters as there have been persistent reports of liberal sales of Canadian oats and barley for export of late. Danubian corn for shipment when navigation reopens on that river has been in good demand from European consumers, and pronounced strength was shown in the Buenos Aires market yesterday, with the March there quoted at 35½c, or within 1c of the same delivery at Chicago.

The trade as a whole, however, refused to get enthusiastic over the possibility of export business in corn, as normally it has little lasting effect on the market, and stocks in sight and on farms are liberal.

Eastern Houses Sell Wheat.

Fair buying was in evidence in wheat futures early, with the local element taking hold on reports of further export business and relative strength in Winnipeg, but this class of buying was more than offset by persistent selling by houses with eastern connections. Prices dropped around 1c from the high point and closed within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses at ⅛@½c. March was 57¾c; May, 60⅞c; July, 62¾c, and September, 64⅝ to 64¾c.

Foreigners were credited with taking around 800,000 bu North American wheat in all positions, with France the best buyer of Manitobas. There were also sales of durums and American hard winters. According to German estimates that country should buy around 15,000,000 bu of wheat between now and the end of the season, but business is hampered by financial conditions. It was intimated that long term credits might be asked.

Liverpool Is Unsettled.

Thet gyrations in sterling exchange have unsettled the Liverpool wheat market, which closed ⅛@⅜c per bu higher, with May at 60½c, losing slightly on Chicago. Winnipeg was ⅜@⅞c higher at the last, with May at 67⅜c in Canadian funds, which were around 10¼ per cent discount. There was aggressive buying of the July future in the latter market by a house with seaboard connections early.

Little attention was paid by the trade to reports of dust storms and soiling blowing in western Kansas. Crop Expert H. C. Donovan wired that there was a lack of subsoil moisture in the western third of Kansas and in eastern Colorado, while Laird, who is out for J. E. Bennett & Co., found conditions poor.

Oats Fairly Strong.

Oats showed fair strength and closed unchanged at ⅛c higher, with May at 25¼c and July at 25⅜c. There was some buying of futures credited to houses with foreign connections, but nothing has been heard so far of any export business in domestic oats. The newly seeded crop in the southwest is said to have been badly damaged by the continued cold weather.

TO VOTE ON RULE

A vote will be held on the Chicago Board of Trade on a proposition to add No. 1 and No. 2 yellow hard winter wheat to the list of contract grades for trading on the board. Farmers in Illinois and Indiana say the yellow hard wheat should be recognized as a contract grade. It was conceded as such for a number of years, and about a year ago was eliminated.

BUTTER FUTURES FIRM

Another fractional gain was recorded in March butter on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing prices being up ½c, with April fresh standards unchanged. Egg futures closed ¼@½c higher. Stormy weather again proved the factor in encouraging better support in butter, the storage figures continuing bearish. Short covering was the more important supporting element, although new buyers were not lacking. Egg news was better, although trading was very light. The four markets reported 18,600 cases less in than last year. Sales: Butter, 67 cars; eggs, 9 cars. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 14,000.

The advance in hog prices was less vigorous yesterday. The trade's under tone, however, is as strong as it has been at any time since the market started upward. Good action in pork at higher prices increased the buying power of smaller local packers and city butchers, though the eastern outlet narrowed. Both the extreme top and general average prices moved up 5c more to $4.90 and $4.55, respectively, and are now 80c above the low day of the winter, Feb. 8.

With the exception of last Saturday, the hog market has scored advances every day since Monday of last week. Prevailing quotations are 40@50c above a week ago. Receipts are running exceptionally light for March. So far this month arrivals at Chicago show a decrease of 21 per cent, compared with the same period in 1931. Substantial decreases at some of the leading markets in the west are attributed to recent snowstorms.

Cattle Prices Better.

The cattle trade performed well on light supplies yesterday. The sharp advance in hogs has eliminated the heaviest handicap the cattle trade has had to contend with—low priced pork. All buyers were eager to replenish their beef supply, and price gains of 25c were general. Top sales reached the highest point since middle of last month, while the bulk of offerings are 25@50c above the low spot of last week. A feature of the trade was the larger number of well finished steers.

paid $8.90, the extreme top for 1,231 lb averages. Quotations at $8.00@8.75 were well represented with sales.

The bulk for the day, however, landed at $5.50@8.00. Butcher stock continued active and strong to 25c higher, with most sales 35@50c above the close of last week. Best action was noted in heifers, which are selling mostly 75c above the low time last week. Bulls gained 10@15c. Another sensational advance was scored in calves, sending top vealers up to $8.50. The general market is $2.50 above the low time of last week when $6.00 was the popular price for top vealers.

Top Lambs at $7.60.

Competition between local and eastern buyers drove lambs up 25c to new high levels on yesterday's short supply. Fancy 90 lb averages went to city butchers at $7.60, making the highest sale since middle of last October. Only one day has been higher since September. Shippers also paid the price later and local packers were buying at $7.25@7.50. Local houses ran short of supplies again, due to the large share of receipts going to shippers.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—SUGAR—Futures were easier today under increased liquidation and selling by producing connections, promoted by the more liberal offerings in the spot market. Prices at one time were 4 to 6 points net lower with some of the more active positions declining to new low records for the season, with May touching .83c and December, 1.01c. Covering by trade interests against sales in the spot market checked the decline, although the undertone was still unsettled with the market at the beginning of the last hour, at or within a point of the lowest. Futures closed easy, unchanged to 6 lower. Approximated sales, 21,800 tons. Prices follow:

Refined sugar was unchanged at 4.15c for fine granulated with only a light inquiry reported.
